HARADEN SPEAKS FOR SELF BAD BREAK GOVERNMENT

Skagway Business Man Tells Portland Oregonian the District of Alaska Should Be Organized As a Territory

While visiting in the states C. B. Haraden, of this city, is making full use of his opportunity to give voice to Alaska's cry for self government. The following is from the Portland Oregonian:

"C. B. Haraden, who represents Ross-Higgins & Co., one of the largest mercantile concerns in Southeastern Alaska, having extensive business interests at Juneau and Skagway and dealing all through the Yukon Territory, is in Portland on a business trip. In an interview, Mr. Haraden said he considers Alaska one of the most wonderful countries in the world, and expressed himself as well pleased with present conditions and the future outlook, and that what is most needed is home rule under a territorial form of government. He said:

"We have, without doubt, 50,000 to 60,000 white people in Alaska at the present; bright, progressive men scattered all over Alaska, who are perfectly able to make laws and see that they are properly executed. The population is rapidly increasing and a home rule form of government would develop the country in a manner that would surprise the world, and I think the powers at Washington should give this matter immediate attention. There is certainly no other place in the United States, and probably not in the world, that has as much minerals of all kinds as are in Alaska, and the fish industry would be simply enormous if properly perpetuated. We want home rule and believe we are fully entitled to it, and with a very few exceptions the entire people demand it.

"Fairbanks, about 250 miles up the Tanana river, without doubt will be the camp this season, and everything points to a big rush there in the early spring. The diggings around Fairbanks are rich without any question, and there is no doubt but that it is destined to be a large camp for several years."
