We will be pleased to place you in communication with patients here in Phoenix in all stages of using Tubercucide from the first month's treatment up to

REPUBLICAN CONFERENCE

County Central Committee Issues Formal Call

REPRESENTATION IS FIXED

Outline of Purposes of the Conference Which Will Include Recommendation of Candidates for Offices.

In conformity with the action of the republican county central committee last Wednesday, the committee appointed for that purpose, in conjunction with the officers of the county committee, yesterday issued the following call for a delegate conference from all precincts in the county, to be held in Phoenix September 20:

To the Republicans of Maricopa County, Arizona:

The first state campaign of Arizona is before us. The constitution for Arizona has been adopted and the wisdom of its provisions is no longer an issue. It is our constitution and all good citizens of Arizona should unitedly strive to build, under its provisions, a government and prosperity second to none. To effect this result, the officers who shall first guide the destinies of the new state and administer the affairs of the county should be men of experience and broad views, of eminent ability and proven integrity, men who will intelligently and in good faith impartially carry out the provisions of the constitution to make it effective for the greatest good and administer and enforce the law as written, men who will protect and advance every legitimate interest of the taxpayer and the citizen, and men who will wisely select our vast grants of public lands and will zealously safeguard and administer them as a sacred trust for the education of our children and the perpetual maintenance of our state institutions and public schools.

The republican county central committee of Maricopa county has deemed it advisable to call a general conference of all republicans of the county to meet in the city of Phoenix on the 20th day of September, 1911, at the hour of 2 o'clock p. m., at the Third Avenue theater.

(1) To counsel and advise together and to outline the policies and principles best adapted to protect the rights and promote the interests of our citizens.

(2) To discuss and recommend the best and most available persons for candidates for the various offices, county and precinct, to be nominated by vote of the republican electors at the primary election to be held October 24th next.

(3) To select representatives to attend and participate in a proposed state conference of republicans to be later called.

Caucuses of all republicans of the various precincts of the county are requested to meet in their various precincts on the 16th day of September, 1911, at the hour of 7:30 p. m., to select representatives therefrom to the general conference to be held in Phoenix, September 20th. IF WE KNEW.

(Reprinted by Request.)

Could we but draw back the curtains
That surround each other's lives,
See the naked heart and spirit,
Know what spur the action gives,
Often we should find it better,
Purer than we judge we should;
We should love each other better,
If we only understood.

Could we judge all deeds by motives,
See the good and bad within,
Often we should love the sinner,
All the while we loathe the sin,
Could we know the powers working,
To overthrow integrity,
We should judge each other's errors
With more patient charity.

If we knew the cares and trials,
Knew the effort all in vain,
And the bitter disappointment,
Understood the loss and gain,
Would the grim, external roughness
Seem, I wonder, just the same?
Should we help, where now we hinder?
Should we pity where we blame?

Ah! We judge each other harshly,
Knowing not life's hidden force;
Knowing not the fount of action
Is less turbid at its source.
Seeing not amid the evil
All the golden grains of good;
Oh! we'd love each other better,
If we only understood.

ORGANIZATION OF GOOD ROADS COMPANY

Elliot Evans Sells His Interest to O. A. Speakman.

Elliot Evans who has found his realty business too exacting to permit a close attention to the affairs of the Good Roads Company of Arizona, of which he was one of the promoters, has disposed of his stock to O. A. Speakman, another member of the company. This places a controlling interest in the hands of Mr. Speakman and Paul Renau Ingles, the former being president and general manager and the latter, secretary and treasurer.

The company is planning wider activity than heretofore though it has already to its credit some good road building. It has oiled about two miles of South Central avenue, including the roadway on the bridge over the Salt River, and all of Special road district No. 1 which is the greater part of North Central avenue. The company claims to have the only scientific plant in Arizona for heating oil for that purpose, the plant being conveniently located on the Santa Fe railroad tracks.

It is proposed now to erect a big rock crusher at some available point near the river where there is an ample supply of boulders, and place itself in position to carry out the work of road building in a scientific, effective and profitable way. The company has considerable work ahead and is of course, looking for more.

Mr. Speakman will leave this evening for Bisbee, having been employed to supervise the oiling of the territorial road between Bisbee and Douglas.

