The situation on the Pacific coast is not so much of a race problem as a labor problem.

Have you paid your poll tax? If not the time is drawing near when it will be too late. Better attend to it at once.

Millionaire Corey of Pittsburg announces that he will take a three years wedding trip. He probably thinks that his affairs will cease to be a nine days scandal by that time.

Senator Foraker has never been afraid to be understood as the enemy of the President, but it is not possible that he would willingly have placed himself in a position to be defended by Senator Tillman.

On the principle that the older a child is the more care he needs, the steel industry of this country which is as great as all the other steel industries of the world combined, needs more protection than an infant industry.

Good for Cypress Bayou.

The following telegram was received here from Hon. Morris Sheppard on Tuesday:

"Cypress Bayou gets $10,000 and another examination. This puts Cypress River on list of live rivers."

This was good news for all who are interested in our navigation.

We see that the editor of the Case County Sun is suing some of his subscribers who are in arrears three years and over in the justice court at Liden. We think he is right, as a publisher cannot get along unless he gets paid for his paper.

When one reads the New York and Newport society columns of the monkey dinners and the pig on millions of the smart set, one feels sort of elation that at least Col. Mann of Town Topics was able to humiliate them.

This country seems to be doing so much business that it can't do it. Witness the car famine which seems to be pretty general not only in the west but throughout the country.

The Thaw trial is on now in New York and the big dailies will have all they need to fill space for the sensational reader.

BAILEY'S SOLILOQUY.

To investigate or not to investigate, that is the question. Whether it is nobler to conceal from the voters the art of amassing an immense fortune.

Or tell the truth, and stop this investigation. To quit, to step down and out. No man to acquire the much coveted wealth. The heart aches for a thousand political loans. That a political life is heir to, 'tis a consummation Not devoutly to be wished. To quit, to step. To borrow, perchance to dream, ah, there is the rub. For in the quitting, what dreams of the poor house may come. When I have severed my connection with millions. I must give a pass. There is the friendship That makes a fortune for so long a life. For who would not bear the whips and scorns of time. The oppressed people's curses, the poor man's continually, The pangs of despised love, the law's delay, The insolence of the oppressed and the squire. Hot politics merit the worthy borrow takes. When he himself his fortune might make. With unsecured notes which no collateral bear. Or to grant and sweat out a laborious life. But the dreaded something after an honest investigation, The undiscovered testimony from what effect. No political aspirant could return to office—puzzles the will. And make me rather bear the ills I have. Then fly to others I know an investigation will bring. Thus conscience does make cowards of us all.

Look for Gas and Oil at Jefferson.

Col. E. W. Taylor is back from a visit to his old home at Jefferson in the piney woods section of Texas.

As late as 1871 Jefferson was probably the best business point in Texas. That was before railroads revolutionized business in Texas and when cotton was the main product of the county to Jefferson and sold. When the railroads came, however, Jefferson declined, but from what Colonel Taylor says there are brighter days ahead for the erstwhile metropolis of East Texas. He said:

"There is plenty of money at Jefferson, and more is coming in. I expect to hear of a genuine substantial boom in the oil town. Lumber is now selling for $5 a thousand in the trees growing in the woods, and there is more activity in the saw mill business than I ever knew."

"Besides this there is a movement to revive the iron industry in Jefferson and Marion county. Memphis parties are now on the ground investigating the iron plant there and propose to take it over and start up the business of making pig iron and manufacturing iron goods. Years ago there was a stove foundry near Jefferson operated by a man named Kelly, who was successful in the business, making stoves that sold all over Texas. He got his iron on top of the ground near where the foundry was located, the face of the country being covered with boulders of good rich iron ore, and there is plenty of iron in that section now."

"The Memphis parties are also leasing all the land in that section, including town lots, for the purpose of drilling for gas and oil. The belief being that that entire section is rich in both. Should oil and gas be discovered there, as I believe it will be, and the iron industry is started up again, old Jefferson will boom again and once more become the metropolis of East Texas. Being at the head of navigation on Cypress Bayou, favorable freight rates will enable them to successfully compete for business with any part of Texas. I feel that there is a bright future for Jefferson."

Colonel Taylor was at one time, in the palmy days of the town, mayor of Jefferson, and was a potent factor in building the east line railroad to McKinney—St. Worth Telegram.

MOORE'S CHAPEL DOTS.

Jan. 17—We are having some warm weather now.

Miss Loubet Moseley, Virginia Maxwell, Mary McAdoo, Mr. Lawrence Bramlett and myself look dinner last Sunday with Mr. John Howard and family to meet their brother, Andy Howard, from Greenville, S. C. Mr. Howard went to his brother, Jeff Howard, Tuesday night, and on Wednesday Sunday afternoon a good number were out to preaching and also at night, to hear Bro. Hambley, who gave us a fine sermon.

There was a musical given at Mr. Frank Maxwell's last night in honor of Miss Loubet Moseley, our school teacher, on her birthday. Her brother, Postel, was there. She received a few nice presents. Thirty-six young people were present. We all had a delightful time until ten o'clock, then we had goodnight. Twelfth Smith.

