FOREST SERVICE MAKING SURVEYS

W. G. Weigle, head of the U. S. forest service in Alaska, has just returned from a trip to Tenakee and Warm Springs Bay where he has been in relation to forest service town-site surveys that are being made at those places so that claimants holding property and residences thereon will have some definite standing. Lands surrounding hot and mineral springs in Alaska were only recently restored to the administration of the forest service.

The proclamation of 1910 created a reservation of 160 acres around each mineral spring or hot spring in the country until such time as Congress should further legislate on the matter. This left such tracts in the position of being debarred administration by any of the departments of the government. President Wilson lifted this proclamation by issuing an order placing all such lands within the national forests under the administration of the forest service.

Surveying Homesteads.
Several tracts of land within the national forest of Alaska have been restored for entry as homesteads by executive order and these are now being surveyed by K. P. Cecil of the Portland office of the forest service. Recently he completed surveys near Hadley and Kasaaan and is now in Juneau preparing to survey several tracts in this section, among which will be the homestead of C. J. Skuse near Mendenhall; the Anderson homestead on Nevada creek, Douglas Island; the Dahl homestead on Spuhn Island; and the Albert Peterson homestead near Mendenhall. Mr. Cecil is staying at the Hotel Cain.

UPPER FLOORS GOLDSTEIN BLOCK NEARLY DONE

The interior of the great Goldstein building is now beginning to take form. Already the two upper floors to be devoted exclusively to offices are plastered and carpenters are now putting in the interior finish. All told there are almost 60 good office rooms on these two floors. The other three floors and basement will be used almost exclusively by the big Goldstein department stores.

SHRINERS TO TAKE CITY THIS WEEK

Juneau will be in the hands of the Shriners before the end of the present week, according to latest advices. The invaders from Nile Temple are expected here Friday on the Mariposa. The advent of the pilgrimage from Nile Temple will be marked in Juneau by a monster Oriental parade in which there will be gorgeous costumes and music galore. This will precede the great ceremonials to follow Saturday evening attending the admission of a class of novices numbering about 40 from different parts of Southeastern Alaska.

John Rex Thompson, Potentate of Nile Temple, Seattle, has been in Juneau for the past few days completing arrangements for the ceremonial in Elk's hall Saturday evening at 6:30. The pilgrimage from Nile Temple of Seattle on their arrival here will harness the novices for "their trip across the hot sands." The parade will be a gorgeous affair. The pilgrims in Oriental costume will escort the novices in over the city to the accompaniment of Oriental music.

The city will be decorated in the national colors. The committee on decorations and arrangements has asked the merchants to decorate their windows in yellow and green, the Mystic Shrine colors.

Two years ago the Shriners gave a big time here in Juneau with an Oriental parade, but this promises to eclipse anything heretofore attempted in Juneau.

MACHINERY MAN PRAISES THE CHICAGO MINE

L. R. Hain of the Ingersoll-Rand Co., has just returned from a week's visit at Chicago and brings back glowing reports of that thriving mine. "It is a fine little mine," said Mr. Hain, "and is pounding away all the time on good ore. Everything about the property is in fine condition. A new 10-stamp mill is now being erected and will be working about the middle of October. This will make 30 stamps all told as 20 stamps have been working now for some time."

PLAYING CLOSE BASEBALL GAMES AT DAWSON CITY

A combined Whitehorse and Skagway baseball team played a picked team from Dawson a series of games at the Klondike metropolis last week. The Dawson team won the first game and the team from the South the second. Other games were to be played.

MURDERED MAN KNOWN AT FAIRBANKS

FAIRBANKS, Aug. 15. — The description received here from Valdez of the Austrian, John Smith, found dead near the Taalina hill last Thursday, has led many to believe it is the same man who left here on July 18th with Tony Tol. The marshal here is endeavoring to locate men who knew Smith and Tol and will try to verify the reports. It is feared that Tol was also murdered.

