TELLS HOW TO AVOID INFANTILE PARALYSIS

By SAMUEL G. DIXON, M. D. (Special to Gateway by United Press) (Penna. Commissioner of Health)

Infantile Paralysis is a disease that affects the nervous system. It often causes death, and again, the acute stage frequently subsides and leaves paralysis of one or more of the limbs that often lasts through life.

Today we do not know what causes the disease, therefore preventive measures must be broad. You must keep the children away from insect life, such as flies, mosquitoes, fleas, bed bugs, ticks, ants, lice, etc. You should see that rats and mice around the building are killed. Pet cats and dogs should be washed with a two per cent carbolic acid solution. Everything should be kept clean about the home including the children.

Children should be fed well but not indulged in large quantities of water, ice cream or other frozen dishes on a full stomach, as that will often cause acute indigestion and render them susceptible to other diseases. In other words, the digestion should be guarded carefully.

Children should have plenty of sleep. They should not associate with other children that are sick. Their homes should be well ventilated, but screened. All foodstuffs should be protected.

Children's mouths should be rinsed out and their throats gargled with Dobell's solution after each meal. If the children are too young to rinse or gargle, wash the mouth with a piece of fabric dipped in Dobell's solution. Children should be kept out of crowded places.

The youngsters should not be permitted to sit on the damp ground nor have their bodies chilled, day or night. They should not bathe in cold water.
