Woman Suffrage Paraders Will Go in Mediaeval Dress

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Plans for the woman suffrage pageant March 3 have been perfected. The novel spectacle of women wearing mediaeval or ancient Greek costumes will be witnessed.

The procession will be divided into five sections and each section will be heralded dressed in mediaeval costumes, who will from time to time along the route of the parade repeat famous suffrage speeches which have been made in the last few years in this and foreign countries. The parade will be composed of floats, allegorical figures portraying the condition of women from the dawn of creation down to the present time. So far as possible, women musicians will compose the bands and the demonstration will be reinforced by the presence of parading men sympathizers of the cause.

A resolution appealing from the decision of Major Sylvester, chief of the Washington police, to refuse the women a permit to parade on Pennsylvania avenue was adopted and vigorous protests against the edict will be made to the commissioners. Failing of redress here, the women propose to take the matter to President Taft. For over one hundred years Pennsylvania avenue had been open to men paraders, and the refusal of the first request made by women for a similar privilege will be met with a general campaign of resistance.

The Congressional committee (the "lobby") of the National American Women Suffrage Association has opened headquarters in Washington. Miss Alice Paul, of Philadelphia and Miss Emma Burns of New York will represent the National Association, co-operating with two members appointed by the several suffrage associations of the District of Columbia. Announcement was made by Miss Paul that the principal efforts of the committee would be to secure from the extra session of Congress the passage of a resolution providing for an amendment to the Constitution of the United States enfranchising all the women of the country.

High Cost of Living in South America

The Americans engaged in the rubber trade in South America, far up the Amazon river, never kick at the cost of living when they get back to Uncle Sam's domain. To begin with it costs $500 for one person to get there and back. His troubles begin when he looks around and does a little marketing.

All meats are 50 cents a pound, and the ice to keep them from spoiling is five cents a pound. Potatoes are 14 cents a pound and rice is eight cents. Bread is 28 cents for a two-pound loaf—and it isn't such wonderful bread either. Butter is 60 cents

American Catalogues in the Chinese Language

American firms are preparing catalogs and advertising matter in the Chinese language, with an end in view of reaching the demands and tastes of the Chinese trade. Sewing machines, phonographs, lamps, patent medicines, yeast and yeast powder, cigarettes, and condensed milk are among the articles extensively advertised by placards in Chinese posted about the streets of Chinese cities.

One enterprising American baking powder firm has an illustrated booklet containing numerous recipes in Chinese and distributed among the Chinese people.

An American university issues its catalog in Chinese to attract Chinese students desirous of going abroad for a Western education. An American correspondence school advertises very extensively in Chinese throughout the cities of China and does considerable business with ambitious students. Many American patent medicines are advertised throughout China by literature in Chinese only.

A leading American sewing machine company also attributes much of its success to the spreading of its Chinese advertising literature among the Chinese people. Recently a large wholesale American drug house secured an idea of an appropriate trade mark for its products in China from an American consul and is now issuing its labels and advertising matter in connection with this trade mark, the latter being particularly adapted to Chinese ideas.

"A BAS LE REFEREE" PARISIANS SHOUT
 PARIS, Jan. 15.—For the first time in France a football riot occurred recently. It was at the Parc des Princes Paris, after a Scottish Rugby team had defeated a French team by a score of 21 to 3.

The mob broke down the barriers and assailed the referee, J. W. Baxter, with sticks and stones. It required the united efforts of the players, police and mounted officers to break up the disturbance and rescue the official.

On returning to Paris a large crowd of the spectators of the game paraded the boulevards, shouting "A bas le referee!" Afterward they made a demonstration in front of the offices of a sporting newspaper.

Lorenzo Carle, a Dowson pioneer, died recently at Roseburg, Ore., at the age of 63 years.

Robert McChesney, former proprietor of the Cordova Star, who has been in Southern California, has gone to Oregon, where a mining strike has been reported.

Frank Connolly, an old timer, fell on the ice in Bering sea at Nome, from the rear platform of a saloon on Front street, and was not discovered for several hours. His feet and hands were badly frozen and will have to be amputated. He is not expected to survive.

Ella Kanagin, charged with giving liquor to Indians, after two juries at Valdez had disagreed, entered a plea of guilty, and was sentenced to 20 days imprisonment. Kanagin is an Aleut, and in passing sentence Judge Lyons took occasion to say that the Aleuts were not citizens within the meaning of the act, and that the mere fact that they had voted occasionally was no indication of their citizenship.

Judge O. E. Tucker, late commissioner at Cordova, is said to be slated to succeed M. S. Whittier, as deputy collector of customs at Cordova. Mr. Whittier is now deputy collector at Ketchikan.

J. B. Connolly, a Fairbanks piano player, was arrested in Valdez, charged with being an absconding debtor.
