REPUBLICAN TICKET.

For President, WILLIAM M'KINLEY, Of Ohio.

For Vice President, THEODORE ROOSEVELT, Of New York.

It is not clear yet what the Kansas City convention will do. Though it looks like Bryan, 16 to 1, etc., are inevitable, still there is opposition to a specific silver plank in the platform which may change all calculations. It is possible for the convention to force Bryan off the ticket and create a split in the party, resulting in two tickets, if Ross Bryan does not have his full way. There is much politics yet in the convention's outcome without a doubt, no matter which way the party "cat" jumps.

Though Kansas has such another wheat crop as was never before known the shortage in the Dakotas and Minnesota will reach 14,000,000 bushels. Things generally even up so that the supply is equal to the demand.

The war in South Africa still exists in spite of the victories of the English. The Boers seem to have as many lives as the proverbial cat.

The November entries are now about up. The bell will soon tap, but there will be no scratching until November. How are you going to place your money.

The government proposes to open up for settlement what are known as the Kiowa and Comanche Indian Reservations. They embrace about 2,000,000 acres, and will be added to Oklahoma, thus lending symmetry to the geography of that territory. The government has paid the Indians $2,000,000 for the release besides having set aside 425,000 acres for division among the Indians themselves. These are the last of the unoccupied arable lands in the southwest and already hundreds of homestead seekers are gathering on the borders awaiting the order to move in.

The success of a serum cure for yellow fever has been demonstrated in the American hospital in the City of Mexico. The serum worked effectually after black vomit had set in. Trials are to be made on the coast with the serum.

Berlin reports the successful test of an aerial ship which carried four passengers safely the distance of 35 miles. The fact has created much interest in the navigation of the air and another demonstration by this machine is promised.

If only the would-be governors and the receptive candidates go to the Democratic state convention the attendance will be fairly large. Almost every hamlet in the state has developed a citizen willing to serve the state as chief executive if the people will so favor him. But they are all chasing six ignis fatuus, for the next governor of the state will be a Republican.

The New Canal, Conn., branch of the Consolidated Electrical road has adopted a car which makes a mile a minute. The car has very properly been placed in use on the line named.

The Lexington Herald reviews the speech of Judge Tarvin, of Covington, in which he declared himself a candidate for governor on the Democratic ticket and for a revision of the Goebel election law, and says the speech puts the judge out of the race. The Herald might have gone a little farther and also said that the judge's record won't let him in the race and would result in his defeat even if it did. No gubernatorial candidate who comes out of Covington is wanted by the state. One experience of this kind is surely enough.

The university regents who object to attendants upon their schools playing basket ball and other outdoor games in bloomer costumes are the fellows who go down to the water's edge at the sea resorts and remain all day watching the girls deport themselves with an expression which uncovers the side of sin—in the briny, frothy, and frothy world in this world is their Woman's Severest Trial.

Until recent years woman's severest trial has been the bringing of children into the world. In most cases even were the hollow receptacle discovered the work around would have to be cut away, so complex are the fastenings. Most of the orders come from women—and rich people of course—and I have no doubt that a desire to hide articles from too curious servants dictates the orders.

IN A NUTSHELL

An old bachelor says that some women are born foolish, some achieve folly, and the rest marry fools.

This country last year exported more meat products, leaving out sheep and mutton, than all the rest of the world combined. The amount was nearly $200,000,000, and the great crops of Indian corn are the foundation of the trade.

On the population of the United States returned by the twelfth census range all the way from 79,000,000 to 100,000,000. The treasury department figures the per capita circulation of money on the estimate of 71,000,000 of population.

Muellage or paste can be neatly and easily applied by a new device, which has a tubular reservoir to contain the liquid, with a brush on one end, the opposite end being provided with a spring plunger which forces the glue into the bristles for use.

Trades unions hitherto have been but little known in Paris. It is now announced that the 3,000 assistants employed in the three great shops, the Bon Marche, Louvre and Samaritaine, are meditating the organization of an association of this kind.

