INSPECTION OF SCHOOL DELAYED

Visit of Governor Spry to State Industrial Institution Is Postponed.

(Special to The Herald-Republican.)
Ogden, Dec. 30.—The State Industrial school is under partial quarantine for sanitation, and the contemplated inspection by the Governor and board of trustees which was scheduled for tomorrow has been called off.

The patients in isolation, and the only one who has thus far shown symptoms of the dread disease, is Mrs. Margaret Mason, the young wife who looks her agreement with the juvenile court a week ago and was found with another girl in two soldiers in a Salt Lake rooming house.

Mrs. Mason was subsequently returned to the school, and this morning because ill with what Dr. Dickson later pronounced as measles. The patient was quickly removed to the isolation ward and a strict quarantine has been placed over the girl's cotage.

Governor Spry and the board of trustees of the school had planned a trip of inspection to the institution tomorrow, but owing to the circumstances the visit has been postponed indefinitely.

CHAIN GANG IS USED TO REPAIR CITY STREETS

Mendicants, Vags and Petty Thieves Will Work Out Sentences by Improving Public Highways.

(Special to The Herald-Republican.)
Ogden, Dec. 30.—Jail labor is being tried out by the city engineers with much success, according to G. S. Barker, chairman of the street committee, and there is no probability that it will be continued indefinitely.

When the street commissioner contemplated the method of convicting mendicants, vags and petty thieves, his experience could find little that promised anything in the way of real labor. In fact, he doubted if they would do enough work to pay the wages of a guard.

A few weeks of trial, however, has demonstrated that the plan to work the men on the streets in a good way and a surprising amount of road work has been accomplished. Portions of Twenty-third street, Pinyon avenue, Oakland avenue and Thirtieth street have been nicely graded and present a very favorable appearance.

POLICE COURT CASES

Petty Offenders and Human Derelicts Face Bar of Justice on Various Charges.

(Special to The Herald-Republican.)
Ogden, Dec. 30.—Several cases of minor importance were brought up in the municipal court this morning and disposed of in record time.

Edward F. Jones entered a plea of guilty when charged with having hit his horse untied, and was assessed a fine of $5. Joe Wells forfeited a similar amount by not appearing on the same charge.

Daley Dooley, who was implicated in an affair yesterday morning in which two Italians were arrested, attempted to extort money from his victim, a man from Boise, pleaded guilty to the charge of extortion and was fined the usual $10 and costs.

James Grimes, who was arrested Tuesday night on the charge of carrying concealed weapons, and who was suspected of having been implicated in a recent safe-blowing, was arraigned on the charge mentioned and entered a plea of guilty. Owing to a desire of the police to more carefully investigate Grimes' record, his case was ordered continued.

CHANGE IN ALLEGATION

Instead of Pettit Larceny, Edward Munsey Must Face Accusation of Receiving Stolen Property.

(Special to The Herald-Republican.)
Ogden, Dec. 30.—Edward Munsey gained a technical victory in police court this morning when arraigned on the charge of petit larceny, there being no evidence introduced to show that the defendant had received stolen property in the larceny of the groceries, the theft of which was confessed last week in an Ogden boy who also implicated Munsey.

At the time the complaint was drawn, City Attorney Devine advised that the charge be one of "receiving stolen property" rather than "petit larceny." The latter charge, however, was preferred and the case was dismissed as stated.

The police state that a formal complaint of receiving stolen property will be drawn against Munsey tomorrow.

PETITION FOR LICENSE

Ogden, Dec. 30.—At the special meeting of the city council last night the Jones family moved over to the council for a renewal of its license. An ordinance was recently passed prohibiting the issuing of any more licenses for employment agencies on Twenty-fifth street. Counsel for the employment agency claims that inasmuch as the agency has been established there for several years, the ordinance does not affect them. The matter was referred to the license committee.

QUIT CLAIM DEED FILED

Ogden, Dec. 30.—As an outcome of the dispute of last summer as to possession of the Ogden Canyon sanitarium, quit claim deed was filed with the county recorder today by which J. H. Kuris conveys the property to Brigham H. Roberts for $1 and other valuable considerations.

JOHN T. BALLANTYNE DIES

Prominent Citizen of Riverdale and Former Bishop of Seattle Answers Final Summons.

