REV. FATHER BROWN'S INVOCATION
 The following is the invocation of Rev. Father Brown, at the opening session of the House of Representatives, yesterday:

It is meet and just, O God, that here on the threshold of the house of our future greatness, to which we have put our hand to build, that we ask knowledge that Thou art the Chief Builder and Watcher, and without Thee our work is vain. Guide and assist our work lest a babel of confusion result. Teach us, too, since we have not here a lasting city, to build not for time only but for eternity.
We pray Thee, O God of might, wisdom and justice, through whom authority is rigidly administered, laws are created, and judgment decreed, assist with Thy Holy Spirit of counsel and fortitude the members of the first Legislature of Alaska that their work may be conducted in righteousness and be eminently useful to Thy people.

Set the light of Thy divine wisdom, direct all their deliberations and shine forth in all the proceedings and laws framed for our rule and government; so that they may tend to the preservation of peace, the promotion of happiness, the increase of industry, sobriety and useful knowledge, and may perpetuate to us the blessings of equal liberty.
O God, bless Alaska and Alaska's First Legislature, in the name of the Father, Son and Holy Ghost. Amen.

Boston Girl, Aged Ten Describes Hidden Things

BOSTON, Feb. 15.—A number of tests made by Prof. Hugo Munsterberg of Harvard, Dr. Hyslop of Columbia, Dr. Henry W. Hopkins, and others, of the mental state of Beulah Miller, the ten-year-old girl of Warren, R. I., who accurately locates and describes hidden things, are described by a Boston American dispatch.
 Dr. Hopkins makes an affidavit in which he says:
 "I began the test of turning the stone of my ring inside my hand, putting my hand in my pocket. When Beulah came in from another room I asked her what I had in my left hand. She readily said, 'A diamond.' I then put my hand in my right pocket, and asked her what I had in my right hand. She said 'Purse,' which was correct. I took a coin in my right hand while it was still in my pocket and said: 'Beulah, what have I in my right hand now?' She said, 'Quarter.' I said: 'Now, Beulah, if you will tell me the figures on the coin it is yours.' She answered '1-9-0-8,' and the quarter was hers. I then opened the case of my watch and looked at the number of the movement, closed the case, and put the watch back in my pocket. I asked Beulah if she could tell me the number of the watch movement. She said '5-3-4-9-8-4.' These were the actual figures."
 Dr. Hopkins also took his watch from his pocket, and, holding it concealed asked her the time. Her reply was accurate.
 She named cards as they were taken from a pack, told just where in the pack each card was, and in every way met the tests made by Dr. Hopkins.
 Mrs. Mary Rash of Brooklyn then endeavored to elicit from the girl wrong answers as to a variety of questions, but in vain.
 Judge Mason of Warren also made an affidavit of tests he made. One of the he described thus:
 "I wrote a name on a pad, turned the pad upside down, and placed it upon a table, and asked Beulah if she could tell what I written. It told me correct. I repeated it two or three times, receiving an accurate reply each time."

BUCKS ALSO HUSTLE FOR THEIR BRIDES

Some few years ago a deputy marshal was assigned to duty at Nushagak. Upon arrival there he very quickly let it be known that "everybody would have to get married," or by the power invested in him, he would gather them in to his bastille. Of course, the minion of the law, in issuing his edict, meant that white men who had taken native women into their homes—the law calls it a harsher name—would have to go through the formality of a marriage, for the protection of the women as well as of the offspring.

Now there were a lot of young native bucks roaming the Nushagak country who were not ready to enter the ranks of the Benedicts, but they took the marshal's edict literally, and though it meant that they, too, must seek a helpmate. Hence, there was a wild scramble, exceeding the effort of Seward bachelors, to get dusky maidens to become their wives. Many weddings, under the circumstances, took place, according to one who was on the ground.—Seward Gateway.
