

NORTH SEA ARBITRATORS HOLD FOR ENGLAND

Russian Admiral Not Justified in Firing Upon the British Trawlers, But Was Warranted in Fearing An Attack

(Special Dispatch to Daily Alaskan.)

Paris, Feb. 25—The North sea board of arbitration has finally rendered its decision. It is unanimously agreed that there were no Japanese torpedo boats in the North sea at the time of the firing upon the Hull trawlers, but it is agreed that the Russian admiral was justified in fearing an attack. A majority of the board decides, however, that the Russian admiral was not justified in opening fire on the trawlers. The Russian commissioners dissent from this conclusion.

No reflection is cast upon the valor or inhumanity of the Russian admiral.

People of Skagway Greet Gov. and Mrs. Brady

Gov. and Mrs. Brady and Capt. and Mrs. Kilgore are still the guests of Skagway and they will remain so until tomorrow evening. Last night they were given a public reception at the Arctic Brotherhood hall and they were entertained at luncheon at the Fifth avenue hotel at noon today by C. B. Haraden. This afternoon they are receiving the people of Skagway on board the Rush at Moore wharf.

The men and women of Skagway turned out en masse to the reception last night. The guests were in line in the back part of the hall and with them J. J. Daly, Arctic chief of the A. B., Mrs. L. S. Keller and Mrs. J. P. Rogers. Other members of the reception committee were Mr. and Mrs. Chealander, Mrs. Daly, Mr. Haraden and Mr. Clemenger.

Gov. Brady's Speech

The room was well filled when G. V. Brady began his address. Most of his remarks were with reference to the World's fairs. He gave a good account of the exposition at St. Louis and the Alaskan exhibit there.

Referring to the Portland fair, Gov. Brady explained that Alaska had $25,000 in addition to the exhibit that was at St. Louis and some of the fixtures that were in the St. Louis building. He said that he had not come to any conclusions as to what could be done at Portland, but he suggested that an exhibit should be made that would attract people to Alaska. It should be made known to the world that Alaska has a mild climate, that it has wonderful resources that offer tempting inducements to capital. Particularly did he dwell upon the fact that Alaska's mineral resources should be portrayed.

Gov. Brady said Skagway people should develop and find a market for the great quantities of building granite that are in its vicinity.

Transportation facilities and population are what Alaska needs above all else according to the governor. He thinks within a few years congress will give aid to one or more of the proposed railroad lines across the district.
