WEST WILL RULE THE WORLD

The world consumption of oil has reached 700,000,000 barrels and experts say this will go to 1,000,000,000 barrels in five years.

While other nations are struggling to corner the oil supplies of the world the fact remains that our country is producing 70 per cent of the total.

Capital by the millions each month is searching for new oil wells in all the possible producing territory from Mexico to Alaska.

The west also has 90 per cent of the potential hydro-electric energy of the world and capital is beginning to turn attention to that.

The west has great riches in natural resources of timber, oil, mines, and undeveloped agricultural lands reaching into hundreds of millions.

Who so blind he cannot see that the west is to have the future wealth and manufacturing power not only of our country but of the world?

With lumbering, paper mills, irrigation, power development, shipping, sugar factories, precious metals, potash, fisheries, fruit growing, and agriculture going forward by leaps and bounds, who can over-estimate the resources of the country west of the Rockies?

Let us be proud of our country and not handicap its growth with unnecessary restrictive legislation and taxation.

TO MUCH EXPENSE

There is some complaint over the levying of the necessary tax for financing the soldier bonus. This affords an opportunity for the periodical explosions which we require to let off surplus steam.

But our explosions should be turned upon a different subject.

There is too much waste in the public service. This waste is in the form of man power—or perhaps it might be more appropriate to term it barnacle power.

Many government, state and other office holders and employees feel that they are doing nobly by their country if they stalk majestically into their offices at 9 in the morning, loaf around a while, put in a few hours of leisure work, and go home or out among "the boys" at 4 or 4:30 in the afternoon.

In the business world the average man gets to work at 8 in the morning, takes an hour for lunch, and considers his day's work over at 5 in the afternoon—and not a minute sooner. And those eight hours are put in at good hard work. The loafer soon finds himself out of a job.

The business man has just as many brains and knows how to use them to just as good advantage as does the public office holder or employee.

Is there any good reason why one should be required to "hit the pace," and the other be permitted to sidestep it?

If our public affairs were managed and conducted with the same degree of executive ability and prudence we display in commercial life we could discharge one-fourth of our public office personnel and still be in better condition than we are today.

The average man hangs onto his own money, but too many of us are ready to "let it fly" when the treasury pays the bills.

Eliminate the official waste and extravagance and financing the bonus will not require the addition of one cent in taxation.

Of course, an army of political barnacles would have to get out and go to work, but that is what the Lord intended they should do.

The boys who fought the war are more entitled to consideration than the barnacles who are now receiving it.

STRONG ARM TACTICS

Strong arm tactics seldom win out in the end. They may triumph for a time, but sooner or later the one who uses them comes to grief and is promptly kicked to the rear.

You have noticed, of course, that in an argument the strong arm advocate in his own estimation is always right and the other fellow is completely wrong. There is no debatable ground for him.

You, perhaps, have also noticed that it is generally the other fellow who is in the right, because "other fellows" are invariably men who reason things out before they begin to make a noise.

The strong arm man depends upon his tongue work and his bull dog tenacity.

The other fellow depends upon his brain work and upon the ability of the public to understand calm and common reasoning.

These are things it might be well to remember in the training of the children of this town.

As a child is trained in youth, so will it be when it arrives at the age of maturity.

IT MAKES RED BLOOD

Does your boy like to play ball? Is your girl fond of basket ball? Do they find pleasure in the numerous sports in which children incline?

Let them go to it, and stay with it, and get the full benefit of it. Every hour of healthy sport aids in the development of mind and body, and prepares them for surmounting the obstacles of life.

It would be profitable if a general playground could be arranged in this town, equipped with the various means of exercise and enjoyment that are found in such places.

Healthy sports makes red blooded men and women of our children. Caging them up too often produces weaklings and sissies.

POPE BLESSES PEOPLE AFTER ELECTION

Exclusive and first pictures from Rome showing the new Pope, Pius XI, blessing the people in front of the Vatican, immediately after his election to succeed the late Pope Benedict. Upper picture is a close-up of His Holiness on the balcony surrounded by some of the Cardinals who elected him. Lower picture shows crowd receiving blessing. These pictures were made with a special telephoto camera.

HORTICULTURAL DEMONSTRATIONS HELD IN VALLEY

During the past week, Prof. Kinnison, of the Horticultural Extension Service of the University of Arizona, gave demonstrations of planting, pruning and grafting at Ft. Grant, Klondyke, Pima, Thatcher and Safford, with fairly good crowds attending.

At each demonstration unusual interest was shown in the walnut grafting. In this demonstration Prof. Kinnison used the famous Beidman and Barcraft method of grafting, using the native walnut, which is a hardy, drought resistant tree, for the stock and the California English walnut. By planting the seed in the fall it is possible, in two years, to get a seedling large enough to graft, and with some varieties, a crop of large soft-shelled nuts may be obtained. It is suggested by County Agent Wright that the walnut would be a good tree to plant for street trees, as it not only produces nuts but also makes a good shade.

The growing of walnuts promises to be a coming industry for the valley, as the soil and climate conditions are suitable for this tree.

er, who was apprehended along the Thatcher road two weeks ago was returned to the penitentiary at Florence by Sheriff Skaggs, last week. The articles, consisting of harness, guns, overcoat and silverware found in Amada's possession, have been identified as property belonging to an old man named Bezanciency, who was found murdered at his ranch six miles northwest of Bonita last November. The two guns were identified by four people and the overcoat by two. It is believed by the officers that Amada is the man who did the killing.

Eat lots of our SELECT DRIED FRUITS.

Our dried fruits are excellent, because they are "picked ripe" from the trees and then by a scientific process of evaporating, the natural ripe flavor is retained.

You should have fruit in some form on your table for every meal. Fruits are delightful to the taste and are necessary to carry out of your system the heavy meats you eat.

All dried fruits are not the same quality—not by a jug full. Just try ours.
