Quite a number of the patrons of Dan Campbell, the milk man, were without their usual supply of lactated fluid last night. The cause of this milk shortage was the fact that Mr. Campbell's team became frightened while he was in the Prescott Hotel delivering a can of milk, and ran pell mell down the street, making a short turn at the corner and upsetting the wagon, utterly demolishing it and spilling about 20 gallons of milk. The team was caught several blocks from the scene, having run up an alley way and got cornered by a barbed wire fence.

In spite of the storm, more than forty people attended the social last evening given by the Baptist Young People's Union at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ayer. Such unique entertainments had been prepared that people came expecting a good time, and the affair proved to be very far from a "solemn occasion." In fact, some said as they went away, that their throats were almost sore from laughing so much. Pat's definition of a social as a "so-so party" did not apply last night. All entered heartily into the spirit of the games, so that wall flowers were an unknown quantity. Each one had been requested to bring as many cents as they were years old, and the more ancient people were allowed to put in extra cents to disguise their age. As a result, the society cleared $10 after all expenses were paid.

Every thing in place is new and first class, and Ros personally presides at the range. He is known to be one of the best cooks in this section, and promises to give the best of satisfaction to his patrons and invites all his old customers and all those who want a first class meal to call on him under the Scopel saloon.

For two or three days past an old blind man has been begging on the streets of Prescott and evidently had good luck, for today he proceeded to fill up on bad whiskey and after eating considerable disturbance the officers started to take him to the lockup where he would not disturb people going along the streets. He put up a fight that would have done credit to a wild cat, and for a while had the officers scattered along the streets in uneven bunches, but he was finally landed and will take up his abode with Sheriff Roberts for a few days until the effects of the bad whiskey wear off, when he will be allowed to go on to the next town where he can again impose upon the charity of good hearted people.

J. J. Wragovich has tendered his resignation as auditor of the S. F. P. and P. railroad, to take effect April 1, and has accepted position with Haskins & Seals, certified public accountants, of 30 Broad street, New York.
