BULLION SHAFT ABOUT THREE-FOURTH FINISHED

TREADWELL, Oct. 15.—Work is progressing steadily at the Ready Bullion shaft and if all goes well the shaft will be completed by January 1. Crews are working on several levels raising, and a crew, sinking from the 2100 level, is within 175 feet of the proposed bottom of the shaft. The shaft is completed for 1200 feet of the surface and the entire work is three-fourths finished.

On the account of the shaft being driven through old levels the work is done a great deal faster, as very little rock has to be hoisted.

The new shaft will open a large body of ore that has been impracticable to work up the present time. It is expected that the cost of working the ore will be materially reduced by the opening of the new hoisting plant.

GAS BOATS TO HAVE MOORING AT NEW FLOAT

Charles Quackinbush has leased from the Pacific Coast company the space enclosed by the company's decking on the waterfront adjoining the Juneau Iron Works, and announced today that he would immediately build a float 800 feet long, to give mooring to the local mosquito fleet. He will cut an entrance through the face of the decking and will so arrange the float that both sides may be utilized. The fringe of piling will serve as a breakwater and gasboatmen have enthusiastically endorsed Mr. Quackinbush's plan.

Work will be started as soon as Mr. Quackinbush secures logs, for which he is advertising.

8,000 TON MILL NOW UNDER WAY

our program has fully matured," Mr. Mackenzie said, "but ultimately the administration building is to be finished. We have not abandoned the idea of having our executive offices on the site we selected three years ago."

The Appropriations
The Alaska-Juneau Gold Mining Company has appropriated $1,000,000 for the mill, $500,000 for the power plant and $1,000,000 for the development of the mine. The transportation, preparations for stopping and haulage, will require several months before their development is completed, and a large crew of men is now engaged in carrying out this detail. The tunnel through the mine is being double-tracked, and considerable cross cutting, drifting and raising is well under way.

The Alaska-Juneau Gold Mining Company is not an ally of the Alaska Treadwell Gold Mining Company, contrary to the general impression. The company is connected with the Treadwell company, only as to a power agreement. The power plant at Treadwell at the present time is furnishing power to the Alaska-Juneau, but when the latter company's plant is finished the contract will be cancelled.

The Backers of Development
Among the largest individual stockholders of the Alaska-Juneau Company are William E. Crocker, of San Francisco, Bernard M. Baruch of New York, Frederic W. Bradley of San Francisco, Philip R. Bradley of Treadwell, J. H. Mackenzie of San Francisco, M. L. Regus of San Francisco and Ogden Mills of New York. The company is organized under the laws of West Virginia.

The Alaska-Juneau is preparing to list its stock on the New York exchange. Already the stock is selling on the curb, the price varying from $11.0 to $15.00.

Big Lumber Cargo Coming.
It was learned today at Treadwell that the barge Palmyra left Seattle three days ago, with a cargo of 1,000,000 feet of lumber for the Alaska-Juneau company. The announcement indicates the immediate start of outside construction work, in line with Mr. Mackenzie's plans.

MINING MEN AND FINANCIERS END STIKINE VISIT

Jafet Lindberg, J. E. Chibberg, C. J. Erickson, C. Higgins and H. E. Plate, who have been making an examination of mining property up the Stikine river, have reached Wrangell, on their return to Seattle. They probably will sail south from Wrangell this evening, on the Princess Alice.

NEW AUTOMOBILE SERVICE FOR PERSEVERANCE

Jack A. Crowe today will inaugurate an automobile service between Juneau and Perseverance. The Juneau end of the line will be at Burford's Corner, Front and Seward streets, and the first trip was to be made this afternoon at 4 o'clock. Mr. Crowe will operate a Winton-Six and a Stevens Durvee, and in case of emergency George C. Burford's National will be used on the line.

The schedule for the service has not been completed yet, but Mr. Crowe says it is the purpose to cater to the convenience of the trade. It will be announced within a few days.

PUBLICIST IS VISITOR

Dudley G. Allen, for three years secretary of the Chamber of Commerce at Aberdeen, Wash., is a visitor in the city and may locate here permanently. He has taken rooms at Charon's.

Mr. Allen was in the importing business in Seattle for the past two years, but the war has curtailed import trade to such an extent that the company eventually was forced to disband.

BUT we've learned that fit depends more on scientific designing, tailoring and lines drawn for the average figure.
