The lessees of the Pueblo copper mine, near Whitehorse, which it was attempted to reopen recently, have given up their lease and abandoned their attempt to put the property on a producing basis. Further caving in the mine was the cause of the lessees giving up their attempt to operate the mine.

J. J. Ellis, a mining man of wide experience, was a recent arrival in Whitehorse from the new diggings in the Kitchener creek district. He reports pay has been found on several creeks, and that the outlook for the country is very bright. There are now about a dozen men in the district with outfits, who will put in the winter prospecting the ground.

SOMETHING SPECIAL.

We have just received a large shipment of unusually fine peaches, which we will sell at $1.20 per case while they last. Cordova Fruit Market.

LOCAL DOINGS AND PERSONAL MENTION

Judge T. M. Reed, of Nome, is here today on his way to the states.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Doyle, of Nome, are Cordova visitors.

Ophir Nelson and Mrs. Alma Nelson, of Nome, have stopped off here and will take the next boat for Juneau.

F. J. Bakke, formerly postmaster at Nome, spent the day in Cordova. He is going to the states for the winter.

James Fish, of Valdez, representing the New York Life Insurance Company, is spending a few days here.

The Victoria is loading 1200 tons of copper ore and will sail about midnight direct for Seattle, via the outside passage.

Jake Berger, one of the old-timers of Nome, who made good in that country, is here on his way to the states, accompanied by his wife.

Phil and Joseph Ernest, who conduct a job printery at Nome and are also operating a dredge there, made the Times a pleasant call today.

Frank Daniels, one of the pioneer restaurant men of Nome, is in town today, and says Cordova certainly looks good to him.

Barry Keown, former clerk of the territorial legislature, is among the Nomeites here today on his way to the states.

E. S. Hewitt, of Juneau, is spending a few days here on business. He reports having disposed of his branch store at Anchorage.

Charles Miller was fined $60 and costs by Commissioner Medley for the larceny of a suitcase from Frank Ripley.

The "Rag-Time Kid" will play a special dance tonight in honor of the Victoria's passengers. You can't keep still when you hear 'em play.

Captain Johnny O'Brien, commander of the steamer Victoria, was today warmly greeted by his large circle of Cordova friends, who are always glad to meet the veteran navigator.

There will be a sheet and pillow case party given at the Red Dragon Club House tonight, to which the young people of the town are cordially invited. Come and join in.

There will be a Boat Dance at Hegg's Hall tonight, to which all the passengers on the Victoria and the people of Cordova are invited. The best of music will be in attendance.

Editor McGibbney, of the Nome Industrial Worker, accompanied by his wife, mingled with Cordovans today. Mr. McGibbney has been in the northern camp for the past eleven years, and is going to the states to remain.

J. J. Cole and son, Arthur, who are connected with the Miners' and Merchants' bank at Nome, were in town today, and through the courtesy of Thos. S. Scott, inspected the new concrete building of the First Bank of Cordova, which they pronounced the finest structure of the kind in Alaska.

Our former townsman, R. A. Carroll, who is now agent for the Alaska Steamship Company at Nome, greeted old friends here today. He is on his way to Seattle and may return to Cordova and relieve S. D. Hedges, who will shortly leave on a vacation to the states.

Attorney W. A. Gilmore, of Nome, who was the Republican candidate for delegate to congress three years ago, was in town today on his way to the states, where he will spend the winter. Mr. Gilmore reports that the gold output for the Seward peninsula will be larger this year than for some time past, owing to the plentiful supply of water.

Miners returning to Treadwell from the Pueblo mine near Whitehorse, stated that the attempt to reopen the mine had failed and that the mine has again caved in. This is the mine in which six men lost their lives by a cavein last March. The attempt to reopen this rich property has probably been abandoned for good.
