FIGHT IN NEW YORK

The hostility of Tammany to Judge Alton R. Parker may prevent an endorsement of the chief justice of the Empire state's highest court by the New York democracy. However, the strength of Gotham's famous political organization is being taxed to its utmost in the fight it is making to secure an unqualified delegation from that state, and it is not absolutely certain that it will gain the victory. This fact will appear more clearly when it is considered that to win, it will be necessary for Tammany to unhorse David R. Hill, who is leading the fight for a Parker delegation.

Hill and Parker make a strong combination in the Empire state. For nearly 20 years Hill has been supreme in the councils of the democratic party in that state. For 10 years of that time all the machinery of the state was in his hands. In those days he had a close alliance with Tammany. He knows New York as few men know it, and what is more to the point, he understands how to make the best use of his information. These facts taken with the further fact that Judge Parker is the only democrat, who, at the head of his ticket, has carried New York state since the panic of 10 years ago, make the fight of Tammany difficult.

The quarrel between Tammany and Hill is one of recent years, but it is bitter. From 1884 until after the campaign of 1892, Tammany stood loyally by Hill in his opposition to Cleveland. In 1896, Hill's leadership was still recognized, though trouble was already brewing. The storm broke shortly after that, and Ed Murphy, Hill's colleague in the senate and formerly one of his principal lieutenants, was recognized as the up-state leader by Crocker, then at the head of Tammany. In 1900 Crocker was in the saddle himself. But Hill regained control in 1902, dictated the nomination for governor, and still has the state committee.

Tammany is now fighting to turn Hill down for all time, and in order to do so that organization is supporting Cleveland, its old-time foe, for the presidential nomination.

The interests of the residents of Skagway are as vitally concerned in the tariff policy of the United States and that of reciprocity with Canada, as are those of the residents of any other town on the American continent.

James H. Tillman, late lieutenant governor of South Carolina, who killed N. G. Gonzales and was acquitted for it, will be a candidate for a nomination for congress. It is not likely that he will succeed.

The breaking of windows is becoming a source of amusement to the Skagway boys that may prove expensive to someone's paternal parent one of these days.

Gen. Nelson A. Miles is now said to be a candidate for the presidential nomination of the prohibitionist party.
