The Prison.

The report of the superintendent of the Yuma penitentiary for the past quarters contains the following statistical information:

There are now, March 31, 1893, in confinement 138 convicts.

The total expense of the prison for the month of January was $5,033.54, for February $2,964.96, for March $4,566.65, making a total for the quarter of $12,565.15.

It is understood that N. N. Miller & Co. will take the stock off the hands of Braun & Co.

A one-legged man passed through Benson a few days ago on his way to the World's Fair to exhibit himself as a freak of nature. His body was perfectly developed down to the place where the leg should be. One diminutive leg about ten inches long but perfect in outline including a foot is all that grows from the trunk. The freak uses this small limb and one hand to propel himself with and can jump like a bull frog. He is an expert vaquero and takes his saddle with him to the Fair. He is a large owner of land and cattle in Sinaloa and in easy circumstances, but some enterprising neighbor prevailed upon him to go into the show business.

Preventing Future Misery.

If there is in this vale of tears a more prolific source of misery than the rheumatic twinge, we have yet to hear of it. People are born with a tendency to rheumatism just as they are with one to consumption or to scrofula. Slight causes may develop this. As soon as the agonizing complaint manifests itself, recourse should be had to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which checks its further inroads and banishes the rheumatic poison from the system. This statement tallies exactly with the testimony of physicians who have employed this fine blood depurative in their private practice. These is also the amplest professional and general testimony as to the efficacy of the Bitters for malaria, liver complaint, constipation, indigestion, kidney trouble, nervousness and so on of appetite and flesh. After a wetting, whether followed by a cold or not, the Bitters is useful as a preventive of the initial attack of rheumatism.

FAREWELL TO SINGLE LIFE.

Gotham States How Give Parties on the Eve of Their Betrothals.

It is customary for young bachelors about to marry to gather about them a few of their most intimate male friends and give a bachelor dinner. There is something jolly about it all. His friends dine and wine with him and drink his very good health and that of his family. He is not going out of life. He is going into a more blissful, living existence, and will be respectable. But a New York paper is telling of a lot of girls who bury their single blessedness, having a funeral and going into mourning. A short time ago a Fifth avenue belle introduced to her friends a "fad" that promises to become as popular as it is peculiar. Her girl friends were surprised one day to receive from her cards with heavy mourning borders inviting them to her home, and asking them to appear in mourning. As there had been no death in the family, and the young woman was to have been married in a few days to what was considered a most desirable "catch," her form of invitation surprised most of her friends, and for that reason many of the persons invited went to the house. The parlor was darkened. On the center table the guests noticed a small casket. When the hostess entered she went to the table and said: "Friends, I have asked you here today to witness the burial of my old identity. You know I am to be married in a few days. In this casket I have placed my card, which I intend to bury with you as witnesses. Thus I will bury my identity in that of my future husband." Already three or four such ceremonies have been performed in Fifth avenue mansions. This will do for a fad; but in the case of such a girl there is always a chance that she will dig up her identity and have some good vicarities with her good old girl friends. A jolly dinner, in any case, is better than a funeral, and it is better for people about to be married.

A CONNECTICUT PARROT.

It Talks English, Swears in Spanish, and Has Fine Taste in Dressing.

John Sewey, of the little seaside village of Noank, has a wonderful old parrot and is very proud of it. It is thirty-six years old, but spry and handsome yet. Thirty-six years ago Mr. Sewey took it out of its nest in a thick forest in Mexico and brought it north with him on his ship. It speaks English as fluently as and rather more correctly than anyone in Noank, and in deference to the piety and moral inclinations of the rest of the villagers it always swears in Spanish and without raising its voice. It listens intelligently to conversation and knows all the gossip of the place.

Its table manners are its most remarkable accomplishment. It eats with the family, sitting at a chair that just fits it, with a napkin tucked about its neck, and balances itself on one foot, holding a spoon with the other claw, and feeding itself very neatly with the spoon. It partakes of whatever food is on the board, but prefers ice cream and other dainties. If there is ice cream on the table it must have some at once, otherwise the bird will eat nothing; after the cream has been served it is ready for the rest of the meal.

Aside from its crocheted about tackling ice cream before other food, it is a well-behaved bird and its temper is never ruffled. Mr. Sewey thinks the parrot is the smartest and finest bird in Connecticut, and Polly evidently thinks nobody else is quite as good as her master. When he is at home she has little to do with other folks. She likes to stand on his shoulder on one leg, with the other one drawn up under her wing, and she cocks her head and listens to his talk with a quizzical look.

MEN OF THE OLD WORLD.

PRINCE BISMARCK's favorite son is said not to be the elder, Count Herbert, but the younger, Count William, who is president of the council of Hanover. The czar is never lonely on his splendid yacht, the Polar Star, as she carries a crew of three hundred men who are selected from the best sources in the imperial fleet.