Notice.

Having sold my farm I am offering for sale cheap my mules and buggy horses, milk cows, hogs, some corn fit hogs, that I will furnish to parties wanting same dressed. Will weigh from 90 to 200 pounds. Also 90 bushels of Pecos cotton seed, the earliest cotton ground, extra long staple, the kind to beat the boll weevil with. See me or write me on route 2, six miles north of Jefferson. H. D. HALL.

Notice.

We have had so many calls from foreign advertisers and some subscribers for issue of IMPLECRITE of Dec. 29 1906. Will say that no JIMP. was issued on Dec. 29th. We took holiday that week and so notified all advertisers in issue of Dec. 22d, and marked notice to them.

Education in Business.

In the New Idea Woman's Magazine for January appears an interesting interview with a clever woman who has worked up a unique business for herself in the publishing world. This woman, Miss May Langdon White, is conversant with the work of publishing from beginning to end, and finds sufficient occupation in giving sufficient occupation in giving assistance of various kinds to authors and publishers generally. Miss White predicated tact and education as the essentials to success in the publishing world, and indeed in any line of business. "I am inclined to think," she is quoted as saying, "that the question of education is very closely wrapped around the success of women in business. Possibly the ordinary type of business woman is only a partial success. Possibly we do not know how many of us have been tried and found wanting in the qualities that help men to surpass us. But, the ordinary type of business woman is not well educated. I rather believe the ability to get an education usually carries with it the force of character necessary to succeed in business. The woman who has some thought to acquire an education may in the majority of cases be counted upon to use the same sense in learning how to earn her living. The highly educated are frequently said to be too impractical for every day purposes. I think such cases are the exception."

A Splendid Compliment.

Resolutions passed by the Texas annual conference, at Tyler, Tex., Dec. 3 1906:

Whereas, the Tyler Commercial College of Tyler, Texas, looks carefully after the morals of its pupils and strives to develop them in character as well as education, and whereas, it is the policy of this church to foster Christian education in private institutions, as well as in our church schools, be it resolved, that this conference heartily endorse the Christian work of that great institution and commend the Christian gentleman at its head.

This is, perhaps, the first commercial school in the South to merit the endorsement of a large religious body. While the school is un denominational, it pays special attention to character building and the moral surroundings of its students. The marvelous success of this great institution is mainly due to its use of the famous modern Byrns Systems, and its sending its students away morally strengthened, instead of moral wrecks.

Farmers, What Are You Doing?

To this Jim: Mr. editor, will you allow me in your columns to write a few lines, as I have not written for some time.

Well, Bro. Farmer, let's try something new this year, as Mr. Boll Weevil has stepped in here now, and plenty of them. There is no use to try to head them off only by planting something else besides so much cotton. Plant anything you can use and a little to sell. So try and do so and don't depend on cotton for a living.

Well, brothers, there were several of you did the same thing I, myself did last week, took two or three days from home on special ventures, and had to be there on expenses and get nothing for it. O, what a shame for men to be taken up and carried off for two or three days away from their home and family and get no pay. I think they ought to have $1.00 per day at least. That would pay expenses. As it is we get nothing for our time unless we are chosen as a juror. Well, the most of us are poor farmers, something the world don't need of late in some people's eyes, and at last the foundation of the world, and the world cannot do without us. Let us go on. Our time is coming. Some day, we know not when, we will all be judged alike, money or no money, according to the deeds done in the body and here on earth. I, myself, am a farmer by occupation, a Baptist in belief, a follower of Christ, not of the Pope of Rome. I believe in one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one way to heaven, and that way is the right way. Whatever you are don't take up with everything that comes along and says my way is right. Remember the Book of Life says that not every man that saith Lord, Lord, entereth into the Kingdom of Heaven, but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in Heaven. I don't say that I am right. I am only trying to follow the Bible.

I have a good farm 10 miles east of Jefferson on R. F. D. No. 6, 75 acres, 41 in cultivation; as good farming land as there is in East Texas; high and healthy; made with two plows last season about $800 worth of product. I have a good orchard, two wells of water, one well of as good water as ever was drank; seven milch cows. My timber is all oak; have no pine timber; as good indication of oil and gas as there is in the county. I have one acre of land which, when it is drilled, it will yield a good crop of oil and a good wagon and a good sized mare. I will sell all for cash. I am not advertising for sale.

Before I close I want to say a few words concerning our road commission. I would like for someone to tell me how they would like to be taken off your road running through your land that you had to pay for and right by your door, go two miles to work another and then have to put in five days, and the one you was taken off of worked two days only. There is no justice in such laws. I think every man ought to work the same on public roads. Some one tell me if that is law.

FROM THE ANTLES.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy Benefits a City Councilman of Kingston, Jamaica.

Mr. W. O'Reilly Fogarty, who is a member of the city council at Kingston, Jamaica, West Indies, writes as follows: "The bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy had good effect on a cough that was giving me trouble and I think I would have been more quickly relieved if I had continued the remedy. It was beneficial and quick in relieving me there is no doubt and it is my intention to obtain another bottle." For sale by all druggists.
