INDIANA'S DISEASE PREVENTION DAY

(Journal of American Medical Association.)

Health administration in Indiana has for a long time past been vigorous and energetic, as it is in many of our other states. It has also been unique, peculiarly up-to-date and popular in its methods of attracting attention and affording instruction. The latest activity of the health forces of the state is thoroughly characteristic. Governor Ralston has issued a proclamation designating Friday, Oct. 2, 1914, as Disease Prevention Day. He urges the cities and towns throughout the state to make special arrangements for appropriate exercises, emphasizing the importance of public health, and the joint responsibility of all citizens therefore in order to inspire in them a desire to co-operate in all sane efforts for the prevention of physical diseases. The state board of health has prepared a special bulletin containing a copy of the governor's proclamation and suggestions for the celebration of Disease Prevention Day in the towns of Indiana. Some of these suggestions are terse and apt and deserve to be circulated.

"Get up a public-health procession. In cities the mayor should head the procession; in towns the town board of trustees, the town board of health, under the law, should lead. There should be a brass band; drums and trumpets should be used; music is necessary for a procession; school girls dressed white bearing banners with health mottoes, boys in white or otherwise neatly dressed carrying banners with health mottoes. Where there are high schools, the pupils should try to present some original idea representing the importance of disease prevention."

"The advice to business men is equally emphatic.

"Business men should be represented in the procession. The most important business before the business man today is the business of public health. Retail stores should dress their windows in articles that deal in, belong to or hint at cleanliness and health. Hardware stores can show garbage cans, garden hose, fly traps, and rat traps. Dry goods merchants can show a pile of towels and soap arranged around a bathtub. Grocers can make pure food displays and so can restaurants."

"The advice to individual citizens is equally direct, so that no one can feel that he is being omitted or has no part in the celebration.

"Let every home, each front yard and back yard, the rear of stores and all streets and alleys be made especially clean for Disease Prevention Day. Let each person wear clean clothes on that day, take a bath, put on a clean shirt, clean socks and clean collars and get his shoes shined. Get a hair cut and a shave, wash your hands and face, clean your finger nails and don't spit on the sidewalk. Let everybody be clean and tall of cleanliness and health."

Suggested mottoes for Disease Prevention Day are also contained in the bulletin. Some of these are:

"The only good fly is the dead fly."
"Well-kept alleys pay better dividends than well-kept cemeteries."
"Public health is public wealth."
"Bat the rat and swat the fly."
"Don't take patent-medicines."
"All the time is clean-up time."
"Dust, dirt, dampness, darkness, drink, will always kill."
"That the state board of health does not hesitate to follow its own suggestions is shown by the public-health side-show recently given at the Indiana State Fair. A large circus tent was installed on the fair grounds with banners depicting health topics displayed in front after the manner of the time-honored side-show. The secretary of the State Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis acted as Barker for the show, and through a megaphone, announced to the gathered crowds the attractions to be seen within the tent. The Indianapolis Newsboys' band gave serenades at intervals in front to attract the people. Inside the tent, lectures illustrated with lantern slides and moving pictures on various health topics all served to emphasize the importance and value of health. It is estimated that over twenty thousand people passed through the tent during the State Fair. This sort of a campaign will certainly have a marked result on public sentiment and eventually on permanent health conditions in the state. The people of Indiana are to be congratulated on having a state board of health that is active and progressive and especially on having a broad-minded, intelligent, and public-spirited governor who is sufficiently interested in the welfare of his people to place himself at the head of the public health movement in the State.

RHEIMS RUINED BEYOND REPAIR

LONDON.—Novelist Thomas Hardy, himself an architect in early days, has written a striking letter on the bombardment of the Rheims Cathedral, from which the Daily News publishes an extract as follows:

"Gothic architecture has been a dead art for the past 300 years, in spite of imitations thrown broadcast over the land; and much of what has gone from this fine structure has gone forever.

"The magnificent stained glass of the Cathedral probably will be found to have suffered most. How is that to be renewed? Some of it dated to the thirteenth century and is imitable by any handworkers in the craft nowadays. Then there was sculpture, mouldings, and other details, and, moreover, their antique history. How can that history be imparted to a renewal?"

"If I had been told three months ago that any inhabitants of Europe would wilfully damage such a masterpiece as the Rheims Cathedral, in any circumstance whatever, I should have thought it an incredible statement.

"Is there any remote chance of devastation being accidental, partly accidental, or contrary to orders of superior officers? This ought to be irrefutably established, since, on it depends the question whether German civilization shall become a byword forever.

"Should it turn out to be predetermined destruction, as an object lesson of the German ruling castles, it will strongly suggest what a disastrous blight on the glory and nobility of that great nation has been wrought by the writings of Nietzsche and his followers, Treitschke, Bernhardi, and others.

"I should think there was no instance, since history began, of a country being so demoralized by a single writer, the irony being that he was a megalomaniac, and not truly a philosopher. What puzzles one is to understand how the profounder thinkers of Germany, and, to some extent, elsewhere, can have been so dazzled by this writer's bombastic poetry, for it is a sort of prose poetry, as to be blinded to the fallacy of his arguments if they can be called arguments, but which are off-hand assumptions.

"His postulates as to what life is on this earth have no resemblance to reality, yet he and his school seem to have eclipsed for a time in Germany the closely reasoned philosophies of such men as Schopenhauer. It is rather tough on the latter that his views of life should be swept into one net with those of Nietzsche, Treitschke, and the rest."

WONDERFUL PREDICTION BY CATHOLIC PRIEST

A prediction made by Dom Bosco, a Catholic Priest of Portugal, who died ten years ago, was published in the Paris "Matin" in June, 1901:

"A European war will break out in 1913 or 1914. Germany will be dismembered, not, however, until she shall have penetrated into the heart of France. There a mighty arm will hurl the Germans back across the Rhine. The man of pride will see his tree shattered and crushed to the roots and trodden under foot by all. The great battle will take place between the two days of Our Lady, viz: between August 15, and September 15, when the Pope shall be dead and live again. Belgium will undergo great suffering, from which she will emerge increased in strength and much admired. Poland will regain her rights."
