

State's Militiamen Are Ready for Immediate Service Governor Is Advised of the Situation Does Not Believe It Will Be Necessary to Send Troops

Strike Breaker Is Charged With Murder Company Gives Bail for Several Men Taken Tuesday

LOS ANGELES, May 8.—Governor Gillett, after receiving reports direct from San Francisco and from Adjutant General Lauck, late tonight stated that his information was so reassuring that he did not believe it would be necessary to send troops to the city and that he was satisfied the constitutional authorities are able to cope with the situation. Before retiring, however, the governor left orders to be called if any message came for him. He also sent a long telegram to Sacramento in which, among other things, he stated that unless his presence was needed he would not change his plans and would remain here until the end of the week and then probably would visit other points in this part of the state. He appeared to be pleased with the news he had received from San Francisco, but so long as there is continued danger of more rioting he will not cause the troops here to be dispersed.

The order issued by General Robert Wankowski at 2 o'clock this morning, directing that the various commands composing the first brigade be assembled under arms at their various headquarters, was the result of a mistake. Adjutant General Lauck called up General Wankowski by telephone and requested him to proceed at once to San Francisco, there to confer with other military authorities. The telephone service was such that General Wankowski misunderstood the request, and thinking an order had been issued for him to proceed north with his command he immediately issued an order to Colonel Finley of Santa Ana to assemble the Seventh regiment immediately. Within less than three hours every one of the twelve companies of the regiment had been assembled, and had it been necessary the regiment could have been moved by sunrise. The same order applied to the other commands of the first brigade, and more than 2,000 men were ready to proceed for any service required of them. When Governor Gillett learned of the order he communicated with Sacramento and learned the truth.

General Wankowski left immediately for San Francisco, but before his departure it was decided to hold the troops in readiness for such a time as conditions in the north indicated that their services might be required. The various companies of the Seventh regiment remained under arms all day and are still ready for

Strike Breakers Take Great Pride in Courting Danger

Some of Them Offer Money for a Chance to Run Out Cars and Defy Mob

Like the mercenaries of old who in a single year fought under the banners of a dozen dukes are the men whom the United States has recruited to San Francisco to break the car strike. To them all masters look alike and all causes are just. They make their bargain, enlist for a campaign and expect many a hard knock before their time of service expires. It is peace come early in a campaign so much the better, for then they collect the full amount of the contract wage and are free to go to the aid of some other embattled corporation. They look upon all strikes as wars, and speak of themselves as "soldiers of fortune."

These men make no pretense of seeking steady employment. They call themselves just what their employers and the public call them—strike breakers. Their task is to brave the mobs and stand firm under showers of missiles, to take curses and blows; even to face bullets. Their work gains no immediate dividends. The profits of the company come afterward, for if they are successful the way is cleared for the hiring of men who run cars for a living.

The strike breakers now here are not Farleyites. James Farley has not been here since last September, and only one of his men is in San Francisco. That one wandered into the carbars at Turk and Fillmore streets the other night and was given a job tending gate. The band now being housed and fed behind a closed door was gathered by the Thiel detective agency of Chicago. Nearly all of them come from the middle west and south. Many have seen service in a score of strikes, and have records that run from Waco, Texas, to Montana, and they are the stormy petrels of the industrial world. To them trouble means money and excitement, and like a soldier, they are always ready to move on an instant's notice.

Strike breakers of the type brought to San Francisco take a pride in courting danger. When the men in the Turk street burling hole yesterday that they would no longer be permitted to carry arms while taking out cars, they made no objection. The plan of taking two cars out under those conditions was then announced. Volunteers were called for, and enough men responded to provide triple crews for a dozen cars. As the company did not want to change its plan, the manning of the two cars became a matter of selection. After the necessary number of men was picked out, the remaining crews were named envious of what they called the luck of their fellows. Some of them even offered money for a chance to take a car out, but could find no one willing to forego his opportunity. The members of the two crews were told to cast aside all weapons. One man retained a blackjack. A search by the leader of his crew revealed the weapon.

"None of that," said the searcher, seizing the blackjack and throwing it on the floor. "Don't make a fool of yourself."

The cars went out and came back. Some of the men returned with bloody faces, but as soon as their wounds healed they will go out again. Meantime their places will be taken by others who have not yet had a chance to show their mettle.

For such service the strike breakers get $250 a day and board. According to one of their number, they have a written contract for two months' pay, regardless of the duration of the strike. If they accomplish their pur-

BIG STEAMER WRECKED ON COAST OF URUGUAY

French Vessel Poitou on the Rocks, but Passengers Are Rescued

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, May 8.—The French steamer Poitou, from Marcellles April 6 for this port, has been wrecked off San Jose Ignacio, on the coast of Uruguay. She is understood to have had 160 passengers on board, and according to late reports nearly all of these have been rescued. The vessel and her cargo will probably prove a total loss.

Son Jose Ignacio is a small rocky promontory surrounded by reefs 20 miles west of Cape St. Marlas, on the southwestern coast of Uruguay and about 150 miles from Montevideo. The vessel was driven on the rocks yesterday. She lies 30 yards from shore near a little town called Rincon de Herrero. A heavy gale has been blowing for several days and it still continues. This renders the work of rescue very difficult.

MARSEILLES, May 8.—According to dispatches received here from the agents of the company that owned the French steamer Poitou, wrecked on the coast of Uruguay, all the passengers and crew are safe. The passengers are being transferred by steamer to Buenos Ayres. The crew will remain on board until all hopes of refloating the vessel are abandoned. The dispatches say there has been no loss of life. There were 160 passengers on board the Poitou, mostly Spanish emigrants.

