YES, PIRATES HAVE QUITE AN INFIELD

The sensational playing of the Pittsburgh Pirates in the National league has set the fans of that burg afire with pennant hopes. Much of the team's success is attributed to the crack infield work.

"We've got the best infield in the National league," explains the great Honus Wagner. "We have a Bohemian on first, an Irishman at third and a Dutchman at second and short."

Some cosmopolitan infield that, eh, what?

A CORRECT ANSWER

"Tommy," said the Sunday school teacher, who had been giving a lesson on the Baptismal Covenant, "can you tell the two things necessary to baptism?"

"Yes'm," said Tommy, "water and a baby."—Western Mail.

CROWDS VISIT RIVERSIDE

Great Interest Already Excited In Resort On Banks of Salt River Indicate Success of Scheme. Shade and Swimming Pool

If the hosts of people who visited Riverside Park yesterday afternoon, while yet in its unfinished and very much disrumped state, indicates what may be expected when the place is finished and opened to the public, it is a certainty that this great project is a success at the very outset.

The water has not been let into either the swimming pool or the long pond as yet, the pretty brook which will bring joy to the kiddies' hearts is dry. The paths, roads are only outlined, and they are just beginning to spread the crushed granite that will floor the walks and a large part of the park. The big bathhouse is finished but not yet painted. The dining room and the dancing pavilion are only far enough ahead to give an indication of what they will be like and yet there was a steady stream of people coming and going all day. During the afternoon between three and five hundred people visited the place and were amazed at its magnitude.

It was mighty hot in the sun yesterday, but in the shade of the big trees and under the palm shelters, it was cool and lovely, with a breeze every minute that would have made any shore resort envious. One thing was well demonstrated, no matter how hot it may be elsewhere, there will always be cool spots at Riverside at any hour of the day.

The interest taken in the place is remarkable, it goes to show that a place of this type is needed. The calibre of the men behind the enterprise is such that the people realize that it is to be run in a manner that will make it available at all times as an ideal place for women and children. There will be nothing there to offend anyone and a great deal to amuse and attract.

The swimming pool, which will be the great magnet, will be supplied with pumped water, which will flow through the big pond at the rate of eleven hundred gallons a minute, so that it will always be clean, cool and fresh, in fact the management is doing everything to make it not only the most attractive but the most sanitary bathing place in the southwest. It will be supplied with everything dear to the heart of the bather; high dives and spring boards, floats, swings, a toboggan slide and a sandy beach where one may lie in the shade of the trees or under sun umbrellas between dips; it will be as near to the joys of ocean bathing as it is possible to get without old mother ocean herself.

A big feature at Riverside will be the band concerts every Thursday, Saturday and Sunday night and Saturday and Sunday afternoons. A shell band stand is being built which will give splendid accommodations for this kind of music and it will be so constructed that while it will not interfere with the music of the orchestra for dancing, the band can be heard in any part of the park.

The restaurant will be in the hands of an excellent caterer and will unquestionably give satisfaction. It will not only be a delight to the eye, it will be a joy to the epicure and a boon to the pocketbook.

Every effort is being made to provide the greatest comfort, and the best desirable attractions at the least expense to the patron. It is particularly desired to make the place attractive to women and children. Riverside will be a resort for the whole family; it will be a place where a man will be glad to have his wife, his mother or his sister go, and during the day it will be found a haven of rest and enjoyment for the mother with small children. There will be more there to amuse the kiddies without cost than anybody can realize before the gates are formally thrown open. Incidentally it will not only be the kiddies that will find plenty of amusement there.

The opening day will be Saturday, May 30, Memorial Day, and there will be a long program of special attractions, including all kinds of aquatic sports, band concerts, fireworks, dancing, feature pictures and many other things.

The management announces that the big pool will be filled with water this week and that entrants for the swimming races will be allowed to practice there.

Arrangements have been made for adequate means of transportation to the park, in addition to autos which will run at irregular intervals; big auto busses will leave uptown every hour during the morning, every half hour in the afternoon up to 4 o'clock and every fifteen minutes from 4 o'clock on. It is only a five-minute ride from Center and Adams streets and the fare will be five cents each way.

DIRECTOR MILLS WILL CONDUCT TRINITY CHOR

William Conrad Mills, director of the Phoenix Choral Society and director of the vocal department of the Arizona School of Music, has been appointed choirmaster of Trinity Pro-Cathedral, to succeed Maitland Davies, resigned.

Mr. Mills, who is a tenor singer of national reputation, will take charge of the choir October first next, and will organize a volunteer chorus of twenty voices. It is his plan to render each Sunday simple and dignified music especially appropriate to the Episcopal service and to give sacred cantatas in keeping with the various seasons of the church year.

Mr. Mills studied directing under Rev. George G. Daland, one of the foremost musicians of the Episcopal church, who assisted in editing the new hymnal for use in the Sunday schools.