(Special to The Herald-Republican.)
Ogden, Dec. 30.—John T. Ballantyne, aged fifty-four years, died at 10 o'clock this morning at his home in Riverdale, death being due to inflammation of the sciatic nerve. He had been ill about two weeks.

The deceased was a brother of Professor Joseph Ballantyne of Ogden and was a member of the presiding bishop of Seattle. He afterward moved to Riverdale, where he has resided since, carrying on his usual business in that work. He was the father of thirteen children.

Funeral services will be held at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Riverdale meeting house, interment in Ogden city cemetery. The body may be viewed at the home Saturday afternoon and evening, and also Sunday morning.

THREE SUSPECTS IN JAIL

(Special to The Herald-Republican.)
Ogden, Dec. 30.—Three men suspected of complicity in crimes recently committed in Weber county are held in the city jail. From later developments it is thought by the police that George Miller is not denominated as was at first supposed, but is a desperate character who had a part in a recent safe-blowing, was arraigned on a mail box robbery last week, and also with the blowing of the safe of J. L. Slope.

MINING PROPERTY SOLD TO SATISFY JUDGMENT

Power Plants at Sevier and Fish Creek of Consolidated Company Bring $20,000.

(Special to The Herald-Republican.)
Hatch, Dec. 30.—To satisfy a judgment rendered December 16 in the case of the Kimberly Mercantile Supply company vs. Gold Mountain Consolidated Mining company and H. Baerly, W. Elley and E. W. Crane, Jr., as intervenors, all the personal property and the deficiency in cash, the property at Sevier and two on Fish creek, R. W. Sevier, receiver, acted as auctioneer. The most important of the property sold included one power plant at Sevier and two on Fish creek, R. W. Sevier, receiver, acted as auctioneer. The bidding began at $10,000 and advanced to $20,000, which was the amount until $20,000 was reached, when Mr. Packard was declared the owner of the property. The mines and prospects were sold, because no bids were received. They remain in the hands of the receiver.

Provo Brevities

(Special to The Herald-Republican.)
Ogden, Dec. 30.—Deputy Sheriff P. Baerman was fined $10 for neglecting the stock and building of the Boyce & Hughes saloon under an execution in favor of Leizer & Lindley. The judgment creditors bought the property for the amount of the judgment, $50, and have arranged to continue the business.

A marriage license has been issued John W. Somerville of Springville and Margaret Wilcox of Provo.

William Norman of the Sixth ward has returned from a mission to Scandinavia, where he has been laboring for about two years.

NEW MERCANTILE COMPANY

(Special to The Herald-Republican.)
Provo, Dec. 30.—Articles of incorporation of the Reclivade Mercantile System have been filed with the county clerk. Provo City is the general place of business.

The company takes over the business and property heretofore owned by the Fourth Ward bakery and will engage in the general mercantile business. The capital stock is $10,000, in shares of the par value of $10 each. There are also provisions for 1,000 shares of preferred stock, which is free stock and has no monetary value, but shall have the voting power of the corporation. Each holder of common stock, regardless of the amount of his common stock, receives and holds one share of the preferred stock, but no more.

AGED MAN IS LOST IN THE FOOTHILLS

J. F. Wilcox, Grand Army Veteran, Wanders for Hours in Cold and Darkness.

(Special to The Herald-Republican.)
Farmington, Dec. 30.—Lost in the foothills near Farmington after nightfall, J. F. Wilcox, 65, a veteran eighty-nine years of age, wandered aimlessly about in the cold and darkness nearly a whole night before he was found by a searching party. When discovered the aged man was almost dead, and it took some time to get him now in a serious condition at his home here as a result of his arduous experience.

Mr. Wilcox has some fish ponds located in the foothills about two miles from Farmington and Wednesday afternoon started out to visit them. He lingered so long at the ponds that darkness settled before he started home.

On the way back the veteran became confused as to his route and wandered into the hills in an opposite direction to his home.

When Mr. Wilcox failed to appear at home after night neighbors formed a searching party and went out until 4 o'clock in the morning scouring the hills in search of some track of the missing man.

Stumbling aimlessly about, numb from cold and almost too exhausted to move, Mr. Wilcox was finally discovered by a searching party and taken to his home, where he is under medical care.

