THE CLIFTON CLARION.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 10, 1887.

The best material for fattening fowls is sweet potatoes and corn meal.

Samuel J. Tilden left property in England valued at from $600,000 to $800,000.

Some years ago it was the style for people to dress up; of late we notice that fashionable ladies are inclined to dress down.

"I want to place a column ad. in your paper," he said to the editor, "calling attention to my special brand of 'Old Raven' whisky." "All right, sir," responded the editor briskly, "I'll be at your service in a moment." Then he went to the speaking-tube and whispered to the foreman, "Kill that editorial on 'The Curse of Rum.'"

Dr. Rudd of this city is a man of new ideas. He is the only man in Albany who puts a fly-net under the belly of a horse instead of on its back. The doctor says that the belly is much more tender than the back of any animal, and for that reason a horse is more tormented by flies on the under portion of his body than he can ever be on his back. We begin to think that the doctor is right, and that the world has been "going it blind" on fly-nets for more than a century.—Albany Post.

It was at a Bungalow dinner at London, last Sunday, and the conversation turned upon sleeplessness and troubled nights. One of the guests, a parson, up and spake:

"Really," said he, "I don't know where you would find a quieter sleeper than I."

Whereupon Mrs Parson, whose half tumbler of claret-cup had been twice filled up, replied:

"John, John, how can you say so? Why, you're the most restless man I ever slept with!"

They had a baby show in a French town lately which brought forth some remarkable correspondence. One enterprising but behind-the-times Frenchwoman wrote to say that if they had only given nine months' notice she would have sent the star baby. Another feminine creature begged the management to postpone the show four months, as she was not quite ready to compete, and still another called time on two months. Lovely woman to the front, as usual.—San Francisco Report.

Parties who have recently returned from a visit to the northern part of the Territory report that large numbers of migratory stock are at present being grazed in that section by the cattlemen of Southern Utah. No taxes are paid on such herds, either in Utah or Arizona, as the owners drive them across the dividing line so as to escape the tax assessors of both Territories. It is an outrage to have the cattle, sheep, etc, of other Territories feed on the ranges that are beginning to be badly needed by our people without any compensation whatever. But how to redress the wrong is a problem that yet seeks solution.—Hoof and Horn.

There are several remedies for perspiration of the feet, and here are some of them: Apply with a sponge, without rubbing, a solution of thirty grains each of burnt alum and boric acid in one ounce of rose water just as soon as the shoes and stockings are removed. Repeat every two or three days in the evening. A pharmacist, who regards the difficulty as due to fermentation caused by the paste used by shoemakers for fastening insoles into shoes, directs a powder, consisting of about equal parts of boric and salicylic acids, to be sprinkled in the shoes, and we are told the trouble ceases. Another pharmacist, who has devoted considerable attention to the difficulty in question, highly recommends the application of a mixture of one part of the oleate of zinc with ten parts of zinc. Viennse has made some careful observations concerning this distressing infirmity. He alleges that the condition may be entirely and permanently cured by rubbing into the feet finely powdered subnitrate of bismuth. The action of the drug appears to be purely local. It toughens the skin, and at the same time probably modifies the character and amount of perspiration by affecting the glands. It is possible, the writer adds, that bismuth has some influence upon the capillary circulation of the parts. There are some in which the excessive perspiration continues in spite of the treatment, but even then bismuth deprives the perspiration of its foetic odor and relieves the tenderness.—Brooklyn Citizen.
