The Apaches.

These fiends in human form are on the war-path in all directions. Every week brings us intelligence of horrid butcheries perpetrated by these devils, and yet, notwithstanding all this, the Government would have us to meekly submit to our fate. If the Government and the Indian ring cannot keep the Apaches on reservations, why not let Gen. Crook and his small body of efficient men, who, knowing the nature of the beast as well as we do, send them to that peace-reservation "from whence no traveler returns." We hope Gen. Crook's visit to Arizona will be delayed sufficiently long as to not interfere with the present plans of Gen. Crook, who is new in the mountains in the immediate vicinity of the Apache haunts, and waiting for a fair opportunity to strike them the "coup de grace."

As we have said above, these fiends incarnate are at work not only in Arizona; New Mexico, has to "grin and bear it" as the Borderer, published at Arroyo, in its issue of the 6th, says.

A long article in reference to the "good Indians," from which we take the following extracts:

We have been patient and enduring while there was a shadow of hope that anything would be done for our relief. Patience and forbearance are fast wearing out, and we shall very soon advocate an entirely different line of policy and help to carry it out. We have men enough in this section to bring about order, and if the Government will not allow the military to work this question up, we shall go at it without the trammels of red tape.

The planting season is nearly over, a general scout for a couple of months will make Indians scarce in this vicinity, and when the fiends are so bold as to forage in our towns, it is time for the people to do something decisive. There is no use in deceiving ourselves longer. It has got to come to this, and the sooner the better for ourselves and Southern New Mexico. We go in now for a loyal league to Ku-Klux Apaches. Let us show that we intend to be trifled with no longer. Five hundred men can be raised in Dona Ana and Grant counties in twenty days, and these five hundred men can drive the last Apache from our border or kill them in two months' time. Government or no Government, it is our right, and let us exercise it.

GOOD NEWS!—As scientists, we are making rapid headway, and have just unearthed a process by which four gallons of spirits can be distilled from every barrel of beer's collections. Now, if there is anything calculated to give us clean streets, this new discovery will attain that end.

Government Telegraph.

In referring to the Government telegraph line between San Diego and Prescott via this city, which was advocated by Delegate McCormick before the Senate Committee on Appropriations, and for which $50,000 was appropriated for its construction, the Miner says:

This is truly a move in the right direction, and, if the Government will do this much for the Territory, our citizens will forgive it for the past neglect of duties toward them, which neglect consists of leaving them to the mercy of the Indian and Mexican cut-throats and robbers, and of having never appropriated as much as one dollar toward opening the Territory by building a road. No doubt in time telegraphic lines will be run to nearly all the important towns and military posts in the Territory, so that should war with Mexico, or any other foreign country come on us, speedy preparation for attack or defense may be made. For some time to come the telegraph would be used mainly to give information concerning movements of hostile Indians and for directing movements against them.

PIOUS BEVERAGE.—At a late Indiana banquet, the ceremonies were opened with prayer by the Rev. Emsley Hamilton, whiskey gunger for the Seventh District. A very appropriate selection, we should say; one whose spiritual manipulations were no doubt fully appreciated by the other samplers.
