Coral Snake Fails To Ruffle Editor

ORLANDO, Fla. (PA) — Newspapermen are supposed to be a nervous type but James Dye, publisher of the Florida Labor News, proved his nerves were of cold steel the other evening when, sitting across the living room from his wife, he saw her cover her mouth and grimace, pointing wildly to the divan on which he was reclining.

Dye looked casually at the floor and saw a deadly 18-inch coral snake, crawling out from under the divan.

The publisher let the reptile alone until it crawled out into the kitchen. Then he walked into his bedroom, got a shotgun and killed the snake. It is believed that the snake entered the house via the fireplace.

Wealth: An economic substance — NOT created by taking a dollar from someone and giving it to someone else.

President And Pope Pius Exchange Letters

ROME, (AP)—In an exchange of letters made public today, President Truman said the world's moral forces must unite against those who "seek to destroy them," and Pope Pius XII replied that peace was jeopardized by nations which would reduce men to serfdom.

The exchange was made public by the Vatican and the office of Myron Taylor, Presidential representative to the Pope. The Pontiff received the President's letter from Taylor in an audience Tuesday and replied the same day.

"I seek to encourage renewed faith in the dignity and worth of the human person in all lands," President Truman wrote. "The times demand faith that is strong enough to struggle, if need be, for the right."

The Pontiff's reply said: "Once the State, to the exclusion of God, makes itself the source of the rights of the human person, man is forthwith reduced to the condition of slave; of a mere civic commodity."

The Pontiff pledged "whole-hearted co-operation from God's church" in championing "the individual against the despotic rule; the laboring man against oppression; religion against persecution."

"Unless the moral forces of the world now join their strength, discouragement must inevitably deepen, and the strength and effectiveness which thereby would be lost by these moral forces would be gained by those forces which oppose and seek to destroy them."

Bridges Does Not Want To Be "Favorite Son"

CONCORD, N. H., (AP)—Senator Styles Bridges (R.-N. H.) took himself out of the "favorite son" classification yesterday amid indications that New Hampshire may become the nation's first testing ground for Republican Presidential candidates.

Bridges, who carried New England's banner in an unsuccessful try for the 1940 GOP Presidential nomination, told a reporter he has asked Political associates not to place him in the "favorite son" role next year.

"I am interested in my work in the Senate and I want to be re-elected," the New Hampshire Senator said. "I have no other political ambitions now."

Bridges, who heads the Senate appropriations committee, thus far has drawn no Republican Senate opposition in a campaign already beginning to get under way in preparation for the state nominating primary Sept. 14, 1948.

The New Hampshire Senator's action in eliminating himself as a "favorite son" contender apparently leaves the field wide open for other potential Presidential candidates to battle for prestige—even if for few convention votes—in the nation's first Presidential preferential primary next March 9.

This primary precedes that in Wisconsin, which has proved a testing ground for Republican hopefuls in the past. While only eight convention votes are involved in New Hampshire's contest, a political victory or defeat for a candidate in this state's first test of popular sentiment might affect his chances, elsewhere.

FAST TOURING TOURISTS

UPLAND, Calif. (AP)—Charles Gieselman, auto court proprietor, is looking for a fast-disappearing couple with lots of towels and lots of bedding. Gieselman says he rented one of his cabins to a San Francisco couple the other night, took his usual $2.50 fee, went out ten minutes later to check the auto license and found car, couple and $30 worth of towels and bedding from the cabin had vanished.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

(By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.)

BEAR MOUNTAIN, N. Y. (AP)—For the benefit of football fans who spent last season discussing the greatness of the army football team, here's what's likely to happen when a good part of that squad turns out for the eastern All-Stars tussle with the New York Giants next week. . . . Arnold Tucker, Glenn Davis and Doc Blanchard likely will be in the starting backfield but won't play more than half the game except under extraordinary conditions. . . . Bill West, Blanchard's sub, will be fullback in the alternate backfield. . . . Center Jim Enos is a 50-50 starting choice with Lou Daukas of Cornell, Shelton Biles is a possible starting tackle although Penn State's Red Moore seems likely to get the call while Alf Tavzel is running behind Yale's Bill Shuler for the other tackle position. End Tom Hayes has a sprained ankle while Barney Poole didn't show up. . . . He returned to Mississippi this fall. . . . Off that lineup, as presented by head coach Tuss McLaughry, they don't like a bunch of world beaters, but it must have been a right good football team to produce so many all-star candidates.

In Belgium, deaths from tuberculosis increased more than 50 per cent after one winter of German occupation.
