How Wilson Will be Inducted Into Office

WASHINGTON, FEB. 21.—All arrangements for the inauguration of President-Elect Woodrow Wilson have been completed by the various committees charged with the duty of inducting the new President into office. The Committee on Arrangements of Congress, consisting of Senators Crane of Massachusetts, Bacon of Georgia and Overman of North Carolina, and Representatives Rucker of Missouri, Garrett of Tennessee and McKinley of Illinois, have completed the official program for the inaugural ceremonies in so far as they relate to the Capitol.

On the evening of March 3 the Senate wing of the Capitol will be closed and will not be opened until the morning of March 4. On this date no person will be admitted to the galleries or the floor of the Senate unless he is in possession of a ticket signed by the Committee on Arrangements. This rule, however, does not apply to the members of the Senate and the elective members of that body, members of the House of Representatives, the ex-President, ex-Vice President, Vice President-elect, Justices of the Supreme Court, heads of the executive departments, the Admiral of the Navy and his aide and the Chief of Staff of the Army.

The doors of the Senate chamber will be thrown open at 11 o'clock on the morning of March 4 to those entitled to reserved seats on the floor of the Senate. The clerk of the House will distribute tickets among the members, which the secretary of state will distribute tickets of admission to the door of the Senate to the members of the diplomatic corps. The Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate will be in charge of all tickets issued to others entitled to admission to the floor.

Gathering for Ceremonies.
 The members of the Supreme Court of the United States will enter the Senate chamber at 11:45 a.m., and after being announced will take their seats. The members of the House of Representatives will then follow and take their seats in the space reserved for them. They will follow the members of the diplomatic corps.

President Taft and President-elect Wilson, escorted to the Capitol by the Committee on Arrangements, will enter the Senate wing at the bronze door on the east side. They will go directly to the President's room, where they will remain until the Committee on Arrangements waits upon them and escorts them to the Senate chamber. They will occupy seats reserved for them in front of the Vice President's desk. The Committee on Arrangements will occupy seats immediately on the left.

The Vice President-elect will be escorted to the room reserved for him by the Committee on Arrangements. He will then be escorted to the Senate chamber, where the oath of office will be administered to him by the President pro tem of the Senate. After prayer by the chaplain, the Vice President will deliver his inaugural address in the Senate chamber, and will then administer the oath of office to the Senators-elect.

After the organization of the Senate is completed, those in the chamber will proceed through the rotunda to the platform on the centre portico at the east front of the Capitol in the following order:
 Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate and House and Marshals of the Supreme Court and the District of Columbia, Chief Justice and Associate Justices of the Supreme Court of the United States, Committee on Arrangements, President and President-elect, Ambassadors and Ministers to the United States, ex-President, ex-Vice Presidents, Vice President and Secretary of the Senate, Senators and ex-Senators, Speaker and Clerk of House, retiring members and members-elect and officers of the House of Representatives, heads of the various executive departments, Governors of the States, Admiral of the Navy and aide, Chief of the Staff of the Army and aide, officers of the army and navy who have received the thanks of Congress, and all other persons entitled to the floor of the Senate chamber.

On reaching the platform on the east side of the Capitol the President and President-elect will take seats reserved for them. The Chief Justice will take his seat on the right and the Committee on Arrangements and the Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate on the left. When all are assembled the Chief Justice will administer the oath of office to President-elect Wilson, after which the inaugural address will be delivered.

At the conclusion of President Wilson's address the members of the Senate will return from the platform to the Senate chamber. The President, Mr. Taft and the Committee on Arrangements will proceed to the Executive Mansion, and, after luncheon at the White House, will repair to the stand erected immediately in front to witness the inaugural parade, which is scheduled to leave the Capitol not later than 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

At the conclusion of the parade, which is scheduled to be over by 6 o'clock in the evening, it is expected President Wilson will hold an informal reception at the White House, although this has not been definitely decided upon.

With the abandonment of the inaugural ball at the suggestion of President Wilson, the only other feature of the inaugural ceremonies, the fire works display on the Monument grounds just back of the White House will begin at 8:30 o'clock. The Committee on Fireworks has $25,000 at its disposal for this feature.

Mrs. Wilson will not accompany her husband to the Capitol, but will be escorted by a special aide and occupy carriage provided for her by the Committee on Arrangements.

FISHER'S BLEND FLOUR
 BLEND'S MAH FRIEND
 Better than the Best
 WITHOUT our knowledge, the Columbus Laboratories of Chicago tested FISHER'S BLEND FLOUR for a Dakota Wheat Grower. The analysis ranked FISHER'S BLEND FLOUR higher in General Average, Gluten Quality, Water Absorption and Loaf Value than the best Dakota all-Hard Wheat Patent Flour, which is the recognized standard for bread-stuff efficiency. FISHER'S BLEND FLOUR is a scientific combination of Eastern Hard Wheat and Western Soft Wheat, preserving the best qualities of each. WALES WILL BE TWO YEARS AT OXFORD
 LONDON, Feb. 21.—The Daily Mail says the progress made by the Prince of Wales at Oxford is so satisfactory that it is understood that his residence at the University will be extended to two years.
 The Prince pays weekly visits to Sir William Anson, noted constitutionalist, for the discussion of current events.

THOMAS WOODROW WILSON
 WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—General Leonard Wood, grand marshal of the inaugural parade, is giving President-elect Wilson his full name—Thomas Woodrow Wilson—on all of the commissions issued by him. This fact was disclosed today in a letter received by Gen. Wood from a firm of Philadelphia engravers who have the contract for engraving the commissions.
 The firm expressed regret at not being prompt in the delivery of the commissions and explained that they were not aware that Gov. Wilson's name is Thomas Woodrow Wilson until they had engraved the name on the plates at Woodrow Wilson. The error has been corrected and the commissions will be delivered next week.

A BOOSTER FOR HIS HOME DISTRICT
 "Fairbanks district is developing into a quartz country," said Representative Daniel Driscoll, of Fairbanks, "and while none of the mines that are being worked show big veins of ore, there are rich stringers that pay all costs of development work and make money for the owners beside. We have also unlimited quantities of low-grade placer ground which will be eventually worked."
 Mr. Driscoll is particularly pleased over the prospect of a competitive transportation line to Fairbanks, the White Pass & Yukon railroad having announced its intentions to compete for the trade of the Tanana and the lower Yukon.
 "Freight rates that have been charged in the past," said Mr. Driscoll, have been a heavy handicap on the business of the Tanana country, and we are hoping for relief. We have a splendid section and all that we need is more and better transportation facilities, and these we hope to get in the near future."
 Mr. Driscoll has been closely identified with the business interests of Fairbanks district for years. He resigned the position of mayor of Fairbanks just before leaving for Juneau.