Mr. Wilcox had been out for some time and had been only that he had walked for miles and miles through the darkness without having found some familiar spot that would set him on his right road home.

OLD SOLDIER DIES FROM ATTACK OF PNEUMONIA

John Houston, Who Came to Utah With Johnston's Army, Succumbs to Brief Illness.

(Special to The Herald-Republican.)
American Fork, Dec. 30.—John Houston, a resident of this city for the past forty-nine years, died suddenly at his home in the Second ward last night at 8:45 o'clock, after a brief illness.

He had been indisposed for a few days, having caught a heavy cold, and yesterday he developed into a severe attack of pneumonia.

He was born in Scotland on May 2, 1827, and would have been seventy-four years of age today. He had spent fourteen years he left his native home and came to America, locating in "Canada" in 1841, where he remained until he came to the United States and enlisted in the United States army as a drummer boy. He came to Utah in 1857, with Johnston's army, and instead of returning with the army, he secured his release and cast his lot with the pioneers.

He was married to Mrs. Gardner, a widow with one child, in 1860, and came to Ogden in 1881, where he has resided ever since. He was an active man and held many positions of trust, both for the city and county. He is survived by one son, and two daughters, his wife having died a few years ago. Funeral services will be held in the Second ward chapel Monday.

TO FORM BUREAU OF INFORMATION

Business Men of Provo Discuss Plans for Campaign of Publicity.

(Special to The Herald-Republican.)
Provo, Dec. 30.—A number of public-spirited business men and others seeing the necessity for, and the benefits to be derived from acquainting the county at large with the advantages and opportunities of the Provo section, are considering the advisability of organizing and maintaining a bureau of publicity and information.

Such a bureau will, without doubt, be established. Its object will be to advertise Provo and the surrounding country through the press by pamphlets and to have information in available form ready for inquirers. It is a desire to know about this section and what it offers to people who contemplate a change of residence or desire opportunities for investments in lands or to engage in business or in manufacturing enterprises.

PROVO COURT NOTES

(Special to The Herald-Republican.)
Provo, Dec. 30.—The case of John Hone vs. John Waters is being heard by Judge J. E. Booth in the Fourth ward court. Plaintiff seeks for the return of certain personal property of its value, $435, and for $100 for wrongful retention of the property. The defendant claims he has a right to hold the property, which was received by him in connection with his lease of plaintiff's farm in Benjamin. He asks for $200 damages by reason of alleged failure on the part of plaintiff to comply with the same terms, merely because there is an old saying, he said, "that teachers are born, not made, but I suppose this is true of everybody else—the successful farmer, his lawyer, doctor, all are born to answer a certain call of nature."

He said that the teacher was placed in a peculiar situation in the professional world. Two or three essentials go to make up the professional teacher, he said. The first of these he declared to be the influence of the teacher in the school room, which he said should dominate over the children. A gift between the spirit of the children and that of the teacher would result in disaster.

The second requisite, he said, was that the teacher always be young, that he should never be more than thirty years of age, though he hastened to add that you could not tell by the "moral" of years a man had lived. He said he was declaring that the spirit of youth was often found where the hair was white, while, he said, age was to be found in many of those youngest in years.

The last essential is beauty, which requisite he defined more as spiritual than of body. Selfishness is one of the unpardonable sins marring the beauty of the teacher.

Following the address of Dr. Cook, a resolution was presented which was adopted by a unanimous vote, providing for the presentation of a suitable gavel to the retiring president from the members of the association, as a token of esteem for his unswerving efforts for the welfare of the association.

President Thomas rose to speak, but was plainly overcome by his emotions and, unable to speak, called on the vice president to preside.

CLOSING SESSION OF THE CONVENTION

Retiring President Thomas Gives Way to Incoming Leader, Mr. Merrill.

With nearly one thousand persons present at the evening session in the assembly hall, the seventeenth annual convention of the Utah Teachers' association came to a close last night after the retiring president, Mathias Thomas, had extended thanks to the teachers, the trustees and all who had worked toward making it one of the most successful conventions in the history of the association.

The evening session was opened with the announcement by President Thomas that Professor J. F. Merrill of the University of Utah had been elected president of the association for the ensuing term. Professor Merrill was escorted to the stand by A. C. Nelson, state superintendent of public instruction, and accompanied by his family.

