GODDESS OF LIBERTY CONTEST FOR FOURTH

A Goddess of Liberty and thirteen aides, representing the 13 colonies that wrested American independence from Great Britain, will be among the features of the Fourth of July celebration in Juneau. The Goddess of Liberty will be selected by ballot by the people of Juneau, and all girls over 10 years of age belonging to the grades in the Juneau public school are eligible for election. High school girls are barred.

The election contest for Goddess of Liberty will begin Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock. Ballot boxes will be placed at Barragar's, Burford's, Taylor's, Hile and Keist's, the Alaskan hotel, and the Alaska Grill.

Tickets will be printed in three colors. The red tickets will count for one vote each, the white tickets count five votes each, and the blue tickets 10 votes. Tickets will cost 10 cents per vote, and the proceeds will go toward defraying the cost of costuming the Goddess of Liberty and her 13 Colonial aides.

The Goddess of Liberty and her 13 little aides will be in the Liberty float in the parade in the morning of the Fourth of July.

THANE GETS EIGHT DAILY FERRY TRIPS

The ferry boat Alma went on its new schedule Saturday. The chief difference between the new and the old time card is that the new one provides eight trips to Thane each day instead of three as previously. Twelve trips are still made from Juneau, the first one, however, has been advanced from 6:30 to 6 a. m. The 2 p. m. trip has been omitted, but a 4 p. m. trip to Douglas and Treadwell has been substituted.

The Thane trips from Juneau begin at 6 a. m., and include those sailing from Juneau at 8 a. m., 11 a. m., 1 p. m., 5 p. m., 6:30 p. m. 9:30 p. m., and 11 p. m.

The late Saturday night trip from Juneau has been extended from 11:40 p. m. to 12:15 Sunday morning, and it goes to Thane in addition to Douglas and Treadwell. Returning the ferry leaves Thane at 12:30 a. m., omits Treadwell and leaves Douglas for Juneau at 12:40 a. m.

DEATH VISITS PIONEER FAMILY OF JUNEAU

Mrs. Susie Johansen, wife of Julius Johansen, died at St. Ann's hospital Saturday of hemorhage following childbirth. The child never breathed, and two hours after its birth, the mother followed it to the great beyond.

Mrs. Johansen was born at Sitka, of Russian parents, in 1865, and was two years of age when she became an American with the acquisition of Alaska by the United States. She was Miss Susie Wolland before her marriage. She is survived by her husband and three children, two sons and a daughter. Mr. Johansen has been a resident of Juneau for many years.

The funeral of Mrs. Johansen will take place from the Presbyterian church tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. The Forresters of America and Order of Moose have charge of the arrangements.

JUNEAU FORMED COMPANY BREAKS AT WHITEHORSE

"Three men, Brown, Tibbetts and Lambert," accodring to the Whitehorse Star, formed a partnership at Juneau to prospect in Yukon Territory. Brown was made treasurer and to him Tibbetts turned over his surplus cash. The party went to Skagway by boat and mushed over the road from there to Whitehorse. One night, Brown, the treasurer, stole away from his partners and hotfooted it over the back trail Skagwayward. His partners, however, informed the police, and Brown was apprehended at Carcross, and taken back to Whitehorse where he made settlement with his partners, and was permitted to go with a suspended sentence.

DOUGLAS' VICTORY GIVES HER LEAD

Douglas-Treadwell, 5; Gastineau-Juneau, 1; is the story of the baseball game yesterday at Recreation park, making the series stand four games to three in favor of the Douglas-Treadwell aggregation.

A large crowd of fans witnessed the game yesterday and a more perfect day could be asked for.

In the first three innings, it was a one, two, three record for Ford, not a Douglas man reaching first. Catcher Duggan the second man to bat was hit on the right arm by a pitched ball, rendering that arm almost useless. For the remainder of the game Duggan could not throw to second, a circumstance that counted materially in Juneau's defeat.

Wurth, one of Juneau's hardest hitters, who covers wide territory in the right field, was put out of the game early when running into first base, and further crippling the local team.

Juneau made her one run in the second, Molloy, second up, singled, and was advanced to third when Smith hit through second base; Ford got a base on balls, advancing Smith to second, and the bases were full; Wright singled, scoring Molloy, bases full again. Pittman pulled himself out of a tight place, Duggan flying out and Hester fanning.

In the first half of the fourth, Kalal walked and stole second, Kerry went out to first and Kalal scored when Kertis sent a hot one through second base. Wood and Mensor both flyed out to center.

Ford struck out five men in the fifth and sixth innings.

The next scoring was in the seventh. Kertis got first on Hester's error, stole second, Wood struck out and Mensor got to first on Ford's fumbling a short grounder, Kertis taking third; Mensor was caught off the base; Kertis scored on a passed ball by Duggan; Redmond was given a base on balls, stole second and advanced to third on Duggan's error. Dahl was given a base on balls but Mauseth struck out retiring side. In the ninth Wood, first up, got a home run. Through hitting and errors Douglas got two more runs making five runs altogether.

In the last three innings Juneau did not get a man to second base.

Ford pitched a remarkable game, striking out 15 men. Manager Wulzen had no man to replace Duggan, whose sore arm was a serious handicap, notwithstanding the sportsmanlike conduct of Douglas players in refusing to steal bases except where the play called for a steal.

Pittman also pitched a splendid game, allowing only three hits, and striking out eight men.

The official record tells the story:

WHITEHORSE FLOATER MURDER VICTIM

The coroner's inquest developed that the man whose dead body was discovered floating in the Fiftymile river in front of Whitehorse about ten days ago was murdered. The corpse was identified as the remains of Dominco Mells, an Italian, 45 years of age, who had been employed in the Pueblo mine near Whitehorse, and missing since February 4. The autopsy showed that he had been beaten to death, the head being crushed to pulp, and several bones of the body were broken.

Suspects Arrested at Dawson.

Mells' roommate, Romollio Caessari, and another associate George Ganley, who disappeared from Whitehorse early in February, going down the river, were arrested at Dawson last Wednesday. They admitted that they were partners of the murdered man, and will be sent to Whitehorse for trial for the murder of Mells.

Body Was Placed in Ice.

The Northwest Mounted policemen who unravelled the mystery hold that Mells was beaten to death, probably the result of a drunken quarrel, and his body carried out on the river near Whitehorse Rapids and covered with ice. The body was trussed between poles when found, and it is believed that the poles were used to facilitate carrying the body to its resting place in the ice.

The Whitehorse Star says the people of Whitehorse give the Northwest Mounted Police great praise for the manner in which the case was handled.

WHITE PASS USES YUKON RIVER COAL

WHITEHORSE, June 19.—The Star says that "barge loads of coal are now being brought regularly to this place from Tantalus by the White Pass steamers for use on the railroad. Shipments will be continued until about 2,000 tons have been delivered. This coal is of superior quality and is from the mines of which the one and only George J. Milton is promoter and general manager."

New Fuel Agent.

J. W. Wilson, formerly purser on the White Pass steamer Selkirk, has been appointed fuel agent for the White Pass steamers with jurisdiction from Whitehorse to St. Michael.

WILLIAM HALLADY DROWNED TODAY

A young man employed by the Worthen Mills was drowned about one o'clock this afternoon, by falling off the log boom into the icy water of Gastineau channel. The body was recovered about two hours after. The drowned man apparently was seized with a fainting spell, according to those who witnessed his plunge into the water. The body never rose to the surface and although a rescue was immediately attempted it required two hours to bring the body to the surface. The identity of the unfortunate young man is not positively known, but is believed to be William Halladay. He was about 25 years of age.
