LOW YUKON RATES IN EFFECT

WITH the beginning of inland navigation in Alaska a few days ago the talk of lower freight and passenger rates for those of the Yukon of which we had heard so much was translated into actuality.

This wholesale rate reduction has already resulted in a marked change in trade conditions. Greater tonnage is offering for the Yukon than ever before was the case, and the indications are that later shipments will be larger than they have been in the past.

And this is not all. General Manager O. L. Dickson, of the White Pass, says the new rates have come to remain—at least, they will remain until they shall be further reduced.

The statement of Mr. Dickson is significant. It indicates that he does not recognize the conditions now obtaining on the Yukon as those of "a rate war," but that he considers them the result of legitimate competition, and he seems to see profits in the new "half-rate" that has been put into effect.

Illinois is extending to women the right of suffrage on the installment plan. First they were permitted to vote at school elections. Now they are allowed to vote for statutory officers.

SIMPLIFYING GOVERNMENT

PORTLAND, OREGON, and Denver, Colorado, have adopted the commission form of government, and now both of those cities, of more than 200,000 population, will be governed by commissions of five men.

All the big cities of the Far West now, except San Francisco and Seattle, have the non-partisan commission form of government, and Seattle's government is non-partisan, and the Council consists of only nine members all elected from the city at large.

The movement toward non-partisanship in all things except those that have to do with the issues that separate political parties is making rapid strides in this country. In many of the States there is a growing demand that county governments be removed from politics.

The effect of this non-partisan movement in local affairs, if carried far enough, would be to relieve National political organizations of local political machines on the one hand, and on the other it would permit the people of communities to decide local questions on their merits.

Kansas is all worked up over an anticipated shortage of harvest hands. Why not a shortage? With the thermometer there hovering around the 100-in-the-shade mark, who would want to remain in Kansas?

The peevishness of those lobbyists who are attacking President Wilson should be overlooked. They are not used to being spanked and it is but natural that they should make faces.

While there are few that will admit that they are superstitious, there are many that by a little might careful today. It is Friday, the 13th.

BLACK FOX FARM BEING ESTABLISHED IN HAINES

Tom Lahey, of Haines, is establishing a fox farm near that place. He has had wonderful success this spring in securing animals with which to stock the farm.

CHANGING TIMES BRING NEW THINGS

Down at the Douglas Opera House, where once all was bustle and life, peace reigns. The yell of the chief herder, the rattle of chips and the merry laugh of the lassies is heard no more.

Secretary Daniels has changed a great many of the marine terms, but hasn't yet found a new name for seasickness.

NEWS COMMENT

Kissing games have been placed under the ban at Yonkers, N. Y. But the great metropolis is only a half hour away.

In the last seven years the population has increased 11 per cent. In other words, it just about keeps pace with the cost of living.

A prominent author says novel writing doesn't pay, but it pays as well as novel reading, at that.

Basil King says a woman's character is molded by the clothes she wears. It is a wonder Isadora Duncan and Mary Garden have any character at all.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS

There is no sin as satisfactory as a sinuere.

False modesty leads to false ways of living.

The reason a girl objects to a man kissing her is because.

There are very few sisters of the same size who do not pool their clothes.
