Holbrook News Notes

Mr. J. J. Shumway, a reliable wheel horse of the Democratic faction was in the county seat on Saturday in attendance on a party conclave. Mr. Shumway is one of those who say little but whose words have weight.

Why not buy a Pressure Cooker at Wetzlers? The wife will act like a different woman. Adv.

Mr. Reeder and Berl Johnson drove up to Heber Saturday night and going on still farther Sunday morning tried their luck with the guns. But fortune was against them and although they saw plenty of turkeys and three deer they were compelled to return with empty game bags. Better luck next time.

Mr. Wallace Ellsworth of Showlow was in town Saturday in attendance on the meeting of Democratic candidates and committeemen for the county.

Since buying a Pressure Cooker for my wife at Wetzlers she is much better natured. Adv.

Sam Proctor, the energetic editor of the Winslow Mail was in Holbrook Saturday. He was greatly interested in the Democratic conference held here that afternoon, and did yeoman duty as pen-pusher for the assemblage. After all who should know how to write if not an editor?

Mr. R. B. Martinez of Concho was in Holbrook Monday.

Mr. Jno. A. Freeman was in from Snowflake on a purchasing trip for the A. C. M. I. early this week.

Mr. Chas. Ross of Heber was among the number who visited in the county seat during the early part of the week.

Mr. J. W. Richards of St. Joe was in Holbrook Saturday attending the meeting of Democratic Committeemen held at the Court House on that day.

SHIPS 500 HEAD

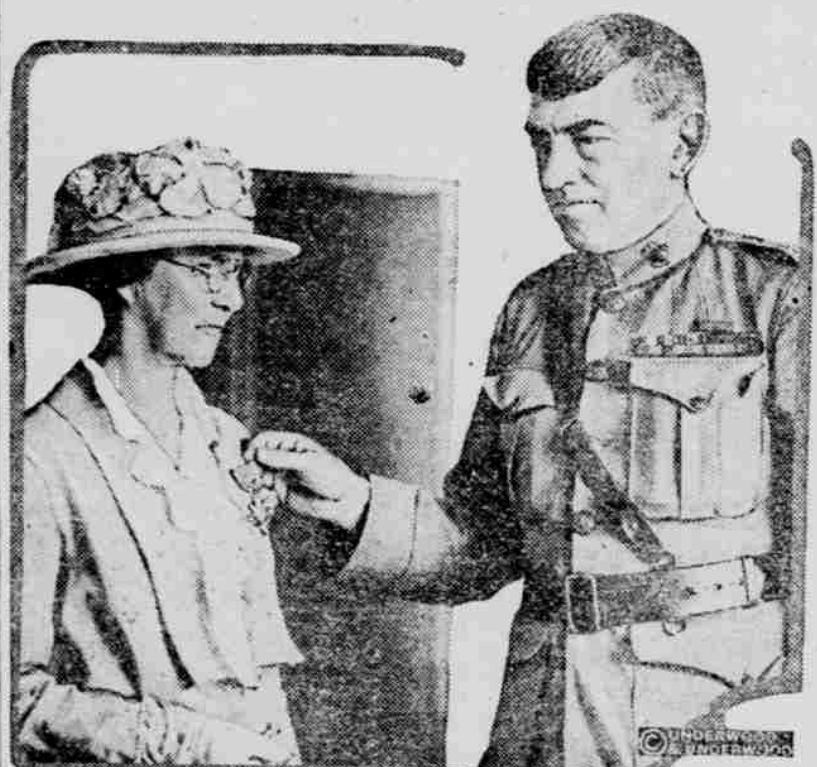

J. C. Paulsell was in Holbrook Monday and very busily engaged too. He was shipping out over 500 head of cattle from the local stockyards. The cattle were consigned to Ed Calles of California and when they reach their destination will be put on grass there for fattening.

Receives Her Dead Hero's Decoration

For bravery in the World war at the battle at Belleau Wood, in which he lost his life, Sergt. William J. Geary of Washington was posthumously decorated with the Distinguished Service cross, the decoration being presented to his mother, Mrs. Claudia Geary, by Maj. Gen. John A. Lejeune, chief of the United States Marine corps.

IMPORTANT SCOUT EXECUTIVE MEETING

Late last week Mr. Carlson, Deputy Regional Scout Director, and Mr. P. E. Warner, District Scout Executive of the Grand Canyon Council met with the Scout Executives of the local organization in our city. A very good meeting was held, and Attorney Ferguson informs us that several important matters were decided.

It is the plan of the local organization to hold a "Father and Son" banquet at an early date. There will be nothing elaborate, just a real good time. The Holbrook Committee puts itself on record as being opposed to a large assessment of money for the Scout work. This does not mean that they do not intend to push the work with all their vim, but simply that they do not feel that this is the proper time to ask the public for large contributions.

YOUNGER SET FROLIC

Last week the members of what we might term the youngest set held a picnic frolic on the hills near town. It was under the chaperonage of Mes. Bundy, Larson, and Perkins, and was in honor of the incoming and the retiring presidents of the Girl's Friendly Society. Miss Estella Bundy has been recently elected head of the organization in place of Miss Jean Hookway who retires after two years of most efficient administrative work. A most delightful time was enjoyed by all of those fortunate enough to be present on this occasion.

ALTITUDE TOO GREAT

The many friends of Dr. and Mrs. Agee very much regret that it was necessary for them to leave this week for Phoenix which they will make their home. Dr. Agee who is employed by the government as an inspector finds that this altitude is too great for him and this necessitates their removal.

