A San Diego dentist is making money implanting dead teeth in the jaws of live patients. One woman carries thirteen implanted teeth. The dentist simply drills a hole in the toothless jawbone and drives in a tooth with a mallet. These implanted teeth do well. They never ache. A rancher from Vista recently had a tooth thus implanted. He asked the dentist to put in a "nigger's" tooth, if possible, believing that an African ivory had better staying qualities. Human teeth for implanting are in great demand. They are secured from all sorts and conditions of men and women, dead and alive. A set of these implanted teeth is said to be very comforting if one doesn't stop to think where they come from.

Howard's Latest.

Written especially for the SENTINEL, May 30, 1895.

Howard's mother lives in suite 252 at the Palace and Mabel's cross old bachelor uncle lives in 253—that is he used to—he doesn't any more. Well, Mabel called to see her uncle on Thursday, and he wasn't in, the maid unlocked the door and the little girl proceeded to amuse herself in the rooms. Howard's mother was also out, and his nurse was on the floor above talking to another Marie. So the children were not long in discovering each others whereabouts and soon, sooner than it takes to tell it, they were both in mischief. But let us repeat the story in the words of charming Mrs. W. Said she: "I called for Mrs. B. at 5:30. I found her walking frantically up and down in a most thoroughly disordered room." Why, my dear, why are you not dressed for dinner? asked I. Dressed! Dressed! Dressed, in a man's shirt, and an 18 inch neck at that! "fairly screamed Mrs. B. "A woman to dress for a dinner in shirts and cuffs and neckties. Not a blessed thing else is in my bureau." At this juncture a wild scream for "Porter! Annie!" was heard across the hall. "Porter, get her out quick! Got her out! Such a thing never happened before! A woman in my apartments! and here the voice lowered, "and for God's sake send me a boy and get me a shirt. I have an appointment at the club at six."

"A shirt, see," gasped the bewildered Porter, why sir. what's the matter with your own shirts?"

"Matter," roared the O. B. can I wear this? Is this a shirt, and that, what is that anyway? Do you call this cuffs, you blundering idiot! Wouldn't I look nice going into the Pacific-Union dressed in a rig of that kind? But the porter could stand no more and in despair rushed down to the office.

Mrs. W. raised her voice and said over the transom: "Is your shirt marked T. W. B?" "It is, madam," answered a voice as if from the tomb, and if you will loan it to me, only loan it to me for half an hour, and I'll be the most grateful man in the world.

So Annie, the chambermaid, was called into use and the shirt duly delivered to its irate owner, and Annie came back with a long drawn face and a wild expression of eye. Why, Mrs. B., all your clothes are over in his room, and they are lying around everywhere. On chairs and tables, and the floor and on the desk, and, "Oh," said Mrs. B., "Howard, come here!" and Howard, who had been quietly sitting during all this commotion without offering one word of explanation, came. "Howard, what were you and Mabel doing this afternoon?"

Playing laundry, Why what do you mean? "Why mama I played I was Burgess, and Mabel was a lady, and I brought her her clothes home, and Mabel played she was a French Laundry and brought my collars and shirts and everything a man wears, home, and Mabel used her uncle s clothes, and I used yours."

"And then"—put in Mrs. B. "Then I put my collars and things all nicely away in the bureau drawers, and Mabel put her's away in her uncle's bureau drawers, and then we began playing that we lived in Yuma, and so we had to begin to fight and so we forgot to put the clothes back again, but I'll go over now and tell the gentleman that he mustn't run away with your clothes." But Howard's mother knew better than have her dear little angel risk his life in suite 253.

The San Diego, Yuma and Phoenix Railroad.

