GENERAL FILMDOM NEWS

Helen Holmes at Dream.

Helen Holmes is a daring screen actress. In "The Girl and the Game," which was one thrilling railroad story at the Dream last night she certainly made a tremendous hit. "The Brink" a powerful Mutual Masterpiece was the feature of the program and is an absorbing story. It is well acted, well set and pleased. Same bill tonight.

Tonight at Coliseum.

Tonight the Coliseum will run a regular movie program. The big feature will be the Gold Rooster play in five acts entitled "John Glayde's Honour." This is a film by the Frohman Amusement corporation and features C. Aubrey Smith supported by Mary Lawton a talented and pretty woman. A man's attention to his business, forgetting his wife, and the latter's falling in love and eloping with an artist, is the story.

Strong Orpheum Bill.

Robert Mantell, Genevieve Hamper and Stuart Holmes held two audiences in wrapt attention at the Orpheum last night when "The Unfaithful Wife," one of the best of the Fox plays was produced. The exterior scenes, taken at Shadow Lawn, President Wilson's summer home, are excellent. The plot is not grewsome but pointed. Excellency is written all over this play. "The Unfaithful Wife" will be given tonight for the last time.

At Douglas Orpheum.

"The Pitfall" a striking story, filmed by the famous Kalem company, abounding in thrilling situations, intense plot and well acted and set, was the new bill opening at the Orpheum last night. This feature is up top as well as the two reel drama run with it. The last runs will be shown tonight.

Vivian Martin at Lyric.

Vivian Martin, one of the daintiest of stars, will be the feature at the Douglas Lyric tonight in "The Little Dutch Girl," an adaptation of Ouida's "The Little Wooden Shoes." It is a pathetic story and this charming little lady tells it as only Vivian Martin can. This is a Shubert feature and is certainly good.

Coming Attractions.

Tomorrow night the Dream will present George Beban in "An Alien" an eight reel feature, the first to be shown in the north. At the Orpheum Nance O'Neil will be shown in another triangle play, the wife, the woman and the man, the production being the "Souls in Bondage." This is a Lubin feature and was released only a few months ago.

Grand Trunk Scenery.

At the Coliseum last night the 1500 feet of Grand Trunk railroad scenery was shown and delighted those who witnessed it.

Leave It To Mary.

Leave it to Mary Pickford to do something new.

She has a regular theatrical advance agent for her first superfeature, "Less Than the Dust."

Wells Hawkes, her personal representative, is now touring the country in the interests of this picture. The trip brings Hawkes in touch with the newspapers, only as he will not come in contact with the theatres or the exchanges.

Hawkes is the one best man who could have been chosen for this important work, as he has a world of experience. He toured the country for the Charles Frohman attractions, and later was responsible for much of the succes sof Ringling Brothers while acting in the same capacity.

This is the first time that a motion picture feature has ever had an advance agent.

DR. BEVIS SAYS WILSON WILL BE ELECTED SURE

A posteard received from Dr. Earl M. Bevis, formerly of Juneau, says that after traveling all over the Middle West and as far East as Rochester, New York, he is convinced that President Wilson will be re-elected, and says that is the concensus of opinion wherever he has been. The card was written from Chicago, and was dated October 9.

MANDATES ARE FILED FROM CIRCUIT COURT OF APPEALS

The mandate from the Circuit Court of Appeals which affirms the decision of the local court in the case of W. N. C. Waddleton against S. H. Milwee has been filed in the District Court. The suit was over the possesion of a certain lot in Juneau located back of the Elks Hall and the possession and title of the lot was decided to belong to Waddleton. Waddleton was suing for the dispossession of Milwee, who claimed his right by purchase from other parties. Waddleton was in possession and had been for enough years to give him title to the lot according to the decision.

J. H. COBB SPEAKS IN BEHALF OF HIS HIS OWN CANDIDACY

Before a crowd of 300 people, part of whom had been attracted by the free picture show, part of whom would not have gone without the knowledge that Mr. Cobb was to speak, and part of whom went there to hear him, our worthy, "fellow townsman for the past 19 years," urged his candidacy for the office of attorney-general at the coming election in November.

At times Mr. Cobb called out scattered applause from those present. He accused the Empire of giving the credit for securing the decison of the Circuit Court of Appeals affirming the decision of Judge Jennings in regard to the legality of the Alaska Revenue Law, instead of to him, where, he said, the credit belonged.

Mr. Cobb was accompanied on the stage by Mayor B. D. Stewart, Judge H. B. Le Fevre and Emery Valentine. Of the latter two one is the campaign manager of James Wickersham, and the other is his trusty first lieutenant. Mayor Stewart introduced Mr. Cobb in a few well chosen words and stated that he was becoming quite used to the honor conferred upon him as mayor by the different factions in Alaska politics.

Mr. Cobb dwelt on his record during the fourteen months he has held office under a temporary appointment and pointed to the condition of the Treasury of the Territory at present. He took all the credit, both for drawing the revenue bill, and for enforcing it on the mining and fishing industriees of Alaska.

Mr. Cobb roasted Thomas J. Donohoe, of Valdez, Marshal Erwin, of Fairbanks and other leaders of the Democratic and Republican parties. He frequently referred to George D. Schofield, his Republican opponent, as "the former Alaskan, but now a Seattle resident."

He explained his failure to secure the Democratic endorsement for the office and stated that the considered himself an Alaskan before he did a Democrat. He made frequent references to the fact that he had been a resident of Juneau for the past nineteen years and stated that if the voters of Alaska turned him down, as the man who drew the present Revenue bill, that the Fish Trust would use that fact to urge the passage of the Alexander Bill on Congress, and urged the voters to support him as an Alaskan, a fellow townsman, and the man who drew and enforced the Alaska Territorial Revenue Bill.

HECKMAN IS IN JUNEAU.

J. R. Heckman, head of the mercantile concern of J. R. Heckman and Company, of Ketchikan, and who is interested heavily in the Miners and Merchants Bank, the Ketchikan Progressive Miners and other business concerns in that city, arrived on the Spokane this morning. Mr. Heckman is one of the Republican candidates for election to the Territorial Legislature and is here in the interests of his campaign.

HUNTING PARTY RETURNED TODAY ON THE SPOKANE

Charles E. Davidson, Dr. Robert Simpson, James H. King, F. W. Williamson and Forrest Gardner, composing a hunting party which left Juneau two weeks ago to shoot in the vicinity of Petersburg, returned this morning on the Spokane. They report an excellent time and excellent luck, although the weather was a little wet for enjoyable hunting. Several deer were brought back for distribution among friends of the hunters.