Before leaving Dr. Agee made arrangements with W. W. Franklin for the delivery of an Overland car which will be turned over to him in Phoenix.

ENTERTAIN AT DINNER

Last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Bundy entertained a large party at a very enjoyable dinner. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Schuster, Mrs. Dannenbaum and daughter of St. Johns, Mrs. Arthur Schuster and Miss Edna Beuhring. Miss Dannenbaum went on through to Flagstaff, but the rest of the party returned to St. Johns.

LIQUID OF THE PAST

Ancient Booze Found in Earthen Jar in Kentucky Cave.

More Potent Than Modern Whisky, It May Be an Elixir That Was Manufactured by the Mound Builders.

Middlesboro, Ky.—Were the mound builders of old the first real distillers in what has become America?

This question is asked following the story brought here by two young men from the Mottus section of Bell county mountains. They say they were exploring the dense parts of the hill country when they saw the entrance to a cave, whose existence never had been suspected. The youths entered its labyrinth, and far back in the interior discovered an earthen vessel. They opened it carefully and they are quoted as saying there came forth a most delicious aroma. Investigation proved the existence of a liquid in the vessel, which the explorers tasted.

Both declare, it is said, that they were familiar with the taste and potency of corn whisky, but this liquid in the long-buried vessel surpassed "Kentucky liquor" in strength. They said that after a few minutes their senses became dulled and visions of celestial delight burst upon them. Finally they recovered and carried the vessel away with them. They are quoted as asserting that there was an inscription on the vessel which no one they have seen can decipher. It is understood the vessel will be sent to experts in ancient languages in the hope that the letters can be made out.

If the mound builders left the jar and its unusual beverage it is believed unlikely that the words can be deciphered, as it is said the writing of the mound builders never has been translated. The youths who found the vessel declare a single drop of the elixir they found possesses the strength of a quart of corn liquor and that dilution with water is all that is necessary to obtain a "real drink."

Just what the attitude of prohibition authorities would be toward this find in the cave has not been made known, nor has it been sought so far. The mound builders, from strange relics, mounds and other marks, long have been thought by some historians to have made their last stand in the Ohio valley. In Kentucky and Tennessee there are numerous traces of a strange people, the secret of whose origin or disappearance has not been learned.

CHAMPION BEACH LIFEGUARD

Here are Bud Wiley and his little mascot, Violet Amico Sileo. Bud is the official lifeguard at Rockaway beach, near New York. He is credited with 200 rescues and attributes part of his success to his baby mascot. She is but eighteen months old, but every pleasant day sees her smiling and happy on the big guard's life raft. Bud's record of rescues covers nine years' duty at Rockaway and so far this season he has saved 20 from a watery finish.

DANBURY HEN IS A POINTER

Limping Fowl Owned by Judge Assists Him in Finding Mole Under Lawn.

Danbury, Conn.—Judge C. Edmund Mason of this place has a hen that points moles like a dog. Already she has caused the death of four ground moles digging up the lawn.

The hen is pitted as an invalid, having broken a leg several months ago, she limps about the place.

A few mornings ago Mrs. Mason saw the hen gazing intently at the ground and not moving. She walked out and saw that Biddy was watching a mole working along under the ground. Judge Mason got a spading fork and killed the mole. Since that time he has killed three other moles with the assistance of the pointing hen.

Wills Cautious "Newsie" $100. Boston.—"Jimnie" Caswell, Lynn's sixty-eight-year-old newsboy, will receive $100 for his unflinching courtesy under the will of the late Dennis F. Leonard, Lynn grocer. "Jimnie" left papers at the Leonard home for 15 years until his health made it impossible for him to deliver papers on a regular "route." But his pleasant smile and courtesy were remembered by the late grocer.

WE ALL MAKE THEM
If we did not know Mr. Sam Proctor of the Winslow Mail to be the staunch Democrat that he is we should find cause to wonder in the last issue of the Mail. Were his politics of a different color we might even suspect that the typographical error on the front page of the paper of last week had some invidious intent in saying that a certain well known individual had been made "Chainman" of the Democratic party, chairman being entirely too closely allied to chaingang. But as it is we are certain that the error was merely the fault of "the printer's devil."

ACCEPTS POSITION WITH THE RAILROAD
Mr. Quirk, who has been in Holbrook for some time left late last week for Thoreau where he has accepted a position with the Santa Fe. Mr. Quirk's many friends will miss his pleasant presence.

HAS SERVED LONG
Edward Dunn entered the government service in 1867 as a mounted messenger under Secretary of War Stanton. After 55 years' service he was relieved August 20. His co-workers presented him with a purse filled with gold, which was handed to him by Secretary Weeks.

SO NEAR AND YET SO FAR
When questioned Mr. Toelle admits that he saw plenty of turkey on his expedition into the hills last Sunday, and being further pressed admits that said turks are still in full possession of their good health, altho by the volley fired upon them they may have become scared enough to be good prospects for some enterprising life insurance agent. Mr. W. B. Woods please note.

VISIT SHUMWAY
Last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Moritz and little son Harold, Mrs. Geo. Hennessey with Evelyn and Betty, and Mr. and Mrs. Riggs motored up to the delightful canyon in which Shumway is situated. They enjoyed the pleasures of a day spent in the open and returned home tired but pleasantly so.
