SMELTING FURNACES.

Revolution in the Smelting Business of the Country.

The Water Jacket Furnaces, for both galena and copper ores, built by Messrs. Rankin Brayton & Co., of the Pacific Iron Works, San Francisco, have worked a revolution in the smelting business of the country.

The advantages demonstrated in these furnaces are facility and cheapness of transportation and construction, economy of fuel, fitness of bulion produced and capacity for continuous and uninterrupted work. Any ore that can be smelted, it is claimed, can be worked cheaper in these furnaces than by any other process.

The mining interests of the country are largely indebted to this firm for working up to such a state of perfection this important branch of mining machinery. A large number of companies in Arizona, Idaho, New Mexico and Nevada are operating these furnaces with most satisfactory results. The manufacturers report orders recently received for three forty-ton smelters, to be erected in the Wood river country this spring. Below will be found a statement from the Superintendent of the well-known Castle Dome Smelting Works, in reference to the operation of these smelters, which would seem to be conclusive as to their merit and superiority.

OFFICE OF THE CASTLE DOME SMELTING WORKS, MELBOSE, CAL., Feb. 13, 1882.

GENTLEMEN: MESSRS. RANKIN, BRAYTON & Co., "Pacific Iron Works," San Francisco, Cal:—

In reply to your application for a statement of the working of our furnaces, would say that we have two of your 40 ton galena smelters in our works, that have been running most of the time for last two years. With ordinary care I have no difficulty in keeping them in condition for constant service. The patent circulating plates, recently introduced into your water jackets, I regard as the most important improvement ever made in Water Jacket Furnaces and worth more than an entire cost of an ordinary jacket. There is no question but that a jacket for either galena or copper ores, with this improvement, will last two or three times as much as without it, besides lessening the liability to injure and the consequent expense and loss of time for repairs. Since the adoption of this improvement, I have had no trouble whatever with my jackets. The circulation of the water is so rapid that the inner surfaces of the plates are kept scoured and entirely free from any incrustation, and seems to afford perfect protection from the effects of mineralized water, and from the over-heating and burning out so common in all other jackets. Your style of sectional water jacket has many and obvious advantages over all other forms. The distribution of the blast and the angle of the tuyers are such as are calculated to secure perfect combustion and the greatest economy in fuel.

With a long and varied experience in smelting ores from a wide range of mineral country, I unhesitatingly give your furnaces the preference over any I have ever seen. The machinery comprising the smelting plants furnished by your firm I regard as admirably suited to that purpose—complete in detail and adapted to all the requirements of practical work. The improvements you have made in this class of machinery are recognized as of great value to the mining interests of the country, and makes smelting, under ordinary conditions, the cheapest form of reduction for any ores that can be worked by this process.

Yours, truly,
W. P. MILLEN,
Superintendent.

Didn't Want to go to Heaven.

Not far from Hittwell, on the Carolina side of the river a revival meeting was going on at a country church. A party of young men were engaged in a railway survey and could not attend meeting in daytime, but went at night. After a stormy sermon by the preacher, who gave a vivid description of hell, its climate and inhabitants, followed by a red-hot exhortation from one of the brethren, they literally stormed the fort. One of the railroad fellows was sitting in the back of the church, and the preacher went up to him and said:

"Don't you want to go to heaven?"

"No," he replied.

This horrified the preacher, and he said to the congregation:

"Here is a young man who says he doesn't want to go to heaven; now, my friend, why don't you want to go?"

"Because I would have to die to go there"—Hittwell Ga. Sun.

Parallel of the Sexes.

There is an admirable partition of the qualities between the sexes which the author of our being has distributed to each with a wisdom which challenges our unbounded admiration:

Man is strong; woman is beautiful.

Man is daring and confident; woman diffident and unassuming.

Man is great in action; woman in suffering.

Man sines abroad; woman at home.

Man talks to convince; woman to persuade and please.

Man has a rugged heart; woman a soft and tender one.

Man prevents misery; woman relieves it.

Man has science; woman has taste.

Man has judgment; woman has sensibility.

Man is a being of justice; woman is an angel of mercy.

A Democrat's Opinion of the Earps.

As the Earps have been arrested and will be brought to this country and put upon trial for the murder of the noted desperado, Frank Stilwell, it may not be uninteresting to our readers to know how these so-called Republican outlaws are regarded by decent, law abiding people in Tomstone, regardless of politics. We are permitted to make extracts from a letter written by a strong Democrat, so its utterances can have no political bias.

Speaking of the arrest of the Earps in Denver, he says:

Our contemptible Sheriff Behan wanted to secure the requisition from the Governor and go after them. I feel that his object was to have them assassinated on the spot. The Earps never would have left here if Behan had done his duty. When Morgan Earp was assassinated and his brothers were being the Sheriff to arrest the assassins he did not notice them. The same was the case when H. R. Peel was murdered. Nobody Behan or any of his kindred have ever turned a head to find the murderers. In fact the officer have never spoken to H. R. Peel since the murder of Morgan. But when Stilwell, a stage driver, was killed in another part of the country, Behan and twenty desperado cowboys, are in the saddle week to find somebody who was supposed to have killed the stage robber. When the desperado how they were treated would blame them for leaving the country, or who could blame them for avenging the death of their brother—they really killed so well as charged? But no one knows that they did it.

"There is no hope for any honest man to get justice here against these scoundrels, so long as Behan is in office for he is in with them and I have no doubt divides the spoils with them.

"The Earps are the only men these rascals are afraid of, hence their great anxiety to get them out of the way. Behan knows that if they return here and are set at liberty, he and his gang will have to leave here."

This letter shows how the Earps are regarded and also the high esteem in which the Sheriff of Cochise county is held.

The writer of the above letter is a prominent Democrat and a man of undoubted probity. It furnishes a complete refutation of the charge made by the Star, that the lawlessness in Cochise county is chargeable to the Earps who are ex-U. S. officials.

The Star, of course, does not believe one word of the nonsense it daily palms off on its readers upon this question. That is simply for political effect. The party is in need of an issue and they are trying to make one out of this.—Citizen.

How to Secure Health.

It seems strange that anyone will suffer from the many derangements brought on by an impure condition of the blood, when SCOVILL'S SARSAPARILLA AND STILLINGIA, or BLOOD AND LIVER SYRUP will restore perfect health to the physical organization. It is indeed a strengthening syrup, pleasant to take, and has proven itself to be the BEST BLOOD PURIFIER ever discovered, effectually curing Scrofula, syphilitic disorders, Weakness of the Kidneys, Erysipelas, Malaria; all nervous disorders and Debility, Bilious complaints and all Diseases indicating an impure Condition of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, Stomach, Skin, etc. It corrects indigestion. A single bottle will prove to you its merits as a health renewer, for it acts LIKE A CHARM, especially when the complaint is of an exhaustive nature, having a tendency to lessen the natural vigor of the brain and nervous system.

The proposal of Secretary Teller to disarm the Indians of Arizona may not be favored by Eastern sentimentalists, but will meet with the approval of every person who has lived in the State along the frontier, or who is familiar with frontier emergencies. The secretary is a citizen of Colorado, and understands the Indian question. He is a practical man, and proposes to treat it practically. The Arizona Indians are supported by the Government. They have very little need of weapons in a country where game is scarce, or non-existent, and where their food is otherwise provided. Without arms they would be more inclined to useful occupation; would be more tractable, less inclined to petty disturbances and certainly placed in a position where, lacking the implements of murder, they would be harmless to white settlers.—Chronicle.