ELKS RECEIVE MELVIN

Exalted Ruler Is Honored by His San Jose Brothers

SAN JOSE, May 8.—With Grand Exalted Ruler Judge Henry A. Melvin as guest, the local Elks tonight threw upon their new clubrooms underneath the Empire theater and held a reception that quite eclipsed anything hitherto attempted in San Jose by the order. A reception committee consisting of Exalted Ruler Simpson and Dr. A. M. Barker met Judge Melvin at the depot and escorted his party up to a local grill, where an informal banquet was held. In the evening a formal reception took place in the new rooms at which were present nearly 600 people. Judge Melvin has just completed a tour of inspection of every lodge in the United States and is now about to close his travels by visiting every lodge in California.

Strike Breaker Is Charged With Murder

Company Gives Bail for Several Men Taken Tuesday

The strike breakers arrested on Tuesday and whose names were registered on the detinue book were charged at the city prison yesterday. Jess Lamar was booked on a charge of murder. He is accused of fatally shooting James Walsh, the young chauffeur. James Willey, who fired a shot at Policeman A. J. Mogan, was charged with assault to murder. W. J. Nelson, Carl Stone, Ben A. Stubbs, Milton E. Starke, Starling F. Harbour, Frank Ward, Earl Park and George Williams were charged with carrying concealed weapons and discharging firearms within the city limits.

Philip Landau and Peter Ferguson, who were charged on Tuesday afternoon with assault to murder, appeared before Police Judge Weller yesterday. They were represented by Attorney T. M. O'Connor, who has been retained by the United Railroads to look after the cases of all the defendants. The prisoners were instructed as to their rights and their cases continued till May 15. O'Connor put up $1,000 cash bail for each of them, but they were immediately booked on an additional charge of discharging firearms within the city limits. O'Connor again came to their rescue and put up $100 cash bail for each on the new charge. Landau later had a further charge of assault to murder booked against him on a warrant sworn to by William Vandervoort of 1357 Stevenson street, who declared that Landau deliberately fired a shot at him. After nightfall all the accused left the police station in a covered wagon in charge of Inspector Kelly.

Orchett Rodolfo, a sand teamster, charged with assault with a deadly weapon for throwing a brick and hitting Mounted Policeman James M. Mann, was arraigned before Police Judge Cabanis yesterday morning. The case was continued until May 11 and the defendant's bail was fixed at $200 cash. The defendant admitted throwing a brick at the policeman, but Mann said that he did not believe that it was that particular brick that hit him, but one thrown by another person. William Fargey, a strike breaker from Chicago, was arrested early yesterday morning by Captain Martin. Fargey had made his way unobserved out of the stockade at Fillmore and Turk streets and was on his way back with two bottles of whisky when Captain Martin saw him. A loaded revolver was found in his pocket and a charge of carrying a concealed weapon was booked against him. He is said to be a "dope fiend."

An amusing incident occurred at the city prison yesterday morning. Attorney O'Connor had given G. D. Bertha, a negro proprietor of a restaurant at 111 Powell street, instructions to supply meals to the imprisoned strike breakers. The "trustees" in the prison heard of it and they warned Bertha that if he brought meals to the strike breakers they would break all his dishes in pieces. Bertha preferred to save his dishes, and informed O'Connor that he would not supply the strike breakers with food.

President Cornelius of the carmen's union visited the prison yesterday afternoon, as he was anxious to have a look at the strike breakers. He recognized three or four of them as being among the crowd brought by Fargey from the east during the strike last fall. One of them wept when he saw Cornelius and told Cornelius that things had been grossly misrepresented to them in the east.

It was rumored around police headquarters yesterday that one of the strike breakers in the stockade at Fillmore and Turk streets is a son of the notorious Jesse James. The son was arrested in Chicago for train robbery in 1888 and jumped his bail. At the time his photograph was published in the Chicago paper, the Detective, and a reward offered for his arrest, but he always eluded capture.

Expects to Operate More Cars Today

Mounted police and patrolmen in automobiles will report this morning at the various car barns of the United Railroads, and Patrick Calhoun will make an attempt to operate cars on different lines on a more extensive scale than was attempted yesterday. Chief Dineen will not act as he did yesterday, when he disarmed the strike breakers on the cars and saw that they were not attacked by union sympathizers and hoodlums, who disgraced San Francisco on Tuesday.

At the Oak and Broderick streets barns men from the park police station under Captain Gleason will be prepared to guard the cars from strikers and their friends and to see that the strike breakers are not armed. Captain Mooney will be on guard at the Fillmore street barn with a large force, and in the Mission Captain Anderson will be prepared to act if Calhoun should decide to move cars from the Valencia and Twenty-eighth streets carhouse, which has been especially prepared for barracks for the strike breakers.

Simultaneous operation of separate car systems is the hope of the United Railroads officials and the accomplishments planned for today.

TIRES OF IMPRISONMENT
Thomas Johnson, under arrest on a charge of having illegally obtained money from the United Railroads, yesterday filed a petition in the supreme court for his release on habeas corpus. Johnson, who was a foreman in the employ of the company, is accused of having stuffed the payroll.

Liver Sluggish? Make the Skin Help

The pores of the skin are the body ventilators—keep them open. When the liver is sluggish, circulation is slow; the skin and all organs suffer; yellowish pigment is deposited from the waste-charged blood throughout the skin, and the very pores become clogged.
