

Outdoorsmen Take 1960 Championship Youth Urged To Remain In School

Amidst a jubilant throng of about 70 fans the Kodiak Outdoorsmen Little League baseball team downed the Naval Station Red Sox 2-1 to clinch the 1960 local championship.

In the first game of a best two-out-of-three series the Outdoorsmen journeyed to the NS field, where before about 40 fans the Red Sox dropped a 4-1 game. The game was called by umpire D. Gloria after 5½ innings due to darkness. Outdoorsmen pitcher Don Robinson gave up only one hit which accounted for the Sox lone tally. Sox hurler Bruce Andrews allowed the Outdoorsmen to rack up 5 hits, one of which was a first inning over-the-fence 4-bagger by slugger Jerry Markham. In the fourth inning with one away the Red Sox threatened with men on second and third. Robinson bore down and the next two batters to face him struck out.

With one win under their belt the Outdoorsmen readied the in-town field to receive the Red Sox. With the score 1-0 for 5½ innings, Sox batter Bruce Andrews lashed a single to drive in Mark Huber tying the score. With the Outdoorsmen at bat in the last of the sixth and the score tied, 2nd baseman Mickey Turner walked and was followed by moundsman Dick Veerman. With runners on second and first Outdoorsmen third sacker Don Robinson smacked the game and championship winning hit, driving in Turner and Veerman.

Winning pitcher for the triumphant Outdoorsmen was Dick Veerman, giving up only 3 hits and 2 walks while striking out 16 Red Sox batters.

League president Curly Wilson stated: "The season was very successful and the work accomplished by the hard working managers, coaches, mothers and fathers was outstanding. I think everyone will agree with me when I say that the most outstanding contribution made by one person was by League Secretary Charles "Mac" McIntyre. Besides the piles of paper work needed to keep the league running smoothly, Mac found time to manage the Bears, organize and assist in the construction of the Kodiak Little League field, plus being a general all round umpire and sign painter. I would also like at this time to congratulate our new champs for this season, the Kodiak Outdoorsmen. A very special congratulations to the Outdoorsmen manager Bill Leistner and his fine coaching staff of Leonard Turner, Art Evans and Leo DeGraw."

Youth Urged To Remain In School

The U. S. Department of Labor, in cooperation with hundreds of organizations throughout the country, is urging young people to stay in school and complete their education. Along with the U. S. Office of Education, the Department of Defense, and others, the Labor Department is directing its annual nationwide appeal to youngsters, their parents, and community leaders, as the fall semester approaches.

To the 10-million boys and girls who are now 14 to 17 years old, the Department points out the obstacles which those who do not graduate from high school will face. A major problem is that dropouts have difficulty getting any job at all because there are fewer unskilled jobs available. The competition for jobs is tougher today because more young people are high school graduates. The non graduates have to search longer for work. For those who do land a job, the salary isn't as good and job promotions are slower.

New knowledge, new skills, more adaptability, and greater flexibility are being required of young workers today. Increasingly, employers are demanding that job applicants have high school diplomas. The odds of getting the kind of beginning job a youngster hopes for are 3 to 1 in favor of those who hold such a diploma.

Despite these facts, 1 out of 3 of the boys and girls enrolled in high school drop out before graduation.

New developments in the professions, in automation, electronics, and precision machinery will accelerate the trend towards more jobs for the educated and skilled, and fewer opportunities for the unskilled.

Industry now needs 1 engineer for every 40 workers. In 1900, the ratio was 1 for 400 workers. For every professionally trained engineer, industry needs, on the average, a crew of five trained technicians. There is a continuing urgent need for more doctors, more college trained nurses, teachers, natural scientists and engineers. For those who wish to take professional or advanced training, a high school diploma is a minimum requirement; in some cases, college work or even a degree is needed.

Various studies have demonstrated that in the long run an education pays for itself. One such inquiry, for example, revealed that by the time a man reaches his peak earning period—roughly 45 to 54 years of age—the high school graduate makes 27 per cent more than the man who completed only the eighth grade. Each year in school yields an additional return in yearly income received. This is especially true of the graduate. A school dropout diploma brings a double reward. Recently, the Institute of Life Insurance reported that a man school through the 11th grade adds with a grade school education can expect a lifetime income of $178,000; the average high school graduate during his adult life can expect to earn $243,000; and a college degree raises the average total to $247,000.