BARON HIRSCH is fifty-six years old and dresses with great simplicity. He dislikes display and fights shy of jewelry. Any ordinary nine dollar a week clerk could eclipse him in personal adornment. M. LABSEN, a wealthy Danish banker, so strikingly resembles the czar of Russia that he has got finally into an insane hospital. He came to imagine that he was really the czar, and fear of assassination unsettled his mind.

LORD HERSHELL, the new lord chancellor of Great Britain, an incumbent of that office under Gladstone's last administration before this, is not directly descended from the great astronomers who bore that name, but is of the same family. The Herschells are of German origin.

BENT WITH AGE.

PATSY SEARS, of Howard county, Indiana, aged 105 years, has been a church member a hundred years. Mrs. KATHARINE SHARP, of Philadelphia, is thought to be the oldest woman in America. She is 114 years old.

The oldest inhabitant of Vienna, Magdalen Ponsa, has died at the reputed age of 117. She lived on charity. The emperor gave her a pension of twenty florins a month. She retained her faculties almost until the end.

At 224 West Sixty-first street, New York, lives a man named Pierce Coty, who is in the neighborhood of 100 years old according to the best calculation that can be made, who has lived in New York more than seventy-five years.

Good Places for Tramps. It is said that between the island of Madagascar and the coast of India there are sixteen thousand islands, only six hundred of which are inhabited. On any of these islands a man can live and support his family in princely luxury, without working more than twenty-five days in the year. In fact, on some of these islands he need not work at all, as nature provides the food and no clothes are required.

SMALL WRITING.

Remarkable Results of a French Editor's Obit.

A leading Paris paper, the Eclair, is offering a gold medal as a prize to the finest writer, without distinction of nationality, writes a correspondent. It is not literary merit that is wanted, as the above announcement would lead one to suppose. The prize-giving editor merely wants to know how many words can be written on a piece of paper. Replies have already been sent in. A Belgian officer has accomplished the feat of putting 2,187 words on a post-card. A Mar-selles gentleman has distanced him, having crowded on a card of the same size 2,860 words, representing an article of M. Sareey, and a poem of Deputy Clovis Hughes, both legible without a magnifying glass, though not, imagine, without a good pair of eyes. The above feats are nothing beside that of another competitor for the gold medal, a government clerk at Survigny, who has on a post-card written out an official directory, from the president and his household down to the members of the Paris municipal council - altogether 6,000 words. He spent twenty-eight hours over this at leisure moments, and he is capped by Sergeant Lethore, secretary of the One Hundred and Twenty-seventh Infantry, who announces that he will shortly produce a post-card with a collection of articles amounting to 11,000 words.

As an art small writing has been killed by photography. Microscopic photography was simply invaluable to France during the siege of Paris, when carrier pigeons were daily sent out with 10,000 private letters photographed on a pellicle two inches square rolled up in a quill. There are still, however, plenty of amateurs, some of them distinguished and even illustrious. I may mention, for instance, Alphonse Daudet, who has often, out of fun, written original newspaper articles on a leaf of cigarette paper.

FOREIGN FACTS IN FIGURES.

THE total extent of the British empire is not far from 9,000,000 square miles.

The population of Rome has doubled in twenty years, the number of residents having increased in that time from 300,000 to 600,000 and the city itself has been regenerated.

HOLLAND has 4,500,000 inhabitants, of whom the males and females are nearly equal in number. There are 2,500,000 Protestants, 1,700,000 Catholics and 97,000 Jews. The rest have no settled religion. In 1891 858 persons died in Russia between the ages of 100 and 105, 130 between 115 and 120, while three were reported to the authorities as having died after living to be 150 years or more of age.

PERSIA's income from the cultivated public domain is about $4,000,000 annually. The total number of employees in the government postal and telegraph offices and on the government railways is 187,771.

In the last ten years 2,489 duels with the broadsword were fought in Italy, ninety with rapiers and 179 with pistols. Most of the duels were the result of newspaper fights or political differences.

"PAPA, what is dynamite?" asks Willie. "It is a powerful explosive," returned his papa. "What's explosives for?" the boy asked. "To blow things up," was the answer. "I guess my nurse must be an explosive, then," said Willie. "She's blowin' me up all the time." - Harper's Bazar.

SHE - "A pretty time of night for you to come home!" He - "A pretty time of night for you to be awake!" She - "I've stayed awake for the last four hours waiting for you to come home." He - "And I have been keeping myself awake for the last four hours at the club waiting for you to go to sleep." - Tid-Bits.

BY WIRE.

