

Waists Worth up to $3.50 for 98c

On Sale Tomorrow Morning Promptly at 8 o'Clock

It's the year's briefest and most exciting annual sale. To explain—The makers of best Shirt Waists critically examine and class as "seconds" any waist with slightest defect. A tiniest oil spot, or an uneven stitch condemns any one. These "seconds" come to the Palais Royal annually, at a nominal price. 98c tomorrow for waists worth up to $3.50. Times readers are fortunate—the waists arrived yesterday evening just as the Times advertisement was being written. The Times readers have a "scoop." Note—The doors will be open promptly at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning, and early visitors are promised the year's best bargains.

$3.98 for Dresses Selling in New York Stores at $6.90

The Palais Royal "buyer," Miss M. Clancy, is just from New York, and is ready to vouch for the statement—that she saw Dresses selling there at $6.90, identical to those that will be on sale here tomorrow at $3.98. They are Shirt Waist Dresses of white dotted muslin and India linen, with tucked and embroidery-trimmed waists and tucked skirts; some with deep flounce. Eight styles in all. Either it is that New York's trading stamp craze is an expensive luxury or it is that the Palais Royal Mill and Factory Sale is creating lower prices than possible elsewhere in the United States. It's one or the other—New York's $6.90 Suits are here at $3.98.
