Memorial on Fisheries Passes Both Houses

The House this morning passed the Senate memorial on the fisheries question after showing through a test vote that they had the power to insert the clause embodied in the Svindseth amendment to include the abolishment of fish traps. There were one or two minor amendments made and one very important section added. This latter is a condemnation of the Jones bill or the tentative draft of the bill suggested by the United States bureau of fisheries and the representatives of the various Alaska fisheries. The whole bill is objected to generally and Section One especially, which provides that all of the fees and taxes derived from Alaska fisheries shall be covered into the Treasury of the United States and there kept in a special fund, on the ground that the Territory of Alaska is entitled to a reasonable proportion of the revenue derived from the fishing industry of the Territory.

The First Division members stood solid for the abolishment of the traps and had gathered to their support, Gray and Boyle, of the Third; Aldrich and Gaffney, of the Third, and Burns, of the Fourth. After demonstrating their power they allowed the memorial to go through as it stood so far as traps are concerned on account of the fact that the Senate would not have concurred in the amendment abolishing traps.

The House at a session last night discussed the Senate fisheries substitute for the Sutherland memorial on the fisheries question. The memorial as it reached House asked for rigid restrictions of fish traps and for more stringent regulations of all sorts of fishing gear. Svindseth offered an amendment to the memorial striking out the restrictions on traps and substituting a section asking for the abolishment of traps.

At this juncture Kelly raised the point of order that the amendment offered was out of order, because the subject matter contained in the proposed amendment had already been passed upon by the House inasmuch that Mr. Svindseth had withdrawn a

HALF MILLION FOR JUNEAU CARNIVAL

Juneau Elklodm will on Friday night put on the great carnival of "The Days of '97." Elaborate preparations are complete for making of this one of the most enjoyable affairs in the history of the town. It is being done in honor of the members of the Legislative Assembly as a means of expressing the goodwill of Elklodm toward Alaska's first law givers. The program is unique in that it will recall with vivid characteristics the splendor of the days of the great stampede when men made frantic with the gold fever, yet paused for a moment's relaxation in popular resorts of the day.

Those strenuous days are to be made realistic by converting the large auditorium into replica of one of the great gambling and dance halls of those days. More than a half-million dollars in currency (Elks' Bull Coin) will be stacked on the tables to be won by the most persistent and lucky sports who may secure entry to the hall. All Elks will be admitted on their lodge cards and will not receive a special invitation. Invited guests will be required to present their invitations at the door. Admission will be one dollar to all gentlemen and ladies will be admitted free with their escorts. In exchange for the admission fee each man will receive $1,000 in Elks' bull coin which he can dispose of to his own satisfaction after entering the hall. There will be places to spend it and if he has a speculative turn of mind he can engage in play at any and all of the gaming tables. The lady and the gentleman that accumulates the largest amount of the currency by 11 o'clock will receive a prize.

Gentlemen are expected to come wearing flannel shirts and ladies in shirt waists. All are invited to leave dignity and good clothes at home.

"A partial list of those who will serve as 'employees' and help to entertain the guests," said W. R. Merchant, of the committee "embraces the following well known personages: "Dutchy' Roden and 'Hardwood' Bruner will be known as 'swampers' and will see that the place is kept in order. Bartenders will be 'Mickel' McNaughton, 'Spider' Turner, 'Pretzel' Bathe and 'X' Ray. Roulette crochupiers will be 'Pain Killer' Kaser, 'Grizzley' Barragar, and 'Daminfo' Gabbs, with 'Patty' Marshall, 'Skinny' Gunnison and 'Fatima' Butzer for lookouts. The faro table will be presided over by 'Longshoreman' Biggs with 'Dyea' Tanner for lookout. 'Three Card Monte' Snow will have charge of the crap table with 'Story' Bell as assistant. 'The Village Tailor' Bothwell will deal black jack, and 'Farmer' McLaughlin will have charge of the gold scales."

A lively two-step will start up at eight o'clock sharp.

The handsome prizes to be given away at the Elks' feature ball on Friday night are now on display in Sharrick's show windows.

He is reported to have told the members that the anti-alien legislation that they propose is a matter that can be settled by diplomatic negotiations. He and others built the railroads that connected the coal towns with Seattle, and projected the building to Walla Walla, then the metropolis of Eastern Washington.