Considerable alarm is felt among the miners and prospectors who have occasion to use the Valdez trail when leaving in the fall with their summer's wages for the coast, as they believe that a gang of murderers have killed many and that only a few of the bodies have been discovered. Strong pressure is now being brought upon the authorities to have the cases investigated and the guilty party, or parties, punished.

Look For Slayer.
The Valdez prospector says: Chief Deputy Marshal Bouse has sent to Washington, D. C., a full account of the finding of the body of a third man murdered within a year on the government road to the interior, and has urged that immediate steps be taken by the authorities to apprehend the murderers.

Detective McGuire, who has been working on the case since last summer when Ole Nelson and Herman Anderson were killed about August 1 near Willow creek, has been ordered by the Department of Justice to leave Juneau for Copper Center at once and to make every effort to locate the murderers. It is also believed that several agents of the department will be sent to the scene because of the urgent request of the chief deputy.

ARGUMENT FOR PUBLIC DEFENDER

It probably would be a good plan for the next Legislature of Washington to provide for a public defender, an attorney to be employed at public expense to defend persons who are too poor to employ counsel.

The county of Los Angeles, California, has such an officer, and instead of the new office being an additional burden on taxpayers, it is saving money for taxpayers. The public defender and the public prosecutor act in such harmony in the California county that the business of the court is transacted in very much less time and at less expense than formerly. The anticipated bickerings and quarrels between defender and prosecutor have not developed.

Moreover, poor persons accused of crime are now certain of a fair and impartial trial.

The California experiment has been so successful that Samuel Untermyer, writing to an influential magazine, is urging the adoption of a similar policy in New York.

It would be a good policy for Washington also.

The present practice of the judges assigning lawyers to defend persons accused of crime, and unable to employ counsel, is not only costly, but too frequently results in a miscarriage of justice.

Candidates for the Legislature should null over the probable advantages of a public defender law for the state of Washington.—Seattle Sun.

SEVEN BOATS BRING BIG HALIBUT CATCHES

SEATTLE, Aug. 19.—Nearly 300,000 pounds of halibut from the Alaska banks arrived in port this morning on seven schooners of the independent fleet, the largest number to reach Seattle in one day for several months. The price offered by the buyers followed: Yakutat, with 50,000 pounds of fish; Tyee, 60,000; Tom & Al, 50,000; Myrtle Endresson, 40,000; and Pioneer, 30,000. The steamship Zapora, of the International Fisheries Company, arrived in Tacoma with 140,000 pounds.

MAN INJURED AT KILLISNOO IS IN HOSPITAL

Knute Gerde, an employee of the Alaska Oil and Guano company, who was injured by a small boat falling on him, was brought to Juneau Sunday night and is now under the care of the marine doctor at St. Ann's hospital. The injury is not serious. He was brought to Juneau on the company launch, Manager Funcke accompanying him to Juneau. Mr. Funcke will return to Killisnoo on the Georgia.

MAN DIED AT KILLISNOO.

W. P. Gutperlet, employed at the Killisnoo guano works, accidentally fell down while walking on the streets one day last week and sustained concussion of the brain from the effects of which he died. He was taken to Sitka for burial, upon telegraphic instructions from relatives living in the States.

NEW STRIKE MADE IN ATLIN DISTRICT

A new strike was made at the head of Spruce creek in the Atlin section about two weeks ago, according to Jas. McCloskey who has just arrived in Juneau from that section and the prospectors have united and are now bringing water onto the ground so that it can be mined.

Mr. McCloskey brought $30,000 from the property owned and operated by himself and his brother, John McCloskey, on Spruce creek. He has the gold here in Juneau and will take it south with him within a few days. It is mostly in dust but he has several thousand dollars in large nuggets that will probably be saved for exhibition at San Francisco next year. "This has been one of the best years since we commenced operating," said Mr. McCloskey, "and it is also the best for many other operators in that section."

