

Democratic Primaries Give Everyone Equal Chance

The plain intimation by the Dispatch this morning that the anti-Wickersham men in the Juneau Democratic club are taking unfair methods to prevent a free expression of the will of the Democrats of Juneau is resented by some of the leading Democrats of this city as being unfair—unintentionally, maybe, but nevertheless unfair.

The rules for the primary election in the formulation of which the chief part was enacted by a close friend of Delegate Wickersham, even to the suggestion of the judges and clerks of the election—provide that those participating in the primary, if challenged, to support the nominee of the Skagway convention. This is just as binding on the anti-Wickersham men—and those who are not necessarily anti-Wickersham, but with whom he is not the first choice—upon those who favor the nomination by the Democrats of the Delegate.

The Juneau Democratic club did not select its delegate ticket at a secret meeting. The club has had but one meeting since the credentials committee at the Baltimore convention, favors his nomination, and all of them will support him if he is the nominee.

It is doubtless fair to say that a large majority of those on the club primary ticket are not in favor of the nomination of Delegate Wickersham at Skagway, though one, J. H. Cobb, the lawyer who represented the regular Democracy before the credentials committee at the Baltimore convention, favors his nomination, and all of them will support him if he is the nominee.

SKAGWAY NOT FOR JOELIN. SKAGWAY, July 23.—The rumor that Skagway Democrats have endorsed Falcon Joelin for the nomination for the Delegate to Congress is false. Local Democrats will meet tonight for the purpose of organizing a Democratic club and to make arrangements for a primary election Saturday to choose delegates to the Territorial convention which convenes here August 3.

NEW JUDGES FOR THE PRIMARY ELECTION. The committee of the Juneau Democratic Club, which prepared the plans, rules and regulations for the Democratic primary election that will take place Saturday afternoon, at the request of Angus Mackay and W. W. Casey, who were selected for judges of the primary election before they were placed in nomination for delegates, decided today to accept their resignations and name others. The other judges who will act with Perry Wiley will be announced tomorrow.

LABOR PAPER NOT FOR WICKERSHAM. It must not be thought that because the Daily Industrial Worker, of Nome, a paper conducted by the Western Federation of Miners' local at that place, thinks that Delegate James Wickersham will be re-elected, that it is supporting his candidacy or thinks he deserves his popularity. After predicting the probable re-election of Delegate Wickersham, The Industrial Worker says:

"Wickersham has always at least been an interesting figure, if his popularity has been a somewhat difficult to understand. We see no particular reason for his claiming the railroad legislation as his own, any more than he can claim that the Territorial legislation was his own."

"The mine of the Wickersham legislation was defective in many ways, while the defects of the legislation claimed by him for the most part can be discounted by him or claimed by him just as he has a mind so to do."

"As a politician Wickersham is consummately able, and he has the happy faculty of placing his political wares before the people so that they will buy. This is a nice way of saying that he can effectively hook his line and catch the suckers. But it is the same thing."

"The penal art of serious bull con that will be taken seriously is one in which Mr. Wickersham is an adept. He can fool the workers, the operators, the Guggs, the doctors, the lawyers, the preachers and fool them to the top of his ability. Such gifts in a politician are not to be despised, what might appear vicious when practiced by the common or garden confidence man, when made use of by the able politician reach a standard which claims with right the wings of virtue. It is essentially the politician's function."

GOVERNMENT PULP EXPERTS IN JUNEAU

W. G. Weigle, head of the forest service in Alaska, with headquarters in Ketchikan; Leonard Lundgren, forest service hydraulic engineer; H. E. Surface, pulp expert from Madison, Wisconsin, and L. A. Nelson, logging expert from Portland, Oregon, have just completed a cruise of investigation with the forest service boat Tahh to Baranoff and Chichagoff islands. All of the water power plants and sites in the Baranoff and Chichagoff island sections were visited and conditions studied.

The investigation just made," said Mr. Weigle, "disclose that conditions are favorable in those sections for the establishing of pulp and paper mills and the building up of a large industry in this line. Some day Southeastern Alaska will be the biggest producing section in the world pulp and paper industry."

Since coming to Juneau, Mr. Surface has received a cablegram from the Tasmanian government asking him to come to Tasmania and make an investigation of that country for the purpose of determining the possibilities and resources there for the manufacture of pulp and paper.

EMINENT RUSSIAN MINING MAN HERE

E. N. Barbot de Marney, eminent mining engineer of St. Petersburg, Russia, and a director of the Lena Gold Fields Co., the largest gold mining company in Russia, is in Juneau and a guest of the Hotel Cain. Mr. Barbot de Marney arrived in Juneau Tuesday night en route to the interior of Alaska via Yukon Territory. He will visit Dawson, Fairbanks, Iditarod, and Nome. The purpose of his visit is to study the methods and processes of mining in this country, particularly that feature which has to do with frozen gravels.

The mines of the Lena are all deep placer and frozen, like they are in Yukon and interior Alaska. The Lena Gold Fields company has immense holdings and operates on a very large scale. The company employs 7,000 men and sluices up annually ten tons of pure gold. The pay is at a depth of 140 feet on an average, too deep for dredging successfully, therefore the method of mining is by the system of placer and frozen gravels with wood fires, or in lieu of wood, coal, is still in vogue. The introduction of steam thawing plants is now contemplated and that this process of mining is of particular interest to the visitor.

While in Dawson he will visit the immense dredgers employed by the Boyles on the Klondike concession and will see the great thawing plants in operation. Although there are no quartz mines in the Lena fields, Mr. Barbot de Marney takes a keen interest in the great quartz mines of Southeastern Alaska, particularly those in the Juneau district and he will visit Treadwell and the other mines of this section if possible.

From Nome, Mr. Barbot de Marney will sail direct to Seattle and from that place back to Russia.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The New York Tribune says the New Haven directors' position in the threatened reorganization suits will be that whatever losses occurred to the company were the result of errors of judgment for which they are not responsible, and in any event the statute of limitations will act as a bar to practically any action that may be begun.

Times Blames Commissions. NEW YORK, July 23.—The New York Times editorial comments in part on Interstate Commerce Commission report on New Haven: "The Interstate Commission itself, however, is older than these errors of management. There are several New England commissions of various ages. It is an arraignment of all these public bodies that these 'crimes' occur under their control, and are only exposed and denounced historically. The public would rather have such a regrettable incident prevented than punished, and it is to be hoped that the New Haven episode will powerfully influence a broader reformation."

Foreign representatives are insisting that the new government of Mexico must recognize the debts of the Nation and respect the property rights of their citizens, and Zapata and Villa have thus far failed to comply with requests for a statement of policy on that point, and both intimate that they will not make any promises until the question of the redistribution of the lands in their respective sections of the country is settled. Zapata insists as the price of peace that the big estates of Southern Mexico must be made available for small holders, and Villa is believed to incline to the same position as to the estates of Northern Mexico.