Gilman was interested in politics in the early days of Washington's statehood, and, with Judge Thomas Burke, John Collins and others established the Seattle Morning Journal and later, the Seattle Morning Telegraph. They were Democratic papers.

CHILD MURDERER IN PRISON FOR LIFE

SEATTLE, April 29.—C. F. Johnson, who killed his little six-year-old boy last winter by throwing it and himself in front of a moving train, was sentenced to life imprisonment in the superior court of the State in this city yesterday. Johnson had quarreled with his wife, and she had left him and the boy. He alleges that the boy and he made a compact to die together, and that he had meant to end both lives when he with the boy in his arms plunged in front of the locomotive that was drawing a passenger train. The child was killed instantly, but Johnson was only slightly injured. Johnson was defended at the trial by an attorney appointed by the court, and seemed indifferent as to his fate. His attorney made a fight against the imposition of sentence on the ground that the statute of the legislature abolishing capital punishment, not yet in effect, had repealed the old law, and left no provision for punishing those accused of murder. The court over-ruled the contention, but did not impose the death penalty.

This is in addition to the regular wages. As the length of the services of employees increases their lunch periods, holidays and vacations on pay are increased.

War Clouds Hanging Heavy Over Europe

Alien Fisherman Law Goes To The Governor

The Senate this morning was one field of oratorical gems bursting in magnificent and patriotic splendor. There was not a member of the august body, save Senator Sutherland, from Ruby, who did not feel called upon to give expression to sentiments aroused during the consideration of the Svindseth alien fisherman law that was up on final passage.

Senator Bruner, of Nome, made a fiery speech that aroused the blood and sent it coursing through the veins. President Ray made a very impassioned address that was listened to with the closest attention. These two speeches were taken by stenographers and will be preserved. On final passage the bill received every vote in the Senate. It will go to Governor Clark immediately.

Through the action of Senator Bruner, Governor Johnson, of California was immediately notified of the action taken.

There is a meeting being held this afternoon by the joint committees of the Senate and House on the matter of preparing the bill for the purpose of raising revenue for the territorial government or for the purpose of enforcing such measure as to legislature has caused to be enacted.

THE SENATE—APRIL 29.

The Senate convened at 10 a. m. House Bill No. 12, by Svindseth, prohibiting aliens from fishing in the waters of Alaska, was put on final passage and passed unanimously.

THE HOUSE—APRIL 29.

The House convened at 10 a. m. Senate Joint Memorial No. 23, the committee substitute for the Sutherland bill, relating to the fisheries was put on final passage and passed with certain amendments.

Senate Joint Memorial No. 28, by Freeding, relating to annual assessment work on mining properties, was put on final passage and passed.

Senate Bill No. 16, by Millard, prohibiting the wearing of insignia of fraternal societies without authorization for fraudulent purposes, was put on final passage and passed.

HOUSE PROTECTING DIGNITY OF BODY

A fine sense of dignity envelops the House like an ermine robe and the membership is all up in arms lest it be soiled. The point that accentuates the stress now prevailing is because of the action of the Senate in relation to certain memorials and bills. Heretofore the upper branch of the legislature has enforced a closed monopoly on the "dignity" stunt.

When the Aldrich memorial was sent up to the Senate on the Nome harbor improvement the Senate lost no time in sending a message to the House setting forth that Senator Freeding's memorial covered the same subject and wanted to show why in the name of the Senate it had not been considered. The House meekly dragged the Aldrich memorial back and consigned it to the waste basket.

Now comes the Senate with the Millard election law, asking that the House pass it forthwith. In the meantime the Driscoll election law is up in the Senate and has been there for many days. The House got all ruffled up last night and decided very firmly to give the Millard bill no further consideration until there had been received a message from the Senate as to the disposition of the Driscoll measure.

RECIPROCITY, YES— BUT ANNEXATION—SILENCE

LAUNCH UNION ARRIVES IN PORT FROM VALDEZ

The gas boat Union arrived in port this morning from Valdez in command of Capt. Harry Moore and Engineer Hugo Fels. She was twenty days making the trip. Some uneasiness was felt on account of the long delay in the arrival of the little craft, as it was known that she could not fail to have encountered heavy weather. The boat, however, was able to weather the storms that she ran into, and to find sheltered places in which to wait for others to pass. The Union was recently purchased by Lynn Adsit, of this city. She was regarded as one of the best crafts in the Prince William mosquito fleet.
