CERTIFICATES ARE GIVEN TO LEGISLATORS

Canvassing Board Gives Certificates to Those Where Contests Settled.

The Canvassing Board met this afternoon and issued certificates of election to all members of the Territorial Legislature, and Road Supervisors in the Territory, where they were clearly elected by the canvassed returns. All points where questions of irregularities had been called to the attention of the board were passed over and the board adjourned until two o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

A set of 22 questions had been submitted to the Attorney General and as his opinion was received by the board last night and as they have had no time to examine the opinion as rendered, they took an adjournment. The question of the Delegate election, of the election of Philip Corrigan or Thomas Reed in the Second Division, or the election of Holland or Murray in the Third Division, were not considered, as all of these questions depend on what action the board may take after reading the opinion.

Certificates were issued by the board to Senators J. R. Heckman from the First; John Sundback from the Second; John Roman from the Third, and Dan Sutherland from the Fourth. The Legislators who received certificates were Monte Benson, W. W. Casey and Peter C. McCormick from the First; J. P. Daly, A. A. Allan, and Nate Coombs from the Second; Frank B. Cannon, T. P. Price, and Charles Day, from the Third; and W. T. Birns, L. C. Hess, Andrew Nerland and C. K. Snow from the Fourth.

After finishing the work of issuing the certificates, the board canvassed additional returns from the Fourth Division which had been received. These returns comprise the four voting precincts in the Otter recording precinct in the Fourth Division. The canvassed returns from the Fourth Division now give Sulzer a lead of eleven votes in that Division. The vote from the four

SIDNEY CHARLES TO PUBLISH NEW ALASKA MONTHLY

Sidney D. Charles is busy in getting out the initial number of "Alaska" to be known as the "legislative number" and to be published in Juneau every month. For the first number he already has secured good advertising patronage. He is now busy getting business for his publication in Juneau.

"The publication," he said, "is the crystallization of ideals and dreams which I have had for years. Heretofore, most monthly publications for Alaska have been gotten out in Seattle. They have lacked the original flavor and freshness of the true Northland spirit. Mine will be "Alaska" published in Alaska by an Alaskan who knows the conditions and by an Alaskan publishing firm. For the 'Legislative Number' this month I have already secured much interesting data."

JUNEAU JOINS FIGHT TO SAVE FISH INDUSTRY

Officials and Others Urge Congress to Pass the Ketchikan Fish Bonding Bill.

WICK FIGHTS MEASURE Ketchikan Accuses the Delegate of a Final Effort for Revenge on Alaska.

Juneau has joined in the fight with Ketchikan to urge the passage of the fish bonding bill which is designed to save the Alaska fresh fish industry to Alaska and prevent its loss to Prince Rupert. Gov. J. F. A. Strong, the City Council and others have sent telegrams to President Wilson, Secretary of Commerce Redfield, Senator F. M. Simmons, Senator George E. Chamberlain, Representative Claude Kitchin, the House majority leader and Representative A. P. A. P. Gardner, of Massachusetts, who defeated the legislation in the last Congress, urging the passage of the bill.

Administration For it President Wilson, Secretary of State Robert Lansing, and Secretary of Commerce Redfield are for the measure, and it is being supported by the majority party in the Senate and House of Representatives. In fact, it is intimated by telegrams from Washington that there would be no doubt of its passage if it were not for the opposition of Delegate James Wickersham.

Ketchikan Men Charge "Wick" The occasion for the activity of Juneau in the fight for the passage of this measure was the receipt of telegrams from Ketchikan business men yesterday urging immediate action. A telegram from Ketchikan, signed by H. C. Strong, Senator J. R. Heckman, the Daily Progressive-Miner, F. E. Ryus, Charles H. Congrove, J. C. Barber, Forrest King, and John R. Beagle said that the bill would be "sure of passage excepting for the Delegate's opposition which appears to us like his final effort for revenge."

The business men's telegram follows:

"Telegraphic advices from Washington report that the President, and Secretaries Lansing and Redfield have endorsed our fish bonding legislation, and it is sure of passage excepting for the Delegate's opposition, which to us appears like his final effort for revenge. Our bill will remove to Alaska from British Columbia all firms, markets and boats engaged in the fish trade which are selling their products to the United States. It will gain for Alaska towns a most wonderful resource."

The telegram then asks for assistance from Juneau to keep this feature retained in the revenue bill.

"THAT IS THE BEST RECEIPT OF ALL."

A traveler landed at New York the other day and produced a cash register receipt to prove the value of his luggage—some purchase he had made abroad. On the receipt was the amount in figures, the name of the store, and the like.

So, instead of rummaging through the trunk, the officer passed the traveler on the strength of the printed figures. Then turning to bystanders, he said, "That is the best receipt of all."

If you use a receipt-printing register, use the receipt for all it is worth.

Print It. Give It Out.

For the store that gives out N. C. R. receipts with the amount in figures on them always has a record of the things it sells. And that kind of a store has no cause to wonder where its profits go. It gets them.

That is the very reason why the H. S. GRAVES MEN'S FURNISHING STORE, on Lower Front Street, gives them out. Like other wide-awake merchants, it refuses to do business at random—without the printed record.

No matter what your line of business, give every customer an N. C. R. receipt with the amount in figures printed on it. It's the businesslike thing to do, and it pays.
