OUR MOTTO:

16 TO 1. PHOENIX, OCTOBER 31, 1894.

THE TIME FOR WORK.

Next Tuesday the people of the various congressional districts of the country will say at the polls what they think of twenty months of Democratic control of the government, and notably what they think of the industrial legislation of the Democratic congress. Already every state election which has been held since Cleveland went into the White House, has shown a decided tendency to condemn the Democratic regime.

The Republicans of Arizona never had a better opportunity since the organization of the party than they have this year to serve their party and the people. There is not a county, city or town in the territory where Democratic dissension and disapproval of the course the Democratic party has pursued is not patent to the eye of the most casual observer and now is the time, therefore, for the Republicans to make a legitimate, but red hot, campaign that will show the world that they are in earnest and ready to carry out the reforms demanded by the people regardless of politics.

Let every Republican understand that he has been appointed as a committee of one to advance the good cause in every way that is proper and legitimate. The news comes from Mohave, Coconino, Apache and Yavapai counties that N. O. Murphy and A. J. Doran have made a splendid canvas of that portion of the territory and those who are best capable of judging say that the prospects of their triumphant election are indeed bright and encouraging.

This is admitted by friend and foe to be a Republican year, and every Republican in the territory should take pride in seeing how much he can advance the interests of his party in this contest. A large number of the Democrats are disgusted with the course their party has pursued in congress and do not hesitate to hold the organization responsible for the present deplorable hard times. They realize that their own party promised everything in its platform and did nothing, hence they are ripe for revolt. Let us labor with energetic zeal to elect Mr. Murphy to congress and to elect every man if possible on the legislative and county ticket. Hereafter it has been next to impossible to elect a Republican congressman in the territory and Republican officers in Maricopa county, but the chances are now equal and if each Republican will do his whole duty the result is sure to prove of a most satisfactory character. Let us take a long pull, and a strong pull and a pull altogether and the victory is ours.

THE CONCERN OF ALL.

That was a most remarkable demonstration that was witnessed by Governor McKinley as he passed through the manufacturing district of Wheeling, when workmen rushed out from their places by the furnace fires to wave greetings to the great champion of their interests. Not only the men from the mills, but the female operatives also were gathered along the tracks to cheer the tariff leader. They were there because they recognized in him the leadership of principles that vitally concern them. They had felt the pinch of hard times resulting from Democratic tariff policy; it had become clear to them that work would be less certain in the future than in the past and that wages would be far below the standard that was formerly maintained. Therefore they gathered to greet the representative of protection, knowing that their interests lay in success of the cause in which he was enlisted.

There are those who tell us that the tariff is a local issue. We have no patience with such a narrow view. Leaving out of account every direct and indirect benefit disseminated over the entire country by a reign of prosperous conditions in such a city as Wheeling, there is no American citizen who should overlook the fact that the interests of those toilers at the forges and in the factories of that city are, in some measure, the interests of all the people.

We have in this country a labor organization whose motto is, if we recall it correctly, "The injury of one is the concern of all." It is in the light of the spirit of that motto that such questions must be considered by every patriotic citizen. Those men and women in Wheeling are engaged in legitimate occupations and their injury is the concern of all.

There is no man who has a proper appreciation of the relations of men to each other who can hold that the interests of those West Virginia toilers do not reach beyond the shadows of their own places of employment—who can claim that the protective tariff upon which their hope of prosperity rests is a local issue. It is the concern of all; and wherever there are men who realize what the benefits of steady employment at good wages are, there hearts should go out responsive to the wishes of those who, in countless communities, are asking that conditions of assured prosperity may be restored as they existed before the Democratic party was installed in power and the menace of free trade suspended above the heads of the people.

WHO OWNS THE COUNTY?

For some years the people of Phoenix and Maricopa county have heard of certain Democratic bosses in local politics to such an extent that no campaign seems to be complete without evidence of their presence. They have been factors in every election to such an extent that it has become a recognized fact that these people must be cared for at the expense of the public.

While it is generally considered that the laborer is worthy of his hire, it must be confessed that the people of Maricopa county are becoming tired of furnishing pay for personal political work, and when it is publicly known a week before election that certain candidates have already provided places for these men it causes a wave of indignation.

The fact that candidates on the Democratic ticket have decided to make members of these gangs assistants needs only to be mentioned to set the people thinking, and when the people of Maricopa county think the result will not be the election of this ticket which for years has furnished places for certain persons at the expense of the tax payers.

ONE CAN'T understand—the cigarette being so universally reviled—why the novelist perpetually puts one in the mouth of his or her hero. Now the cigarette smoker is regarded by a majority of the public in exactly the same light as the girl who eats onions or the old woman who chews assafoetida. Yet Sarah Grand following in the footsteps of a host of others, when she introduces us to her artist in the first page of her new story in the Cosmopolitan, had him smoking a cigarette—the vile, ill smelling cheap things! Why doesn't she at least let him smoke a cigar like a man; cigarettes are more for badly trained little boys, and sickly, young young men.

EVERY REPUBLICAN who has the good of his country at heart should set to work to the best of his ability and to the full extent of the time allowed him, to help the wage earners of the manufacturing section of the people to understand that to vote the Democratic ticket would be to invite a further blow to their interests and encourage the Democratic leaders to carry out to the full their program for bringing down all wages in this country to the European level. If the toilers once could be made to understand this they would give their support to the Republican ticket and party and not to their worst enemies—the Democrats who solicit their votes.

A young professional woman at Kansas City who comes of a good old Irish family, has grown ashamed of the Emerald Isle and writes her name "Kelli;" some time ago a young man was visiting in Phoenix, who had his name spelled Mackiness; but this couldn't conceal the fact that it was plain McGinnis.

THE PRICES and potates of Europe are aptly described as men with all kinds of orders on their breasts and all sorts of disorders in their blood.

ONLY ONE candidate for the Kentucky legislature has been instructed for Col. Breckinridge for United States senator so far. This is encouraging.

MAKING GOOD BUTTER.

The Secret of Success, It is Claimed, Lies in Proper Working.

Working the butter is where the fine art of butter-making comes in. Nothing but practical and deep study will master this part of the work. Given a single lot of butter out of the churn and divide it between two people, one an old-fashioned butter maker, and the other a modern expert, and if the butter came out of the churn all right one will make twenty-five and the other fifty cent butter of it, such being the importance of proper working.

To work butter correctly we must begin in the churn. Stop it when the butter breaks, say the size of bird shot. Draw off the buttermilk, skim off the granules of butter that have run into the churn. Now carefully lift the butter all out of the churn with a tin or wooden dipper. Don't for your life touch it with your hands. Place it as tenderly as a baby on the worker and press it gently but firmly into a flat cake. Then with the wooden paddle, fold it together and again gently but firmly press it flat. Do this over and over again until all the water is out of it, but stop as soon as you can.
