Braddock Won In Battle With Tommy Farr

NEW YORK, Jan. 22. (AP)—Battle scarr'd, Jim Braddock came from behind with a gallant finish Friday night, to upset expectations that he would beat tough Tommy Farr, the British heavy-weight champion, in a bristling ten round match.

NEW YORK, January 22, (AP)—Thirty-two year-old former champion, Jim Braddock, making his first appearance since he lost his title last June to Joe Louis, pulled the decision out of fire after apparently being hopelessly battered and licked at the end of the eighth round.

There were no knockdowns, but it was a slam-bang bout from the start to the finish.

Referee Johnny McAvoy and George Laxon decided the battle for Braddock; the other judge, Charles Lynch, scored in Farr's favor.

Braddock weighed in at 199, and Farr at 207.

Seventeen thousand three hundred and sixty nine fight fans paid admissions, totalling the sum of $80,645.00.

Japanese columns, pushing towards the city from the north and south, fought indecisive engagements at Paiping.

There are reports of activities of troops of the Soviet Republic of Outer Mongolia in the Western Suiyuan Province, and Outer Mongolian troops are said to be within a few miles of Paotow, the rail-head line to Peiping, which is now occupied by Japanese garrisons.

The Chinese asserted their troops were attacked at Wuhu, a Yangtze River port, sixty miles upstream from Nanking.

Body Man Found Small Rowboat S. E. Alaska

JUNEAU, Jan. 23, (AP)—Thomas Townsend, Zach Gossgarin, trappers, reported on Saturday they had found the body of a man in a boat on the beach at Lincoln Island, Christmas Eve. The body was frozen and hanging over the side of the boat, his wrists and throat slashed.

The boat bore the No. 31-B-118 and is listed as belonging to John Sve, a Juneau fisherman and long time resident here.

The trappers said they placed the body in their boat and pulled ashore and made fast, but the rough water made it impossible to cross to the mainland and make a report until Saturday.

A boat will be rowed, with provisions, and the Commissioner and a deputy U. S. marshal, also an FBI representative, are going to the island Sunday, weather permitting.
