DIPLOMATIC BREAK WITH GERMANY VERY IMMINENT

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 2.—President Wilson today called his cabinet together to consider the situation created in this country by the recent conference of German emissaries who appeared in the United States.

The session of the cabinet was held in the President's private office. The cabinet met under an atmosphere of the greatest gravity, and the President was reported to have told the senators that the situation is a very serious one and that he has every reason to believe that there will be no further negotiations.

The cabinet met for several hours, and it was reported that the President, with characteristic readiness, decided to send to Congress a message to ask for the authority to sever diplomatic relations with Germany and to declare the U. S. as belligerent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 2.—President Wilson tonight called the Senate and House together to consider the situation created in this country by the recent conference of German emissaries who appeared in the United States.

The session of the cabinet was held in the President's private office. The cabinet met under an atmosphere of the greatest gravity, and the President was reported to have told the senators that the situation is a very serious one and that he has every reason to believe that there will be no further negotiations.

The cabinet met for several hours, and it was reported that the President, with characteristic readiness, decided to send to Congress a message to ask for the authority to sever diplomatic relations with Germany and to declare the U. S. as belligerent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 2.—In all official circles it is the unanimous opinion that Germany will not have the least chance of breaking off diplomatic relations with the United States, and that if the latter takes the extreme measure of severing diplomatic relations with Germany, the former will probably do the same in return.

The American administration is now in full control of the situation, and it is believed that the President will take the necessary steps to sever diplomatic relations with Germany as soon as possible.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 2.—The Senate and House of Representatives were called into session today to consider the situation created in this country by the recent conference of German emissaries who appeared in the United States.

The session of the cabinet was held in the President's private office. The cabinet met under an atmosphere of the greatest gravity, and the President was reported to have told the senators that the situation is a very serious one and that he has every reason to believe that there will be no further negotiations.

The cabinet met for several hours, and it was reported that the President, with characteristic readiness, decided to send to Congress a message to ask for the authority to sever diplomatic relations with Germany and to declare the U. S. as belligerent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 2.—The American administration is now in full control of the situation, and it is believed that the President will take the necessary steps to sever diplomatic relations with Germany as soon as possible.

The cabinet met for several hours, and it was reported that the President, with characteristic readiness, decided to send to Congress a message to ask for the authority to sever diplomatic relations with Germany and to declare the U. S. as belligerent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 2.—The Senate and House of Representatives were called into session today to consider the situation created in this country by the recent conference of German emissaries who appeared in the United States.

The cabinet met for several hours, and it was reported that the President, with characteristic readiness, decided to send to Congress a message to ask for the authority to sever diplomatic relations with Germany and to declare the U. S. as belligerent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 2.—In all official circles it is the unanimous opinion that Germany will not have the least chance of breaking off diplomatic relations with the United States, and that if the latter takes the extreme measure of severing diplomatic relations with Germany, the former will probably do the same in return.

The American administration is now in full control of the situation, and it is believed that the President will take the necessary steps to sever diplomatic relations with Germany as soon as possible.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 2.—The cabinet met for several hours, and it was reported that the President, with characteristic readiness, decided to send to Congress a message to ask for the authority to sever diplomatic relations with Germany and to declare the U. S. as belligerent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 2.—The American administration is now in full control of the situation, and it is believed that the President will take the necessary steps to sever diplomatic relations with Germany as soon as possible.