NEW YORK—A Washington special to the World says: Senator Hill has begun his fight for the control of federal patronage in New York state. He has persuaded the postoffice committee of the Senate to demand from the postmaster general copies of the papers containing the recommendations of application of presidential postmasters recently appointed in New York. The purpose of Senator Hill is evident and the administration accepts it as a challenge.

NEW ORLEANS—The steamship Albert Dumois from Ceiba, Honduras. From those on board it is learned that the entire coast of Honduras, with the exception of Puerto Cortes, is in the hands of revolutionists. The change was rapidly accomplished and with little bloodshed. The revolution had public support seemingly. When the Dumois reached Ceiba it was a few days after its capture, and the officers were very much surprised to have new men in new uniforms come aboard and transact the necessary business.

PARIS—Two more deaths from cholera have occurred at the asylum for insane at Quimper, the capital of the department of Finisterre, on the river Ogle, ten miles from the Atlantic and thirty-six miles from Brest.

WASHINGTON—Secretary Carlisle today directed the sub-treasurers throughout the United States to issue no more gold certificates at present. In explaining this action Secretary Carlisle said that the $1,000,000 gold reserve was not reached, he was so close to it that prudence dictated that no more gold certificates should be issued.

SAN JOSE—The citizens' convention today selected a general committee of ninety-one, with D. M. Delmas, chairman, to take charge of the capital removal campaign and all matters pertaining thereto. Sub-committees on legal affairs and organization and rules were appointed.

TOPEKA—Saturday night the house of a man named Anderson who was married that morning, was serenaded by a band of hoodlums. One of them, who was drunk, emptied both barrels of a shot gun into the house, narrowly missing Anderson and his wife. This so enraged Anderson that he fired into the crowd, instantly killing two hoodlums and fatally injuring a cowboy.

VALPARAISO—El Herald says: The following cable message has been sent to President Cleveland by the American residents of Santiago and Chili: "Minister Egan is harboring criminals in the United States legation and dishonoring his country. He evidently desires to provoke a conflict between the United States and Chili."

TACOMA, Wash.—Collector Wasson states that he believes most of the certificates held by 242 Chinese on board the Mogul are forged, and he will allow none to land unless they furnish complete proof of previous residence in the United States.

WASHINGTON—The policy to be pursued by the treasury department regarding the financial situation was probably determined at a consultation held this afternoon between Secretary Carlisle and President Cleveland. All efforts to loan the result of the conference have thus far failed. The Star says: "Carlisle is understood to be opposed to the issuance of bonds, for the present at least. It is his judgment that it would be preferable to utilize a portion of the gold reserve until it becomes apparent that the issuance of bonds is an absolute necessity."

Novel Plan to Kill Coyotes.

J. M. Campbell, the most extensive sheep raiser in western Texas, lost 22 per cent of his flock during the past twelve months by coyotes. Campbell has hit upon a novel plan of extermination. He entrapped twelve coyotes a month ago and shut them up with a dog which was badly affected with mange. The coyotes soon caught the disease and are now thoroughly covered with the parasites which produce it. They will be turned loose on the ranch in a few days, and Campbell expects the disease to spread among the coyotes so rapidly that there will not be one of them left in Texas in two years.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma and all Throat and Lung Affections, and a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this receipt, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. FRANCIS J. HENRY, attorney general under the Hughes administration, is one of the brightest attorneys in the territory. As an adviser of the governor he will not lead him into paths paved with bad intentions.

As was expected, the officers appointed by Gov. Hughes are Democrats, but they are citizens having the best interests of the territory at heart, and the Republican does not believe that the interests of the great and growing territory of Arizona will suffer in their hands. - Phoenix Republican.

H. D. Ross of Coconino and C. M. Bruce of Cochise are now the leading candidates for secretary of the territory. The appointment will be made in a few days. A strong pull is being made for Mr. Ross on account of the northern part of the territory having less representation than the south. He has a strong support, and if Mr. Bruce should not be successful Mr. Ross probably will be.

W. K. MEADE, who was appointed by Gov. Hughes superintendent of the territorial prison, was twice rejected by the Council and again appointed by Gov. Hughes after the legislature had adjourned. The reason assigned for his rejection was not made public, but sufficient was dropped to make it a certainty that Mr. Meade was the object of spite work on the part of the Council. He had been to Washington and had made a strong fight for Gov. Hughes, who had just taken his seat. It is no secret that the councilmen almost to a man had sworn vengeance upon Mr. Meade and the opportunity offering itself at this time, he was knocked out twice before he had a chance to reach his corner. Not one of those who voted against his confirmation did so from other than personal motives. No one can question Mr. Meade's fitness for the position and those who have the welfare of the territory at heart can not but feel pleased at Mr. Meade's selection for this most important trust.
