MacDonald Says World's Largest Gold Body Here

Joseph MacDonald made the statement more than ten years ago, while holding the position of superintendent of the great Treadwell mines, that he believed the Alaska-Juneau, situated less than 2 miles from town, in Silver Bow basin, was the biggest gold quartz mine in the world. Yesterday, Mr. MacDonald, who had but just returned from a trip of inspection through the wonderful development work, declared that he was now positive that his statement made prior to leaving Juneau was being proved true.

"The Alaska-Juneau mine," he said, "is the greatest mine I have ever seen, and is coming up to the predictions that I made over ten years ago.

"The mine has been worked from the top in a small way for a number of years. Now, the ore body is cut by the great tunnels and it is proving to be of immense magnitude. Expecting the big iron deposits of the Massaba range, I do not know of a larger ore deposit in the world than that held in the zone immediately back of Juneau. The same ore shoots that penetrate the Alaska-Juneau property are in the Perseverance property. Yes, I have every reason to believe that it is just as good. The Ebner property lying next to the Alaska-Juneau is another good property that I am acquainted with, and though the values may not be so high, it is my opinion that it will yield at least a dollar per ton profit.

"I have gone through the Alaska-Juneau property recently and am thoroughly acquainted with its resources. The first ore body encountered is 500 feet wide and will yield 78,750,000 tons; the portion in the basin below the old workings is 1200 ft. wide and 1500 ft. in length, and will yield 176,400,000. The two bodies will yield a grand total of 254,150,000 tons. Mining and milling 5,000 tons per day it will take 141 years to work out the property above the tunnel level. The ore has a value running from $2.25 to $2.80 per ton. Under the gravity system that is being installed it can be mined and milled for 69 cents per ton allowing ten cents loss in tailings or lack of recovery. I am working a big mine down in Mexico, but in magnitude it is small

SEATTLE, June 27.—Mrs. Kelly has again instituted divorce against S. Foster Kelly, her husband, the former Seattle banker who acquired a great deal of notoriety a few years ago by eloping with Mrs. Iva May Henry, wife of a bank clerk in the institution of which he was an officer. After the elopement, Kelly and Mrs. Henry separated and the former returned to his wife who dismissed the suit she had started against him and forgave him. Apparently there was a complete reconciliation, and the Kellys began living together again.

REPRESENTATIVE OF WILSON ON JEFFERSON

Among the excursionists on the Jefferson is a personal representative of President Woodrow Wilson. After the trip he will make a report directly to the President on conditions in the North as he sees them.

Seth Mann, lawyer of San Francisco, who is said to be particularly fitted for an intelligent study of Alaska conditions on account of his familiarity with mining and mining law, gained through his handling of many cases of quartz and placer litigation in the California courts, has received the appointment from President Wilson.

Mr. Mann has been practicing law in California for many years, and though he has never held office, has been consistently prominent in Democratic circles.

Mr. Mann Friend of Secretary Lane. The appointment of Mr. Mann was the direct result of the receipt by President Wilson of the comprehensive album of maps and pictures of Alaska, compiled by the Alaska bureau and presented to the President. With the album went a note explaining the tour to be taken this summer and asking that a representative be appointed to accompany the excursion and make a report to the President. The President then assured Senator W. L. Jones and Charles G. Helffer that he would appoint some one to make the trip.

Mr. Mann was appointed at the suggestion of Secretary of the Interior Franklin K. Lane. Mr. Mann made the nominating speech before the convention when Secretary Lane was a candidate for Governor of California.

CINCINNATI, June 27.—In an address here today former President William H. Taft declared that he is fearful that reformers will go to extremes

Excursion Arrives Saturday Afternoon

Gov. J. F. A. Strong today received a cablegram from J. L. McPherson, secretary of the Alaska Bureau of the New Seattle Chamber of Commerce stating that the Jefferson will arrive in Juneau at 1:30 tomorrow afternoon and remain here until midnight. Mr. McPherson is in charge of the excursion party aboard the Jefferson.

At the offices of the Alaska Steamship company it is stated that the Jefferson left Sitka at three o'clock this afternoon and that she will arrive in Treadwell at six o'clock tomorrow morning and that she will dock in Juneau at 12:30.

Yesterday President John Reek, of the Juneau Commercial Club, received a cablegram from J. L. McPherson, while the Jefferson was in Wrangell, stating that the Jefferson would arrive in Juneau today at noon and remain until evening. This cable to Mr. Reek, of course, was an error on the part of some person, but nothing serious has resulted from the fact that it was erroneous. The later advices are in line with the itinerary arranged before the Jefferson sailed from Seattle and as published in The Empire.

There are 120 people aboard all told, many of whom are representatives of the leading newspapers and periodicals of the United States. These men are out on a voyage of discovery—looking for the truth about Alaska. It will be up to the Commercial Club committee to assist them in gathering information about Juneau and the great gold belt that is being developed. There will be launches at the service of the committee in conveying the visitors to Sheep creek and to Salmon creek where large developments are now under way. At the same hour members of the committee will meet in the lobby of the Occidental hotel those who desire to make the journey to Silver Bow Basin. This journey will take the visitors to the Alaska-Juneau mines, the Ebner mines and the Perseverance mines, while the journey to Sheep creek will reveal the building of the great reduction plant of the Alaska-Gastineau Mining company and the tunnel leading to the Perseverance. The trip to Salmon creek will give a comprehensive view of the great power development that is built and building for the Alaska-Gastineau Mining company.

BIG AUDIENCE GREETS RICH SHOW

The "Beauty Doctor" attracted a packed house at the Orpheum last night and the comedy, choruses and specialties produced by the Frank Rich Company were received with laughter and enthusiasm.

Miss Edith Wilma's contralto solos were entitled to special mention, and the comedy of Herb Bell and Ira Robertson was appreciated as it always has been in Juneau.

The Sunshine Chorus measured up fully to the expectations of the audience. The members are all pretty and the uniforms set them off to the best advantage. Their dancing, stage work and singing called forth frequent encores. The scenery and stage setting was good, and with the stage filled with pretty women it was worth seeing.

Tonight's performance at the Orpheum by the Frank Rich Company will be "A Mixed Affair," and the same performers will star. Miss Wilma will appear in the title role.

Two Plays in One.

In addition to the regular performance, there will be a chorus girls' vaudeville contest. In this there will be a half dozen or more specialties that are not in the regular program, and the audience will be allowed to decide upon whom the cash prize offered by the management shall be bestowed.

The advance sale of seats already guarantee that there will be another large audience tonight.

A Card of Thanks.

The members of the Juneau High School band extend their sincere thanks to the committee of Juneau, Douglas, Treadwell and Sheep creek, to the Alaska Gastineau Company, the Juneau Ferry & Navigation Co. and others that rendered aid to them in connection with the Sheep creek excursion and dance, and to all those whose patronage contributed to make the affair the great success that it was.

The new mill gives better satisfaction than the one that was destroyed by fire last winter. He also states that the demand for lumber is now good and there are enough orders on hand to keep it going for some time. Many people have been waiting for lumber in order to build.
