An angry crowd attacked the officers and a general fight started but the officers soon clubbed their assailants back.

Pocatello, Idaho, Nov. 3—Secretary Taft spoke here last night. He said he had been sent by the president, not as president but as a citizen and lover of justice to speak in behalf of Gov. Pennsylvania Seems Doubtful

Philadelphia, Nov. 6—Both party committees claim the state and the issue seems doubtful between Edwin Stuart, republican, and Lewis Emery, Lincoln republican, who has the democratic indorsement. Emery will draw a large republican vote but there is nothing on which to base an estimate of the extent of the republican defection.

Not Many Went Home to Vote

Washington, D. C., Nov. 6—Fewer department officials and clerks went home to vote than ever before, except the New York contingent, who all went. The president and cabinet worked until midnight upon administration business bearing upon annual reports.

He will sue the Northwestern Steamship Company for $200 a day for each day lost until his baggage arrives with the moving pictures which he is booked to show here tonight. Wants Republican Congress

Blue Ticket for Colored Troops

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7—President Roosevelt issued an order today dismissing in disgrace every man of companies C and D of the Twenty-fifth (colored) infantry because they refused to disclose the names of the men guilty of murder in the recent riots at Brownsville, Texas. This executive action is unprecedented.

Mead of Washington also spoke and promised to recommend a large appropriation by the Washington legislature in aid of the exposition, in his annual message to the next session of that body.

Secret Service Agent Murdered

Albuquerque, N. M., Nov. 8—The body of T. A. Caldwell, a government secret service agent, was found this morning beside the Santa Fe railroad track, twenty miles from this city, with the skull crushed and one arm broken, as if by a heavy bludgeon. The affair is a mystery.

Crow Creek Men Go Out

Andrew Nisbet, superintendent of the Crow Creek Placer Mining company, K. Schiefer and C. Hobert, also of the staff, and eight miners who have been in the employ of the company this season, went out on the steamer Northwestern, to return to California for the winter.

Jerry Odale and Mrs. Odale went on the train this week to take up their residence at Girdwood.

Great Crowds Greet Hearst

New York, Nov. 3—W. R. Hearst attempted to make twelve speeches in this city last night but his voice gave out before he ended the fifth. He was greeted by large crowds and given tremendous cheering by all of them. At two meetings before his arrival resolutions were unanimously passed condemning President Roosevelt for permitting Secretary Root to make the speech he did claiming to utter the president's views. The resolutions say:

"We deem it due to the American citizen-ship that we resent the flagrant attempt at federal dictation to the electorate of the state and that we should make known to our servant at Washington our views of his interference."

In all his speeches Hearst coupled Root and Croker as corporation representatives. He said Root had defended the Tweed ring and the Jake Sharpe traction bribery cases; that it had been charged in affidavits by four men that Root had given them money to secure their votes; that Root had been attorney for the traction, whisky, tobacco, steel, gas, watch and insurance trusts.

"It is fitting," said Hearst, "that Root should indorse Hughes, the attorney for the lighting, shipbuilding, Boston franchise grab and sugar trust. It is fitting that Croker should side with McCareen against me when I drove Croker's ice trust mayor out of office. It was fitting that Root, the corporation lawyer of Thomas F. Ryan, who indorsed McClellan, the political puppet of Ryan, should have indorsed the theft of the mayoralty from me by McClellan."

Tammany Hall Booms Hearst

New York, Nov. 5—Tammany hall held a pre-election meeting last night which was addressed by Bourke Cockran. In his speech Cockran said that the Hearst movement was inspired by God himself and would therefore prove irresistible. Hearst refused to leave his home all day yesterday.

Hearst and Hughes will each make fifteen speeches today and this evening.

End Campaign With Big Talk

New York, Nov. 6—In his final speech last night Hearst said that within an hour after his inauguration as governor he will remove every public official the governor has power to remove who may be shown to have been guilty of dereliction in official duty.

In his last speech Hughes said the question was Hearst versus the American flag and he could not doubt the result as the flag had never yet gone down in disgrace.

Both parties maintain their previous claims of a large majority in the state.

West Virginia Officials Clash

Huntington, W. Va., Nov. 6—Democratic policemen and republican deputy sheriffs at Williamson clashed today in an election quarrel. The democratic officers arrested a deputy U. S. marshal and fifteen deputy marshals are now on their way to Williamson to arrest the mayor, chief of police and other city officials. More trouble is expected before night as both sides are in a fighting mood.

Gov. Dawson ordered three companies of the national guard to go to the scene and they are on the way but will not reach Williamson as soon as the posse of deputy marshals.

Prostrated by Campaign Work

Reno, Nev., Nov. 6—Gov. John Sparks, democratic nominee for reelection, collapsed here last night and it is feared that he will be prostrated with pneumonia. He had contracted a bad cold through exposure during the campaign. It is believed that he is certain of reelection, but his illness is regarded as dangerous.

Aside from the governorship the republican ticket is expected to win, including George Bartlett for congress.

Ruef Fight of Little Avail

San Francisco, Nov. 6—It is believed that the fight on Abe Ruef in this city started too late to accomplish the election of John M. Langdon, the independent candidate for governor. If the expose had proceeded farther it might have effected a political revolution. As it is both old parties confidently claim the election.

The odds appear to be in favor of Congressman Gillette, the republican nominee, on account of the large republican majority in the state. The democrats however, are confident that as Bell, their nominee, has the labor support he will be elected. They also claim that Langdon will draw more from Gillette than from Bell.

Before the Ruef expose began the latter secured the indorsement from both parties of two of his favorite superior court judges, Conlin and Mogan. The bar association nominated Graham and Coffey against them. It is impossible to forecast the outcome of the judicial fight.
