GANS WAS MASTER OF RING TACTICES
 (By ED SMITH.)
 Chicago, Aug. 15.—The "old master" is passing and with him will pass the colored fighter's guidebook to boxing.
 Joe Gans did much for his fellow colored men who aspired to shine in the prize ring. He taught them, by example, most of all that pertained to greatness in the prize ring. Like a great baseball pitcher, he had "everything."
 There wasn't a trick that he didn't know and couldn't work. There wasn't a single fine point of the old Queensberry code upon which this once famous colored man hadn't worked.
 Gans practically has passed out. He was in Chicago recently and the physicians traveling with this once mighty man of the 133-pound division said that he could scarcely live more than a few hours. He wanted to get on to Baltimore and see his old mother once more before the end was reached.
 Doubtless his constant reduction in weight had something to do with his contracting the dread white plague. Probably late hours and all-night sessions at the gaming table had more to do with it. For Joe was a gambler, pure and simple. Despite his native shrewdness and his seeming cunning in other ways, he never could get the notion out of his head that he could beat the various games, especially the "bones."
 But while he was boxing—and his career went from 1891 to 1907—he invented more "great stuff" for others to copy than perhaps any fighter, black or white.
 If you are familiar at all with the methods of the present day colored fighters, you may have taken note of them that almost all of them box with the left arm well extended and the glove open. Note, too, that Jack Johnson belongs to this class. Gans probably was the first man to introduce that style. He kept the open glove waving tantalizingly in front of an opponent's face. More than one rood fighter was badly rattled by this method of combat, the left hand always a blind for the terrible right that Gans could slam in at such short range and with such deadly effect.
 The system of fighting was extensively copied by all of the colored fighters, and traces of Gans are to be noted today in the work of Jack Johnson, Sam Langford, Sam McVey, Joe Jeannette and others, big and little. The late George Dixon, who began his career before Gans started his, also was an inventive genius, but not the master that Gans afterward proved to be.
 All of the colored fighters have their little boxing eccentricities, but most of them are not hard to trace back to the great colored Baltimore idol, the man who always knew his place and was endeared to everybody he ever met, despite the treacherous management that once made Joe do things that were obnoxious to him.
 Gans was of the most kindly disposition of any of the fighters, and never felt it too much trouble to go out of his way to show an aspiring fighter just how he worked this punch, or that one or effected this block or that one.
 In the matter of defense he was greatest of all. His style of blocking and hitting with the same motion, one with his skill and force was copied far and wide, but nobly ever perfected to the same degree that Gans did.
 They talk about Johnson catching the blows like a man catches baseballs—Gans did that 15 years ago, before Johnson was ever heard of outside of his own family. And he could catch a blow, too, almost before it was started.
 Truly he was the only one "Old Master."

BAILEY ANNOUNCES FUTURITY ENTRANTS
 NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Senator J. W. Bailey of Texas, president of the American Association of Trotting Horse Breeders, has notified the trotting horse breeders club that final payments have been made for twenty-five colts and fillies to start in the $15,000 matron futurity stake race for 3-year olds on August 23, the opening day of the New York Grand Circuit meeting at the Empire City track at Yonkers.
 Senator Bailey will come from Texas to attend the meeting.
 Among those eligible to start are:

Native Bill, 2:07 3/4, holder of the world's record for two year olds; Colorado E, a colt that trotted a public trial in 2:06 1/4 a few weeks ago; Emily Ellen, 2:10 1/4; Eva Bellini and Eva Tanguay.
 It will be the first battle between Native Bill and Colorado E, and horsemen expect to see the fastest race on record for three year olds, when these two wonderful young trotters come together.

OGDEN TO HAVE ANOTHER BANK
 Ogden is to have another bank. Utah and eastern capitalists have decided that the local field presents a promising aspect for an additional banking institution and a company has been formed for that purpose.
 Thomas D. Ryan, assistant cashier of the Pingree National bank, will be at the head of the institution, the officers, directors and stockholders of which have not as yet been announced for publication.
 The bank will be under state supervision and will make a specialty of trusts and savings although a general banking business will be conducted as well. Quarters have been secured on Washington avenue, in rooms formerly occupied by the Postal Telegraph company, where a suitable vault is already installed. Elegant banking fixtures have been ordered, together with a complete line of banking stationery. It is expected that the bank will be ready to open its doors for business about the first of September.
 Thomas D. Ryan has been in the banking business for the past 17 years and has earned a respected place among those more prominently identified with the line of endeavor as a careful, conservative banker and a keen judge of financial conditions.
 Mr. Ryan came to Ogden in 1893 from Rock Springs, Wyoming, where he was manager for a number of years of the mercantile institution of Kinney & Co. His first venture in banking business in Ogden was with the Commercial National bank of which he acted as cashier for nine years. Following an absence of four years in the east on sick leave, he returned to Ogden and was engaged as assistant cashier of the Pingree National bank a position which he has held with eminent success for four years.
 Mr. Ryan's resignation from the Pingree bank went into effect yesterday and he will now be occupied with matters pertaining to the opening of the new institution of which he has been chosen the head.