Canadian Indians in summer prefer to live in their tents, now made of canvas, as buffalo hide is scarce, but in winter take up quarters in their small wooden huts. Many of these so far civilized "reds" have agricultural machinery and ponies and cattle of their own.

There are over 600 acres of Philadelphia land under cultivation south of Fort street, in the district known as the Neck, and there is now living in Germantown a man who has amassed a fortune of $500,000 in raising early vegetables in that locality.—Philadelphia Record.

Maad—So you are going to be queen of the May tomorrow. Have your costume ready? Pauline—Yes. Papa bought me an extra heavy pair of gum boots, a double thick waterproof, a pair of mittens, a pair of three-ply woolen stockings, a pair of ear muffs, and a new umbrella.—Harlem Life.

Should One Sleep After Eating?

We would not revert to this oft-discussed question to give any one's theoretical views or personal belief in the matter, or to bring forward the familiar argument, that because animals sleep just after they have eaten, hence the human animal should do the same, says the Medical Record. Dr. Schulte of Philadelphia, has, however, approached the subject from the chemico-experimental side, and his results are worthy of record. Having analyzed the stomach's contents in two normal subjects a few hours after meals, some of which were followed by sleep and others not, he finds that sleep has for its constant effect the weakening of the stomach's motility and at the same time there is an increase in the acidity of the gastric juice. On the other hand, simple repose in the horizontal position stimulates the motive function of the stomach, but does not increase the acidity of gastric juice. The conclusion is hence reached that, while one should stretch himself out for a rest in the horizontal decubitus after a hearty meal, he should resist the tempting Morphine, especially if there be present a dilated state of the stomach or if its juices be hyperacid.

SOLDIERS' WILLS.

How the English Private Disposes of His Belongings.

How does the soldier killed in battle or fatally wounded, dispose of his property, providing he has any to leave behind him? The list of casualties reported regularly from South Africa and the Philippines lend pertinence to the inquiry. Every English soldier has served out to him when he enlists a little volume which contains, among other things, three blank forms of will which he is at liberty to fill out at his leisure. In a majority of cases, however, he pays no attention to this pocketbook and goes into battle with his will still unmade. After he has been hit by a bullet and begins to realize that his chances of getting home are small, the soldier begins to think more carefully of the loved ones left behind him and of the provisions he has made for their comfort. As a result many queer and pathetic wills have been found upon the bodies of dead soldiers, and in every case the wishes of the testator have been respected. During the Indian campaign of 1858 the body of one soldier was found on the battlefield of El Teh, who, before death had scrawled with the end of a lead bullet on the inside of his helmet, the words "All to my wife." When an English army invaded Afghanistan one soldier was caught while doing some scout duty and shot down when one of his comrades was in sight. Weeks afterward his body was found lying before a tall rock on which he had written in letters of blood, "I want all to go to mother." In both cases the war department held the wills to be valid, and saw that the proper distribution of the property was made.

Secret Drawers in Furniture.

"Most people seem to think," said a maker of furniture, "that secret drawers and hidden receptacles in furniture are only exist in novels and plays, but this is by no means so. I very frequently take orders for such items and I employ a clever woman designer, who shows positive genius in planning places of concealment which no amount of tapping or measuring could reveal. In most cases even were the hollow receptacle discovered the work around would have to be cut away, so complex are the fastenings. Most of the orders come from women—and rich people of course—and I have no doubt that a desire to hide articles from too curious servants dictates the orders."

Misses Visit Coming Down.

The famous Kinzua viaduct, near Bradford, Pa., which has for years been an object of curiosity for sightseers, is soon to be replaced by a wholly different structure. The bridge is 301 feet high at the highest point, and until the completion of the Garabit viaduct was the highest bridge in the world. The Garabit spans the Truyere in the south of France, is 1,849 feet long and at the highest point the rail level is 401 feet above the river. It was designed by M. Eiffel, builder of the famous tower, and was completed in 1884. The Kinzua bridge is 2,060 feet long. The valley of the Kinzua, which this great trestle spans, is one of the wildest regions yet left in western Pennsylvania. Bear and plentiful and deer are occasionally found in this valley.