MARX IS PEEVED AT PEOPLE'S SCOFFING

Peter Marx, of Walnut Creek, who is in the city with a load of fruit, stated yesterday, that his discovery of a giant skeleton of probably Aztec days, seems to be regarded with incredulity by many who have written from all parts of the country, since the account was first given publicly a few weeks ago, says the Journal Miner.

Nearly all inquiries appear to view the discovery as worthy of his personal endorsement for veracity and the writers ask for additional information. Mr. Marx states that the frame of the giant is stored away, and as recovered from the ground there is no doubt but what the giant was a monster of the human race. He has but a portion of the frame in his possession, but enough, however, to give accurate dimension of a man who was of freak physical proportions from head to foot, and which can be substantiated by any who care to view the remains. He also states that since making the original discovery, many other articles have been unearthed, convincing him that the race was progressive and well advanced as craftsmen, many crude implements being found, and in one instance written states, that give an intimation of education. He contemplates bringing what is left of the huge skeleton to the city some time in the near future that all may see for themselves and form their own conclusions.

HE DEWEYZED THE WHOLE PROCEEDING

HUMBOLDT, Sept. 3.—Frank Gotch, the world's champion wrestler, "Deweyized" the people at home today by arriving unannounced. It was intended to have a big reception but the champion's unheralded arrival knocked the plans awry.

LONG CAREER OF AN ESTIMABLE CITIZEN

DEATH SUMMONED C. H. ROBINSON LAST NIGHT.

Though in Humble Circumstances He Had Many Friends.

C. H. Robinson died last night at 10 o'clock at his room in the Arizona lodging house on South First avenue after having been confined to his bed for the last month, by the illness and general debility attendant upon old age. The great register of the county shows him to have been 86 years old though it was understood by his friends that he was 84. In any event he was one of the oldest residents of the city and was so well preserved that until stricken with his last illness he did not have the appearance of one who had reached the allotted three score years and ten, nor had his activities ceased, for he was self supporting to the end.

In the death of Mr. Robinson there passes from view one who has been well known in this community for years, who was highly respected and who was in many ways a most interesting character. Though eccentric in some ways, when his peculiarities were inquired into it was always found that he had a logical reason for them; that it was either of sound argument or a fable based on sentiment that one of his age might well be allowed to entertain. One of his eccentricities was an especially developed love of dogs and cats, and though a poor man it is said that he spent much of his slender revenue in feeding the homeless, unfortunate and outcast pets of the human family.

Though a soldier of the Union army during the civil war, it is said having attained the rank of colonel, though the title was never applied to him here, he never affiliated with the Grand Army and steadfastly refused a pension when friends besought him to apply for one, even though he was needy and well deserving. He said that many years ago he and two comrades made a verbal agreement that inasmuch as they had offered their lives for love of country, they would never accept financial remuneration. The other two died years ago but Mr. Robinson remained as faithful to his promise.

In respect of his family affairs there was always a mystery. It is known that he has a wife in Los Angeles and a son somewhere in California. He has told friends that he was friendly with his family and in constant correspondence but that he did not live with his wife for the reason that he did not feel that he could support her in the manner she deserved, hence chose to remain away from her. An effort will be made to communicate with his relatives.

Mr. Robinson was born in Philadelphia. The days of the civil war found him in Missouri and he lived there for many years thereafter. Among his intimates of other years was Judge Harlan, now of the United States supreme court, and the late Justice Brewer formerly of the same body. During the days of the building of the Kansas Pacific railroad Mr. Robinson was associated with the contractors who had it in charge and was a prominent figure in the stirring incidents of early Kansas history. He recalled among other intimates of those days, Col. William F. Cody, then making his reputation as a buffalo hunter.

Readers of The Republican will remember that during the visit of Halley's comet last year, Mr. Robinson came forward to say that he had a distinct recollection of having seen the comet before, when he was a small boy. His father was something of a local astronomer and pointed it out to him. It was one of the incidents that made him more or less a lay student of astronomy himself, and he contributed one or two interesting papers to the local press.

Since living in Phoenix Mr. Robinson has supported himself by performing such duties as an elderly man of education can attend to when given the chance, and though he held no position of great distinction he was always regarded as a trustworthy and capable person for such odd jobs as bailiff during a court session, book-keeper, clerk, solicitor or any semi-ceremonial work, registration officer, etc. He had recently devoted himself quite assiduously and successfully to the work of bill collector.