Musical numbers were rendered by Fred C. Graham and the Commercial club quartet, following which Dr. John W. Cook was introduced as the speaker of the evening. President Thomas taking occasion to offer the thanks of the association to Dr. Cook for the benefit and services rendered by him during the convention.

Dr. Cook spoke on "The New Profession," which he defined as being a profession of teaching, declaring that teaching was drifting more toward the professions every day.

In commencing his address, Dr. Cook said that workers were of two classes, the professional and the non-professional. The non-professional worker, he said, worked by the rule of the thumb, mechanically, content to drift along on the same lines, merely because it had always been. This, he declared, was not practical education or only one-third of education. The things he said, was to be found among the professional workers. The spiritual education, he said, leads the professional workers always toward the light, finding them always ready to break rank to take up new work for progression.

"There is an old saying," he said, "that teachers are born, not made, but I suppose this is true of everybody else—the successful farmer, his lawyer, doctor, all are born to answer a certain call of nature."

He said that the teacher was placed in a peculiar situation in the professional world. Two or three essentials go to make up the professional teacher, he said. The first of these he declared to be the influence of the teacher in the school room, which he said should dominate over the children. A gift between the spirit of the children and that of the teacher would result in disaster.

The second requisite, he said, was that the teacher always be young, that he should never be more than thirty years of age, though he hastened to add that you could not tell by the "moral" of years a man had lived. He said he was declaring that the spirit of youth was often found where the hair was white, while, he said, age was to be found in many of those youngest in years.

The last essential is beauty, which requisite he defined more as spiritual than of body. Selfishness is one of the unpardonable sins marring the beauty of the teacher.

Following the address of Dr. Cook, a resolution was presented which was adopted by a unanimous vote, providing for the presentation of a suitable gavel to the retiring president from the members of the association, as a token of esteem for his unswerving efforts for the welfare of the association.

Educators Tell of Utah's Great Need in Education

SO many urgent needs in education have been advanced by the various speakers in attendance at the seventeenth annual convention of the Utah State Teachers' association that the most prominent of the lecturers were interviewed yesterday in regard to the greatest needs. Each of the eminent speakers was asked: "What in your estimation, is the most urgent need in education in Utah?" Here is what they had to say:

Elmer E. Brown, United States commissioner of education—"While I am not as familiar with Utah's problems as some of the other states and in favor of compulsory attendance.

Dr. John M. Tyler of Amherst—"There are so many things that are needed it is almost impossible to list one of them as the greatest. The country, this includes Utah, wants better instructors, more instructors and instructors who understand the laws of nature."

Dr. John W. Cook, president Illinois State Normal school—"Teachers who know children and who can make study so interesting that it will be a pleasure. Better pay is the way to get them."

Mathias Thomas, former president of the Utah State Teachers' association—"Greater exercise of care on the part of the trustees and teachers so far as relates to the abnormal child. Along this line the educational system of Utah is woefully and criminally weak."

John M. Mills, city superintendent of Ogden schools—"Medical inspection and the appointment of competent medical examiners. Two-thirds of the stupidity and awkwardness in the schools is due to physical defects such as adenoids and weak eyes."

F. M. Briggs, superintendent State school for the deaf and blind at Ogden—"More medical treatment and transacting business as usual when attorney Jerome stepped rapidly down the aisle.

"Your honor," he began hurriedly, "I am here in the Robin case. It appears that the defendant has taken a drug. He cannot be stimulated. An ambulance has been summoned and surgeons are now pumping his stomach. The delay is unavoidable."

Dr. Austin Flint, retained by Jerome, who called the assistant district attorney asked him what Robin had said.

"He said," answered Dr. Flint, "I am a dead man; I've taken poison tablets. I found his face flushed, his pupils at his eyes dilated, his pulse just and feeble. He told me he had swallowed the poison three-quarters of an hour previously."

The case was postponed until the receipt of further advice as to Robin's condition.

Robin's frustrated attempt on his life today leaves the question of his sanity still open. Dr. William Mayble for the state and Dr. Austin Flint for his defense examined him last night and found him physically able to appear in court today, but they did not pass on his mental condition.
