OUR MOTTO:

16 TO 1.

PHOENIX, SEPTEMBER 29, 1894.

AN AGGRESSIVE CAMPAIGN.

The Republicans of Arizona should make an aggressive campaign. The Democrats not only of the territory but of the whole country are on the defensive, and they have very little defense to offer for the ruin which their iniquitous legislation has brought upon the country.

There will be no opening for a campaign on offensive ground on the part of Democracy as it has heretofore made. It will necessarily be a campaign of defense and apology. The party has done nothing that it promised to do, but has done nearly everything that it was under promise not to do. The average voter may not care to thread the intricacies of specious arguments as to what results may sometime in the future be expected from the legislation accomplished, but he does know that the election of 1892 was followed by the most disastrous disruption of business and destructive influence upon the industries of the land that the country has ever experienced.

He knows that from a condition of the most universal prosperity that the country has ever known a plunge was taken into the lowest depths of idleness, want and misery from one end of the nation to the other. And he knows that the baleful effects of the election were felt by and are now grinding every family from the local capitalist to the commonest laborer.

There is enough in that knowledge to direct anybody not hidebound in his partisanship in the way he should vote in order to restore the former conditions of prosperity and happiness. It will be up-hill business for the Democratic orator to make votes by telling his hearers that the sugar trust tariff has not added a farthing to the expense of the breakfast table, when everybody within the sound of his voice knows that his grocer gives him four to six pounds less of sugar than he did before the sugar schedule was agreed upon.

The man would be a dolt who can be made to believe that the manufactured imports of the country can be increased so as to swell the receipts from duties more than eighty millions and not cripple American manufacturers unless the difference is to be taken from the wages of the working people.

Let the Republicans of Arizona make an aggressive, active campaign, granting no quarter to the enemy, and victory will perch upon our banners in November. FOR REPUBLICAN SUCCESS. It is one of the most encouraging signs of the times to observe that the local Republican organizations all over the territory are exerting themselves to their utmost capacity this year.

This proves that the Republicans everywhere are putting on their war paint as it were and are going to contest every inch of the ground in their respective localities for future supremacy. They are encouraged in this course by hundreds of Democrats who are so indignant at the course their own party has pursued they are openly identifying themselves with the Republican party.

You cannot point to a county in the territory wherein there are not a number of prominent Democrats who have repudiated their party and boldly proclaimed that they will affiliate no more with the organization. In every county we hear from the Republicans are putting forward their best men and taking all legitimate steps to elect them. This wise course cannot fail to produce the most favorable results. It gives the masses of the people confidence in the Republican party and leads many Democrats to join an organization that promises to be just and equitable to them after their own party has failed to perform the most sacred obligations.

SENATOR MANDERSON, of Nebraska, has declined to remain longer in public life. At the close of his present term he will retire and devote the balance of his life to his private affairs. He has made a capable and faithful public servant, and is entitled to rest after the valuable service he has rendered to the country.

THIS OVERCOAT change in the atmosphere is general from the Rocky mountains west. It will revive the clothing trade, which will in the natural course of events revive other lines of business. A little shivering on the sunny side of a street for a few days will be put up with if it is to aid the country financially.

THE WEST is going to have a hand in shaping the financial policy of this country hereafter, and it is going to begin work promptly with the meeting of the next congress. Every western man sent to congress will have definite instructions on that subject, and the instructions will be obeyed.

THE BOSTON Journal is doubtful of the result in Massachusetts. It thinks the Republicans will probably carry only twelve of the thirteen congressional districts. But perhaps our staid Boston contemporary is merely guarding against overconfidence.

THE DEMOCRATIC campaign this year is one of misrepresentation. That is to say, campaign orators are telling the people that Democratic rule has not been a miserable and disastrous failure.

YOU CAN TAKE your choice of the news reports from the Oriental war nowadays. The Japs are evidently winning, but laundry prices on this side of the earth have not changed at all.

MAJOR MORRILL of Kansas, and the Republican nominee for governor, gave Tom Reed of Maine his first certificate to teach school. Mr. Reed will make speeches for Major Morrill in Kansas.

M. W. MESSENGER is making a quiet but telling campaign for treasurer. If the numerous persons he has helped now help him he is sure to be the next treasurer.

VOTERS WILL make no mistake in supporting Sam Bayley and A. J. Porterie for constables. They are efficient, capable and honest officials.

MOST OF THE fall races will be political ones, and the Republican candidates are generally recognized as the favorites.

ALTHOUGH not definitely reported, it seems probable that Li Hung has also been deprived of his head.

AS THE president of a match factory Edwin Gould should now be able to marry off his sister.

SUGAR WILL come high to everybody this fall, but it will cost the Democratic party most dearly.

AND STILL the Breckinridge family goes on trying to lower its record.

CHINA is having regular Democratic luck this year.

THE MODERN DRAMA.

It is a Dress-Coat Affair and Lacks the Gaiety of Yore.

The other night a man went to the theater who had not been for years, and he couldn't make it out, says Pearson's Weekly. First of all he missed the simple village youth, the virtuous hero who was wont to take the first prize at the horticultural society, or else win the garden at quills, or something or other in the rustic revels. But worst of all he missed the dear old-fashioned villain, and although this play had a tremendous villain in it our friend was not impressed with him a bit. He sighs thus:

"I came away again, sadly disappointed. The play was not what I expected. I shall go no more to the playhouse. The palmy days of the drama are over. The theater has fallen into the sear and yellow fifth act, and there is no health in it! The theater has followed the path of literature and the good old things are changed. I beheld a lot of swell people in evening dress on the stage. They spoke quietly to one another, very much as people do off the stage, and in very much the same sort of language. This is not what I want when I go to the theater.

"What is the theatrical villain of today? Is he a real, good, old-fashioned ruffian? Does he ever drag a helpless maiden from the domiciliary roof of her ancestors by the hair? No, sir. Does he ever say to the hero: 'Say one word and thou art food for the wolves?' Does he ever grab the heroine by the wrist, drag her down the stage in three strides, slam her down in a big chair, bend over her and whisper fensively: 'S death, maiden, but, by my soul, I love thee! Thou shalt be mine! Yield or by heaven I'll—'"

"That's all I know of that speech, because 'By heaven I'll' is the cue for the maiden to spring up, and, throwing the villain half way across the stage, to say: 'Unhand me, ruffian! And know, that rather than mate with such as thou, I'd cast myself from yonder battlement into the foaming flood beneath!'"

"And does the villain then say: 'Now, by heavens, I like thy spirit! I love thee all the more for it?'"

"And does the maiden say: 'Merciful powers, protect me?'"

"And does the door open and the hero rush in, armed with a good, blunt broadsword? And then do he and the villain fence up and down the stage, sizes, eights, shoulder blows, cut and thrust? Oh, no. These things have given way to swallow-tailed coats and high collars, and the villain is now as big a swell as any fellow in the show. Oh, for the good old palmy days of the drama, when the broadsword ruled and there was gore! The modern drama is too much like ice cream after a heavy dinner—cold and unsatisfying."

Pumps.

Water! WATER! Water!

Who will let their stock die for the want of water, when they can get a pumping plant that will raise enough water for 2500 head of stock in one hour's pumping, twenty gallons to the head, and have the balance of the twenty-four hours to irrigate 100 acres for the small outlay of $800 and up according to lift of pump? This is what the Menge Patent Pump will do.
