DECORATION DAY.

THIS is Decoration Day, a day that has been dedicated by law in some States and by common consent everywhere that Americans live to those who have served in the army or navy of the Nation and who have passed from this vale of tears into the great Eternity. However, generally speaking, it is associated in the public mind with those who fought to preserve the Union in the Civil War.

It is meet that on at least one day of the year business houses should close and people should consider those who have either given or risked their lives fearlessly for our country. There are few left among the living of the Grand Army established for all time in that court in the affairs of men—the arbitration of arms—that the United States shall remain for all time one and unseparable. And it should be the purpose of every citizen today, in addition to paying tribute to the dead of the Nation, to make special effort to express in some way his appreciation of the services that have been rendered by the living remnant of that great army of men who served the Nation when it sorely needed their services.

It is a pleasant thought today that there is no place in the Nation where the occasion is not one that is dedicated equally to those Americans who fought on both sides of the great American war. In the North, those who wore the gray are given place alongside those who wore the blue, and in the South, on their Memorial Day, the foes of '61-65 are not forgotten.

Penrose has been nominated for Senator in Pennsylvania. Foraker has announced his candidacy for his old job in Ohio, and Cannon for his in Illinois. Aldrich, speak up for Little Rhody!

INCONSISTENCY IN HIGH PLACES

IT IS a strange thing how people engaged in business adopt methods that have been proved to be sound in the conduct of their own matters, yet condemn the same methods when applied to the government. There is yet a disposition on the part of big business men to oppose at every opportunity the application of the initiative and referendum to the public business, yet we see them adopting the principle involved in matters that concern their own affairs. For instance, the Seattle Chamber of Commerce Record of recent date contains a review of a proposition that has been submitted by the United States Chamber of Commerce to a referendum vote of the various local commercial organizations which make up the greater organization. Not only that, but the proposition is labelled "Referendum No. 7," thus strongly suggesting the "seven sisters" which it is proposed to submit to the voters of Washington State and of which members of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce complain so vociferously.
