SPARKS FROM DOUGLAS ISLAND

DOUGLAS, Nov. 11.—The little son of Geo. Meyers was hurt while coasting on St. Ann's avenue yesterday afternoon. Unable to control his sleigh he ran against a post striking his head.
Mrs. Wm. Stubbins was a south bound passenger on the Spokane yesterday, en route for Seattle and Tacoma. Doris Oliver accompanied Mrs. Stubbins and will visit with relatives in Tacoma. Mrs. Stubbins will be gone about a month.
Mr. Turner has resigned his position at the cyanide plant. Mr. E. Atkinson, of the assay office, filling the vacancy.
A large crowd attended the opening of the rink Saturday evening.
A. Bartello left on the City of Rome for a few days outing.
Miss Lillian Liljestrand left on the Spokane yesterday with her sister Mrs. V. Peterson, of Juneau, for a trip to the Sound cities.
The ladies' auxiliary of the Catholic church will meet at the A. C. club rooms tomorrow evening.
Miss Alice Tibbets, of Juneau, was a Douglas visitor yesterday.
Mr. Henry Brie was pleasantly surprised last Saturday evening, the occasion being his birthday. Mrs. Brie had quietly planned an eight-course dinner and when dinner time was approaching Mr. Brie was sent on an errand. On his return he found the house full of friends and good things to eat. Among those present were Messrs. Chas. A. Hopp, Wm. Stubbins, M. J. O'Connor, D. J. Kinzie, Joe Bruner, Frank Tascher, Tom Graham, and Dan Veasele.
The show at the Treadwell club which was postponed on Saturday evening on account of the death of Mr. Johnson will take place this evening.

Robert Laughlin has accepted a position at the Douglas steam laundry.
Mrs. D. B. Veasele will leave on the Jefferson, to spend the winter visiting relatives in the States.
The Orpheum theatre, the new amusement house in Douglas, was filled to overflowing at last night's performance. The audience signified its approval by generous applause. If Mr. Spickett has the same success with the new house in Juneau, he will need assistance in taking care of the coin.

NELS G. JOHNSON LAID TO REST

DOUGLAS, Nov. 11.—The funeral of Nels Gustave Johnson, who died of heart disease last Thursday, was held yesterday. It was probably the largest and most impressive in the history of the camp. There were five hundred men in line when the funeral cortege left the family home near the Mexican mine. The fireman's organization, the Alaska Labor Union, and the K. of P. organization, of which the deceased was a member, turned out in strong numbers. The Ready Bullion mine, of which Mr. Johnson had been foreman was closed down so that the workmen could pay a last tribute to their fellow laborer.
Double sermons were preached, at the Congregational church, one by the Rev. Whitmore; the other by Rev. Warman. In the course of his remarks, Rev. Whitmore said, "the men did not look upon him as a boss but as one of themselves."

RAILROAD COMMISSION GOES SOUTH

On the Spokane yesterday were the Alaska railroad commission on their way to Washington, where their report will be filed soon after Congress meets next month.
The commission is composed of Major J. Morrow, United States army; Lieut. Commander Cox, United States navy; Dr. Alfred H. Brooks, Secretary C. E. Williams, and J. P. Mills, stenographer.
The commissioners visited Haines and examined that place as a possible terminus for a railroad to the Yukon. The results of their investigation will not be made public until their report is submitted to Congress. The commission has had a somewhat strenuous time. From Valdez they went over the trail to Fairbanks, making good time and experiencing no difficulty, their journey being aided by the Alaska road commission. They returned by way of the Chitina trail to Cordova, after examining the Copper River railroad. Previously they had visited Seward and looked over the line of the Alaska Northern railway.
The report to be submitted by the commission will be in the nature of a preliminary reconnaissance, and without doubt before Congress will take any definite action looking toward railroad construction in Alaska, another and more complete investigation will be made.

MURDERS FOR M'NEILLS

Deputy Marshal S. Waite, assisted by Chief of Police Jack Chovin and E. C. Heacock, of Fairbanks, is taking a trio of prisoners to the outside on the Mariposa. Two of them are under life sentence for murder and will be taken to McNeil's island, Washington; the other is Billy Brown, an old-timer of Fairbanks, who is insane. He will be taken to Morningside asylum, Oregon.
The life prisoners are Joe Campbell and a negro named Cooper. The latter was convicted at a late term of the district court at Fairbanks.
Joe Campbell was convicted at Iditarod, in September, of murdering Gust and John Nelson, who were at the time prospecting about seventy miles below Georgetown, on the Kuskokwim river. The crime was committed sometime in September 1911 and the dead bodies were found by natives about a month later.
The coroner's inquest, which was held over the bodies incurred an expense of several thousand dollars. A deputy traveled all the way from Georgetown and summoned witnesses, many of whom had to travel hundreds of miles. No action was taken in the matter until a strong petition from the district had asked for the inquest.
