AN INTERESTING AFFAIR.

A Pleasant Levee Given by Maj. Schwartz.

Among the Topics Discussed Were the Improprieties of Language and Equestrian Affairs.

Those bizarre young ladies, the Lazuela sisters, attended a levee given by Recorder Schwartz yesterday afternoon.

Soon after the arrival of the sisters somebody incidentally mentioned a little episode of the night or rather the early morning before and everybody laughed.

The recorder picked up two pieces of paper lying on the table and said that reminded him that he had promised to favor his guests with an eloquent performance whereupon he read what purported to be an accusation against the sisters charging them with using vulgar and obscene language.

The recorder then read from the other paper which set forth a rumor that they had been riding on the streets of Phoenix at a rate greater than the statutory speed of eight miles an hour.

"Is that so?" asked the major with a rising inflection after the word "so." "No," said both sisters at once; "our horses ain't that fast."

Mr. A. A. Long, another guest, said he did not know anything about the speed but that about half past two yesterday morning he was awakened by a pistol shot, the clatter of horses hoofs and a discharge of language.

Judge Woodward, another guest, had heard language. The major asked him if he would care to repeat it. The judge replied that he would rather not, but he would say that in comparison with what he had heard, the language reported by Mr. Long expressed lofty and Christian sentiments.