O'Donnell creek is not a disappointment, but mining on a large scale depends largely on getting water onto the ground, according to Mr. McCloskey, and efforts are now being made in this direction. The ground suitable for drift mining has turned out satisfactory although there is no stable paystreak, found the ground being spotted. Hydraulic mining will be the economical way of working it. There are probably all told 150 men on O'Donnell creek.

Among other creeks worthy of note are Ruby where Daulton of Seattle and associates are making good money after six years of hard drilling. Last year they made their first money and this year they are doing much better. On Boulder Jack Black is reported to be getting ready to take out good pay next year, and Moran on the same creek is already doing fine. E. S. Pearce is hydraulicking with good success on Birch creek, and a big company of French capitalists is working on Otter.

KUSKOKWIM MAY GET LAST YEAR'S MAIL

SEATTLE, Aug. 17.—Several tens of mail which left Seattle for the residents of the isolated Kuskokwim river district of Alaska more than a year ago has been returned to the local office and will be taken north a second time by the little trading schooner Bender Brothers, sailing from Seattle some time next week.

Believing that they could make quicker delivery by dispatching the mail for the Kuskokwim via St. Michael and from thence overland to its destination between the trips of the Bender Brothers, post office authorities sent several mail shipments for this district on Bering Sea liners from Seattle early last summer.

The mail was taken to St. Michael and from St. Michael up the Yukon river to Holy Cross. The lone carrier from Holy Cross was unable to handle the tons of mail which accumulated for the Kuskokwim and it was shipped back down the Yukon to St. Michael and from St. Michael to Seattle, arriving at its starting point more than a year after first shipment.

In addition to mail the Bender Brothers will carry approximately 250 tons of general merchandise and six passengers. Since Capt. Louis Knaflich has taken the schooner Ruby, Capt. Carl Hanson has been in command of the Bender Brothers. He will take her to Bethel on the Kuskokwim river and come right back. The voyage will take the little craft about two months.

FIRST TERRITORIAL BANK IS STURDY INSTITUTION

The First Territorial Bank of Alaska, located at Douglas and with branch offices in Juneau although only a year old is becoming a sturdy financial institution according to the statement read at the stockholders' meeting held in the Juneau offices yesterday for the purpose of electing a new directorate.

A statement of the condition of the bank on Friday last, August 21, shows deposits aggregating $290,549.73 in the main bank at Douglas and the Juneau branch; and that there is a net profit of $3,608.41 since the institution began last year.

Vice-President Kennedy read a paper setting forth the favorable conditions prevailing and brought out the congratulatory fact that the institution already at the close of its first year's business has deposits exceeding by $100,000 the local deposits of the First National Bank previous to 1912. Mr. Kennedy said that President O'Connor and Cashier Gurr were, in a large measure, responsible for the popularity enjoyed by the institution.

SKAGWAY BEARED BOY BECOMES A MISSIONARY

Under date of July 16th, in a letter written from Holland, Horace E. Hillery informs his brother, W. R. Hillery, cashier of the W. P. & Y. R. company, that it is his intention to leave there for Switzerland, where he will remain for a couple of months, and then go on to Berlin.

Horace E. Hillery was practically raised in Skagway, leaving 7 years ago, in company with his mother for Los Angeles. For quite a while previous to his departure from here he was employed in the Clayton mercantile establishment.

He has taken up theological work and in the seven years that have passed since he went outside he has been a student at the Occidental college at Los Angeles and later of a theological college in Marin county, California, near San Francisco.

He was ordained on April 20th, 1914, and in June started for Northern India, where he is being sent by the mission board as a missionary preacher.—Skagway Alaskan.

LEADING LONDON FINANCIAL PAPER PRAISES PRESIDENT

LONDON, Aug. 24. — The London Economist Saturday contained a leading editorial praising President Woodrow Wilson for his refusal to allow a French loan in the United States. It says: "The United States has done honor to herself and a service to the world in maintaining a strict neutrality by refusing to allow its bankers to take the profit that would follow by prolonging the carnage in Europe."
