Story of a Tourist Plumber Who Thought to Have Been Mangled Under Cars in Arizona

To find that he had been mangled on the 10th of November, 1907, in the region of the Arizona desert where his body was left, is the story of a man who thought he had been mangled under cars in Arizona. The incident is so strange that it seems almost impossible, yet it is a fact.

Basil Crofts, aged 42, of London, England, was struck by a train while attempting to cross the tracks. He was immediately rushed to the nearest hospital, where he died shortly after admission.