A San Diegan seeking capital in New York to build a railroad to Yuma or a water supply for the city, will be asked the very first thing, "Why don't the people of San Diego build some themselves?" Why? That's the question. We have a population of 17,000 in this city, and with 8,000 more in the neighboring towns of the bay region, we have a total of 25,000 people, who can build a railroad to Yuma or secure the irrigation of the lands of the bay-region. The only question is "How shall it be done? It can be done, we firmly believe. In war times, what cannot the army of 25,000 accomplish? In peace what cannot the population of 25,000 accomplish? True, it is not necessary to have the money on hand to build the entire line. But it is necessary for all of the 25,000 people here on this bay region to pull together. After pulling together for one year steadily, they would have an increase of 10,000 in population to assist them, and as many of the new-comers would represent capital, they would assist materially in accomplishing what the 25000 originally had set out to bring about. As 25,000 people pulling together for one year can accomplish a great deal, 35,000 people can accomplish more the next year, and so on, until the road to Yuma (only 175 miles) has been completed and our lands have secured the reservoirs and ditches to irrigate them. "God helps those who help themselves" is quite true, and is applicable to San Diego. Let us help ourselves, and after we have helped ourselves by pulling steadily together for one year, then outside (New York) capitalists will help us. It is reasonable. Let us stop waiting for some outsiders to come here, whereby all of us 25,000 people here pulling together we can virtually secure what we much desire and have wanted for twenty-seven years past,—the direct east line of railroad and the irrigation of all of the lands of the bay region,—then, when they are secured, we will prosper,—Nicaragua Canal or no Nicaragua Canal,—then we will be a great commercial city to make use of the Nicaragua Canal, when it is built,—and not be waiting for the Nicaragua Canal to build us up. Let's pull together for one year. An army of 25,000 people can do much in one year.—San Diego World.

The Yuma (Ariz.) SENTINEL of May 25, has been received at the Monitor office and we notice about four columns of matter written on the resources of Yuma county and compiled by Immigration Commissioner J. W. Dorrington, of that city. The editor of the Monitor is well acquainted with the commissioner and can say he is reliable in every sense of the term and his article on the resources of that great country, which is destined to be one of the richest with proper development in "The Apache State," can be relied upon in all its details. The irrigating advantages of the county is considered and the writer has many interesting points upon that important question. Live stock, horses, hogs and cattle do well in the county and the cheapness of land makes stock raising a great inducement. Stock grow fat on alfalfa, of which six crops are cut a year. The writer states that a large area of land is now under cultivation in fruits, Egyptian corn, grapes, figs, wheat, barley, sorghum, beans, cabbage, artichokes, asparagus, lettuce, radishes, peas and in fact all kinds of vegetables. Watermelons, muskmelons, squash, pumpkins are very prolific. Listen: Vegetables are grown in all seasons of the year. Two and three crops of Egyptian corn and two crops of potatoes and peanuts thrive remarkably well. Strawberries, blackberries, gooseberries, and the like grow in great abundance. The climate cannot be surpassed and the soil needs no fertilization. This land in Yuma county is especially suitable for settlement by small colonies. The valley in question supplies a large number of mining districts with hay, vegetables and other products of the farm. Much attention of late is being paid to thoroughbred horses and cattle, and the raising of hogs is a decided success and are being regularly shipped to the Los Angeles market where they bring good prices. The article by J. W. Dorrington will no doubt result in great good for the county and especially to the people who go there for homes and a livelihood. The climate in the land of the sunset is not equalled on the face of the earth.—Daily (Moberly, Mo.) Monitor.

It May Do as Much for You.

Mr. Fred Miller, of Irving, Ill., writes that he had a Severe Kidney trouble for many years, with severe pains in his back and also that his bladder was affected. He tried many so called Kidney Cures but without any good result. About a year ago he began use of Electric Bitters and found relief at once. Electric Bitters is especially adapted to cure of all kidney and Liver troubles and often gives almost instant relief. One trial will prove our statement. Price only 50c. for large bottle. Daniel Webster on the Great West.

When we think of the teeming population which now fills many portions of our country west of the Rocky Mountains, and remember how famous, all over the world, is their singular beauty, and their incomparable value to the tourist, the health seeker, the agriculturist and the horticulturist, as well as the miner, it is interesting to read what so intelligent a statesman as Daniel Webster thought of them just fifty years ago, and to know that his views were shared by many other prominent public men of the time. In a speech delivered in the United States Senate in 1844, with regard to the proposal that a mail service should be established between Missouri and the Pacifi coast, Webster said: "What do we want with this vast worthless area, this region of savages and wild beasts of deserts, of shifting sands and whirlwinds of dust, of cactus and prairie dogs? To what use could we ever hope to put these great deserts, or these endless mountain ranges, impenetrable, and covered to their bases with eternal snow? What can we ever hope to do with the western coast, a coast of three thousand miles, rock-bound, cheerless and uninviting, with not a harbor on it? What use have we for such a country? Mr President, I will never vote one cent from the public treasury to place the Pacific coast one inch nearer Boston than it is to-day.
