BLUM'S DRY GOODS EMPORIUM.

Entre Nous Euchre Club.

Mrs. M. Schwartz entertained the Entre Nous Euchre Club Wednesday afternoon at her home on West Baroque street. The affair was a very pleasant one and reflected credit upon the fair hostess as an entertainer. Euchre was played for several hours.

An Euchre Party.

Another euchre club has been added to the many social clubs of the season. The club is composed of married people. The members were delightfully entertained Tuesday evening by Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Howell at their palatial residence on West Fifth avenue. The meeting was the second since organizing, and was a very enjoyable one. The gentleman's prize was carried off by Mr. W. D. Hearn. The lady's was won by Mrs. J. W. Withers. The club promises to rival in interest many of the clubs of longer standing.

A Dinner Party.

Major and Mrs. H. A. McCoy feasted a number of their gentlemen friends Friday afternoon on a fat turkey that has been tempting the Major's palate for some time. The dinner was given complimentary to the gentlemen who remembered Major and Mrs. McCoy at their silver anniversary by presenting them with a handsome silver set.

Those present were: Mr. John Shelby, Judge James F. Robinson, Judge J. M. Elliott, Judge W. D. Jones, Messrs. C. H. Triplett, J. Y. Saunders and Major McCoy and family.

Bachelor Maids.

The Bachelor Maids were entertained Wednesday afternoon by Miss Gussie Taggart at the residence of her father, Col. M. W. Taggart, on West Second avenue.

all were very much appreciated.

The guests were served with elegant refreshments. While partaking of these the young ladies discussed the weaknesses of the sterner sex, and other topics of interest.

The fair hostess succeeded in making the meeting an exceedingly pleasant affair.

Those attending were Miss Ozier, of California; Miss Hunter, of Mississippi; Miss Adair, of Warren, Misses May Hudson, Ella Galbraith, Emma White, Eddie Rutledge, Grace York and Gussie Taggart.

Bluff City Social Club.

This social card club had an especially delightful meeting Thursday evening, when it was entertained by Mrs. L. E. Goldsmith in the parlors of the Bluff City hall. Music added its charms to increase the gaiety of the meeting. An Italian orchestra discoursed sweetest music during the progress of the games of euchre.

Miss Blanche Althelmer favored the party with a soprano solo, which was greatly appreciated.

The first prize was won by Mrs. Louis Roth and the second by Mrs. Charlie Bloom.

Lunch and refreshments were served by the caterer. The entertainment was a very enjoyable one.

In Honor of Miss Ozier.

A number of young society people were very pleasantly entertained Wednesday night by Miss May Hudson at her home on East Sixth avenue in honor of her guest, Miss Ozier, of California. About twenty-five of Miss Hudson's friends were present and for several hours were royally entertained by their accomplished hostess.

Miss Hudson is noted for her hospitality and assisted by her charming guest, Miss Ozier, she made the evening one to be pleasantly remembered. A number of musical selections were given and cards and dancing were participated in with zeal.

After several hours thus pleasantly spent the guests were served with refreshments, which were very much enjoyed.

Those present were: Misses Ozier, Mary Gillespie, Grace York, Gussie Taggart, Ella Galbraith, May Adair, (Warren), Emma White, Azubah Thompson, Willie Atkinson, May Hudson and Mrs. Maud Stanley; Messrs. J. P. Easley, R. C. Thompson, Frank Roane, Rufus Arnold, Ed Russell, Mack Hammett, Irl Armstrong, D. C. Bell, F. G. Bridges, F. Worrall and P. F. Crutcher.

Miss May Hudson Entertains.

The society friends of Miss May Hudson have twice the past week been indebted to her for an evening of social pleasures. Friday evening a large number of her friends were invited to her hospitable home on Sixth avenue to meet her guest from California, Miss Ozier. Several hours of unalloyed pleasure were had by the young people. Playing cards and listening to sweet music afforded diversion for the company. The popular host and her fair guest are happily gifted in the art of entertaining and received the merited praise of their guests. Delightful refreshments were served at a seasonable hour.

Those present were Misses Ozier, Owen Hogg, Reba Dewoody, Marion Dewoody, Alene Cunningham (Fayetteville), Frankie Van Valkenburg, Julia Fall, Lucy Hearn and May Hudson; Messrs. E. K. Braly, W. T. Brasher, W. C. Rainbow, C. A. Illing, Tracy Mills, L. K. Land, Walter Hudson, Edgar Jackson, John Wilburn, S. A. Kincaide.

XV Club.

Captain S. Geisreiter entertained the members of the XV Club at his elegant home on East Fifth avenue last Thursday evening. A large number of the members of the club were present to partake of the Captain's hospitality. None were disappointed in expecting elegant entertainment. The genial host met all with a cordial welcome.

At 7:30 the company sat down to a sumptuous spread. All the tempting dishes of a resourceful caterer were placed before the guests. The supper was all that royalty could crave and was heartily complimented.

The subject for the evening's discussion was "Hawaii." The searchlights of the gentlemen's intellects were turned on the subject, and it was soon shorn of all its perplexing intricacies. The subject was ably handled by the specially appointed essayists. All of the remarks were attentively listened to, and a great deal of information secured from the discussions.

The evening was one filled with interest and pleasure, and on departing the members one and all expressed their appreciation of the very hospitable entertainment received at the hands of the excellent host, Capt. Geisreiter.

Miss Josie Dreyfus celebrated her seventeenth birthday Friday.

Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Simmons.

Pine Bluff society enjoyed a rare treat Friday evening when Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Simmons entertained at their elegant mansion on West Sixth avenue, complimentary to Miss Hunter, sister to Mrs. Simmons.

The richly furnished parlors were brilliantly illuminated and the floral decorations very rare.

The guests received a cordial welcome upon their arrival and were captivated by the hospitable attention of their host and hostess.

The company were entertained at progressive games—lagomochy, jack straws, high-five and old-maid being played at the different tables.

The games were entered into with enthusiasm. The gentlemen's prize, a handsome gold-handle whisk broom, was won by Mr. Frank G. Bridges, he having won seven out of nine games. Three young ladies, Misses Grace York, Ella Galbraith and Gussie Taggart, tied for the ladies prize, each having won seven games. The three entered into a game of old-maid to determine the winner. The game was an exciting one and watched by all the company. Miss York, holding the odd queen, won the prize, which was a beautiful silver engraved mirror, to be worn as an ornament.

A lunch daintily prepared, was served to the guests and was followed by choicest delicacies—all the while sweetest music was coming from the covers of an elegant music box. After the refreshments were served the party engaged in several games that furnished unbounded amusement. "Going to Jerusalem" and "Kitchen Furniture" enlivened the close of the evening and made the company a very merry one.

The hour for departure arrived all too soon and was greeted with regret, as the occasion was one of the most pleasant of the many pleasant social functions of the season.

The company bade Dr. Simmons and his wife, and Miss Hunter good night, and departed.

Those in attendance were: Misses Hunter, Grace York, Gussie Taggart, Alma Hauks, Allie Torian, Arie McFadden, Della McFadden, Mary Adair, Emma White, Lizzie Grace, Bessie Fox, Ella Galbraith; Messrs. Frank G. Bridges, Frank Roane, R. C. Thompson, J. S. Ogilvie, E. D. Russell, M. A. Austin, A. W. Mills, Geo. S. Valliant, J. P. Easley; Mr. and Mrs. Will Riley, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Voss, Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Simmons.