LITTLE SON DIES FROM INJURIES
 William Alfred, aged four, son of William E. and Lena Hamby, died at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of his grandmother, 2237 Washington avenue, from injuries received last Tuesday by being kicked on the forehead by a young colt.
 The child was visiting in North Ogden and was playing with a kitten when in some manner he got within range of a colt's heels and was kicked over the right eye. Physicians who attended his injuries found that his skull was fractured. In addition to this blood poisoning set in which resulted in convulsions and death.
 The parents of the child are pros-

HER HAND AND ARM BURNED AND ITCHED
 Could Hardly Sleep at Night for About 11 Months. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment and was Completely Cured.
 "My mother had a red spot on her right hand which began to grow worse rapidly. The neighbors said it was a cancer, but she got some medicine from a doctor, but it did not do any good. In about a week the tumor began to break out on her arm too. She used five or six different kinds of liniments and three different kinds of salves. Not one of these did her hand up. The next morning we all noticed a great improvement. Before she had used a half of a box of Ointment and a very little soap, her hand was completely cured. Now her hand is as well as ever. I think Cuticura Soap and Ointment is the greatest skin remedy ever discovered." C. E. Candy, San Leandro, Cal., Mar. 7, 1910.

FOREST SERVICE OFFICIALS MEET
 An important conference will be held in Ogden next week between the local officials of the Forest Service and a committee of government officials from Washington, D. C., representing the Department of the Interior and the Department of Agriculture.
 James M. Sheridan, chief of the field division of the general land office; D. D. Bronson of the Forest Service; and R. W. Williams, Jr., assistant solicitor of the Department of Agriculture, have been delegated to visit the field agents of these two branches of the government service in the west with a view of promoting harmony and co-operation between the land officials of the general land office and the Forest Service in the settlement of homestead claims within the boundaries of the national forests.
 The delegation will leave Washington, D. C., on Thursday. Besides Ogden, the more important conferences will be held at Missoula, Portland, San Francisco, Albuquerque and Denver.

THE BIG FAIR AT OGDEN
 Ogden, Utah, has certainly inaugurated something that will please all sheep and wool men in securing the International Sheep Show and Auction Sale. In the past, it has been the source of much expense and annoyance to the sheep men to visit the herds of the various breeders in different parts of the country to provide his flocks with the requisite number of rams each year. By bringing the breeder and the buyer together, gives the purchaser a large assortment from which to select, and at less expense, also the breeder an opportunity of meeting the sheepmen on their own grounds. It further aids the breeder in the way of avoiding the enormous expense of reaching out and hunting up buyers for his offerings. Recently the desire has been advanced among sheepmen to patronize the breeder who comes out and mingles with them. Knowing that this is the right way to sell the breeders will be on hand with their herds, making the largest collection of blooded sheep ever assembled at one place.
 All at the Four-State Fair, Ogden, September 23rd to 29th, 1910.

trated with grief over the sudden taking away of their little one and the sympathies of the community are extended to them in their bereavement. Funeral arrangements will be made later.

NORTH WEBER STAKE OUTING WEDNESDAY

Once each year the Young People of North Weber Stake, members of the Young Ladies' and Young Men's Mutual Improvement Associations, get together in an outing to strengthen acquaintanceship with each other and enjoy themselves in sports and dancing. This year's outing will be held at the Hermitage in Ogden Canyon next Wednesday, August 17th.
 Each ward association will provide one number for the list of sports and contests to be carried out in the afternoon, and in the evening a grand ball will be held, music for which will be furnished by Short's orchestra. An invitation is extended by the North Weber Stake young people to all their friends and acquaintances to join them on their outing.
 Mr. and Mrs. James Rae, formerly of Ogden but now residing at Salt Lake, are registered at the Reed.
