OUR MOTTO:

STAND UP FOR ARIZONA.

PHOENIX, MARCH 14, 1895.

A BRIGHT FUTURE.

There is a hopeful feeling in Maricopa county this spring. Almost all the people with whom we talk are cheerful and anticipate better times. General farmers, orchardists and grape growers have brighter prospects than they have known for several years.

There is good reason for this hopefulness. The season thus far has been very fine. Our winter rains were ample, but not excessive. Following the winter rains came weeks of delightful weather with plows running everywhere. Orchards, vineyards, gardens and grain fields have seldom been in better condition at this time of year than they now are.

The construction of the Santa Fe railroad and revival of mining will create a demand for farm products. Better times east and the starting up of some of the mills there will improve the fruit market. The advanced price of wine adds hundreds of thousands of dollars to the value of our vineyard products. All these facts mean much to Maricopa county producers.

Then, too, many new people are coming into this section of the territory, bringing their money with them and thus adding to our wealth. At no time in the past have there been so many people residing in Maricopa county as at the present. There are few vacant houses in the towns and there is considerable activity in building operations.

It has been a good while since there were more residences under construction in Phoenix than at present. Hammers and saws are making music that is pleasant for mechanics. And the residences that are being erected are generally of good character.

Yet, the outlook here is good. There can be no question about this. The encouragement that is felt by most people is well grounded. Our people and our enterprises are going ahead—they are moving in the right direction. If anybody here has not made this discovery it is time for him to do so and to get into the procession. This is going to be a good year for this country. By being awake to this fact and talking it we shall help to make the year even better than it would be otherwise.

A GRAVE MISTAKE.

One of the best indications of business revival is the demand eastern advertisers are making for space in western papers. It is probable that every well established Arizona newspaper received twice as many eastern advertising propositions the first two months of 1894 as in the corresponding months of 1884. This business can be made valuable if it is properly handled. As a rule, the rates offered are very low—generally not to exceed half the local rates that must be charged to enable newspapers to meet their obligations.

There is no reason for treating the foreign advertiser better than the local one. The same schedule of rates should obtain for both. Nine-tenths of every newspaper's support comes from its local patrons and they should not be required to pay more for space than those living elsewhere.

Foreign firms cannot do business in this territory without advertising here. They cannot get the merits of here wares before our people so well or at so little expense in any other way as by the use of our newspapers and they are convinced of this. They are not to be blamed for getting their work done as cheaply as possible, but they will pay well for it if they have to do so.

The trouble is with the publishers of some newspapers. They do not understand their business and hence accept every advertising proposition from abroad as so much clear gain, regardless of the price offered.

There is no clear gain in such printing offices. They are always "hand to mouth" concerns, having difficulty in paying their bills and often not paying them. Such concerns not only are without legitimate living business, but they also injure the business of others. If all our Arizona newspapers would insist on doing business on business principles, not one would lose in consequence and one-half more money would come into this territory from foreign advertisers.

SILLY "FLAPDOODLE."

Considerable "flapdoodle" is being written just now about the vast amount of work that President Cleveland has been called upon to perform, the result of which he was compelled to take a sea trip in order to build up his shattered constitution.

This sort of gossip is silly and puerile. There is no reason whatever why the president of the United States should, under the department system and the subdivision of work therein, be compelled to sit at his desk until 4 o'clock in the morning, or even for one hour after he has eaten his 6 o'clock dinner. If President Cleveland has indulged in such unnecessary folly it is his own fault. Even Abraham Lincoln, who occupied the White House during the most exciting period of the nation's history, was never heard to complain that he was exhausted by physical work. There is no need of the president doing those things which properly belong to his clerical force. President Cleveland's overweening conceit no doubt impels him to assume a certain amount of drudgery which he could safely and properly turn over to his secretaries and the clerks in the various departments. If he wishes to plod night after night in his private office, that is his business, and the public has no sympathy with the pitiful tales of overwork retailed by his namby-pamby private secretary.

President Depew of the New York Central Railroad company, who holds one of the most responsible positions in the country, is never overworked. He always has time to attend dinners and make speeches, and to spend a few months in Europe once a year. He is not anxious to do purely clerical work merely for the sake of boasting how hard he is pressed in order to keep his affairs straight. The country has heard enough about President Cleveland burning the midnight oil, and all that sort of rubbish. Such talk has ceased to bring forth any expressions of sympathy. The duties of the president are many and varied, but there is no reason why he should seek to be his own cabinet and all the departments besides and attempt to do all of the work. It is an exhibition of distrust and weakness.

The appropriations made by the Fifty-first congress, known as the "billion dollar" congress, amounted to $988,000,000. The appropriations made by the Fifty-third congress, including the interest upon bonds, made a part of the permanent expenses, will be about $993,000,000. That is doing pretty well for the first Democratic reform congress, elected upon a basis of economy in the public expenditures.

TWENTY THOUSAND miners in the Pittsburg coal district threaten to strike. If they do it means misery and loss of wages to nearly all of them, and perhaps death to some of the men. The end of that strike can be anticipated before it is begun. The money lost by men who are continually striking would more than make up any advantage they hope to gain.

A RECEPTION will be tendered this evening, between 7 and 8, at the residence of E. F. Kellner, president of the chamber of commerce, to Mayor Carlson of San Diego. Business men and friends of the San Diego & Phoenix railway are expected to be present to pay their respects to the promoter of that great enterprise.

IT IS JUST a trifle too early to discuss possible mayoralty candidates yet awhile. The present incumbent is doing pretty well and may possibly take a notion to run for one more term, so it behooves would-be candidates to think twice before acting once in a matter of this importance.

NOW THAT the celebration is over, let us treat each of our roads fairly and they will doubtless treat us the same.
