Gleanings From Great Northern Empire
 Mel R. Sabin recently has been road overseer for the Fairbanks section by Judge John F. Dillon, United States commissioner for the Fairbanks district. His bond was fixed at $10,000.

J. E. Moody was elected to be a member of the school board at Fairbanks over Frank Clark early in the present month by a vote of 506 to 451. The total vote was 961.

The Little Straub mill at the Rainbow mine on Twin creek, in the Fairbanks district, having made its test runs in good style, is now engaged in pounding rock every day, according to the News-Miner. There is at present, plenty of ore on the dump to keep the mill running for some days, although a large crew of men will soon be put on, and stopping commence immediately after.

Two different dredging companies will be operating their machines on Gaines and Yankee creeks this summer, in the Innoko country. One is a San Francisco concern, and the other is a company which was organized in St. Louis. Representatives of both companies are now at Ophir City, and five miles of ground on Gaines creek and four miles on Yankee are already under option. The ground is from 10 to 14 feet deep, which makes it a very acceptable proposition for dredges.

On Cripple creek, a tributary of the Innoko river, coming in about 65 miles below the town of Ophir, considerable work is being performed. Pay has also been located on Colorado creek in the same vicinity. There are at least five outfits on Cripple creek that are working in good pay.

Mrs. Emma McMullen, a pioneer of the Fairbanks country, died at the Tanana metropolis April 1st of tuberculosis. She was 36 years of age and had lived in the Fairbanks country for the last 10 years. Her relatives reside at Seattle.

It is reported that the stock of the Gold Bar Lumber Company, that was among the assets of the Washington-Alaska bank at Fairbanks, will be sold and that it will more than pay off the indebtedness of that bank to the Dexter Horton National bank of Seattle. However, the latter bank has begun suit against the bank and is forcing on the stock.

A new discovery of pay on a tributary of Bottom Dollar creek in the Circle district, is reported by the discoverer made during the winter by Tom Powers, according to report, and the prospector has demonstrated that values are contained in the gravel body he has discovered.

The British Columbia Fisheries, with headquarters at Prince Rupert, will install a cold storage plant at Port Edward near that place.

Judge Frederic E. Fuller, of the United States district court at Fairbanks, heard 28 applications for citizenship papers at one hearing this month.

WOMAN MUSHES WITH INJURED ARM
 Mr. and Mrs. Fred Eckert have returned from nearly a year spent in the Big Salmon country and left on the Humboldt this afternoon for the South, with the intention of making their home in Oregon. They went as far as the head of South Fork of the Big Salmon and spent the season in prospecting and trapping. They experienced the usual hardship in mushing and found out of the country and were not successful in locating anything that look like rich pay, though they are of the opinion that many parts of the district are rich.

While coming out over the trail, Mrs. Eckert fell on the ice and severely injured her arm, which she has carried in a sling during most of a journey of 160 miles.

BRYAN SPEAKS ON RELIGIOUS MATTERS
 WASHINGTON, April 19.—Declaring that the soul was of greater importance than the mind or body, Secretary of State Bryan spoke before a large audience of young men at the Columbia theatre the other day, in the first of a series of addresses which he will deliver before the Bryan Bible Class. Mr. Bryan told his audience of his indebtedness to Christian religion, and at his request they sang, "I'll Go Where You Want Me to Go." The spirit of this song, he declared, had moved him to accept invitations to speak on religious topics.

Scoffs at Skepticism.
 The Secretary of State scoffed at the young man who was skeptical about religion. "Nothing that Christianity takes from a man's life is worth keeping," he asserted. "When Christ came into the world He added greatly to man's physical and intellectual enjoyment. I want to show young men that it is not smart to be skeptic, and I want to leave no justification for the expression 'more liberal than Christian.' There is no basis for the implication that Christians are not liberal."

Small Time Spent on Souls.
 The little time people spend on their souls compared with that they put on their body was contrasted by Secretary Bryan, who went on to declare that "if spiritual hunger hurt as much as physical hunger, it wouldn't be so hard to get men to use the science of living what Christ teaches."

WHAT FREE WOOL WILL DO FOR AMERICA
 Francis Burton Harrison, of New York, a member of the ways and means committee of the National House of Representatives, ranking second to Chairman Underwood, writing for the New York World on free wool and what it will do for the people says:

"What would free wool mean to the people of the United States? It would mean cheaper and better woollen clothes. That is why we hope that the people will uphold President Wilson in his fight for free wool and against the great wool and woollen combination. Free wool would also mean the death knell of this great combination, which has for forty years burdened the American people with extortionate taxation.

"This combination between the wool-growers of the West and the woollen manufacturers of the East has for the greater part of forty years had votes enough in Congress to keep the taxes sky high on woollen clothes. The combination was too strong for President Taft; he frankly told the people of the United States that this combination was powerful enough to prevent the Republicans in the Payne-Aldrich tariff from lowering the duties on woollen clothing.

"This admission by President Taft was fatal to his party. His speech at Winona, in which he made this frank and startling announcement of the power of the combination, admitting that it was stronger than President Taft himself and the Republican Congress, and stronger than the Government of the United States, under Republican rule, caused the people of our country to take away from these people the administration of our country and give it to the Democrats."

 "I am sure that girl has a kind heart and a considerate disposition," said the young man.
 "Why?"
 "Because when I asked what her favorite flower was, she took care to name something that doesn't cost more than 50 cents a bunch."

PAPER AND PULP MILLS COMING TO ALASKA
 Two American paper manufacturing companies, according to information given out by the United States Forestry Bureau at Washington, have each applied for the right to purchase 500,000,000 feet of timber in Alaska to be used in the manufacture of wood pulp, about the only purpose for which a large portion of the wood in Alaska can be utilized.

While the forestry department refuses to give out the names of the companies making the applications, it is said by an official of the bureau that the plan proposed by the applicants is to erect two pulp-manufacturing mills in Alaska and to ship the pulp to paper mills located in different parts of the United States. The shores of British Columbia immediately south of the Alaska boundary are dotted with paper and pulp mills. Much Seattle money is invested in them. The timber on the Pacific seaboard of the Dominion of Canada is much the same as that of Alaska, and consists of Sitka spruce and hemlock.

If industrial conditions are favorable paper mills will be established in Alaska, but in any event a large amount of the pulp will be shipped to paper companies in the Eastern States through the Panama canal.

Each of the two applications on file with the forestry bureau is for purchase of 500,000,000 feet of timber, situated in the Chugach forest close to the shore line. If the proposed purchases are approved by the forestry department the mills will be established at points in Southeastern Alaska not yet determined upon, and a new industry will have been established in Alaska to assist in the development of that territory.—Seattle Times.

Fisher's Blend Flour
 "America's Finest Flouring Mills"
 Plant and Product one and inseparable
 Pronounced by experts "America's Finest Flouring Mills," the plant of the FISHER FLOURING MILLS COMPANY, was designed and constructed to produce America's Most Efficient Breadstuff.
Fisher's Blend Flour
 Separate machinery is provided for grinding hard and soft wheat. Every grain is washed in the famous pure Cedar River water and thoroughly dried before being ground. It is no idle boast to say that this product is the cleanest, most scientifically blended, most economical flour offered for sale today. Combining as it does Eastern Hard Wheat and Western Soft Wheat, it gives to public and private bakeries a material which has all the advantages of both hard and soft wheat flours, is better than either, and decidedly superior to any other blend heretofore produced.