Mr. Mills has sung at the White House, the Library of Congress, the Memorial Continental Hall of the Daughters of the American Revolution and in many of the churches in Washington, D. C., including historic St. Johns, known as the Church of the Presidents, where he was soloist for four years; with the New York Symphony Orchestra, Walter Damrosch directing, and withatorio societies in Maryland, New Jersey and Washington, D. C.

AMUSEMENTS

The Lamara

There will be added attractions at the Lamara theater today when the most recent installment of "Dollie of the Dailies," called "an affair of dress," in which Mary Fuller stars, will be shown. In addition to this there will be a two-reel Lubin feature, "The Root of Evil," a very interesting way the Lubin people have of doing these things. Manager Barnard is making arrangements for more of his "top notch" programs for the near future. The theater has recently been equipped with cooling fans and the "theater comfortable" is the nicest place in town to see the pictures.

Pulling Puns

"Who was the little fairy I saw you with down on the corner?" "Oh, a pal of mine. Do you know while we were talking there a terrible accident happened? A great big telegraph post fell over on us, and we had to call out the postmaster."

"Postmaster! What did you call him out for?"

"Why, to take the post offus."

There is quite a little knack in pulling puns on the vaudeville stage, a knack which Shy and Shyman, discoverers of the science of "crazyology" have down to perfection. Their act is good because of good jokes, good music and good looks. There are three other acts at the Coliseum that also are good and tonight is the last chance to see them.

A New Bill

Grousemyer and McSweeney, the usually laughable combination of a Dutchman and an Irishman will continue their adventures before the patrons of the Empress theater, beginning tonight in a bran new series of "ticklers" in the shape of laugh-provokers, when "Fads and Fables" will be the bill. The program is interspersed with a number of bright musical numbers and duets and trios will be on the bill sufficient to satisfy the most exacting. "Irish" Fernand and "Dutch" Rowe will continue to be the chief trouble-makers. Eddie Young will do stunts again and dance some more cute stunts. The chorus under the direction of Miss Gerard is doing fine work getting better every evening.

The Regale

The most famous military engagement in the history of America, "The Battle of Bull Run," is to be depicted at the Regale Theater, 210-212 E. Washington street in the most remarkable series of three reels ever produced before the moving picture camera. To say that it is a stupendous production is expressing it mildly. There are hundreds of uniformed soldiers representing the contending forces of the north and the south, with guns, cannons and ammunition enough to equip a good sized army.

And then above it all appears the great personality of Abraham Lincoln, cleverly portrayed by one of the most notable screen actors. It is predicted for this feature offering that it will attract no end of attention and that there will be none but pleased patrons at the Regale today.

Garden Truck

King Baggett that popular Imp star is appearing in one of his detective films at the Gardens tonight. Baggett, recognized as one of the most up to date of the new producers has scored a tremendous hit with his "King of the Detective" series.

The Animated Weekly, Universal celluloid newspaper, and a Frontier comedy, "Caught at His Own Game" filled up the foliage.

Ma Guinea Pig added triplets to the zoo yesterday. The little ones are now important parts of the varied menagerie, and are attracting as much attention as any of the old folks.

Columbia

All day Sunday the large crowds that were giving the Columbia the "Once Over" indicate that the opening tomorrow night will test the capacity of even that liberal sized house. Everything is now pretty well in place. Of course

Some Valuable Pointers Concerning Ratine

—There seems to be wide-spread objection to Ratine. We have looked into the matter and found after a thorough test that, in order to be successful with Ratine, it requires shrinking before making.
—Now, as a further inducement for prospective purchasers, we offer to shrink all Ratines purchased at this sale, free of charge.

There will be a little touching up to be done even tomorrow, however, indications at this late date show that there will be no hindrance to a complete performance. All the stage fixtures are in place and the operating room all ready. The seats are in position and the lobby almost finished. For some time the mechanics have been working at top speed and seem imbued with a desire to have the house start on time complete in every detail.

To those that looked it over yesterday it certainly is a revelation. We have been led to expect a lot from this house not alone from the newspaper stories given out but from the fact that the men back of the project are Phoenix business men of the highest financial standing and personal integrity.

The performance will consist of four very high class vaudeville acts and three reels of first run exclusive pictures. The music of the Columbia ladies orchestra will be a feature of each performance.

The doors open at seven and the first performance starts at seven fifteen with the second show at nine.

The Avenue
The current bill was greatly enjoyed by the large audiences yesterday at the Avenue. Especially good, is the two reel Vitagraph subject, "Old Reliable," which has to do with a bank employee taking the blame for a robbery which was committed by the banker's son and serving time therefore. The son goes west and returns to take up the management of his father's bank. "Old Reliable" has just been released from the penitentiary and has gone to work in a restaurant. The banker's son enters with "Old Reliable's" daughter, who does not know where her father is. The son makes love to the girl and "Old Reliable" discloses his identity, and tells the daughter in the miscreant's presence, the true story of the robbery. The banker chafes to overhear this conversation, puts in his appearance, banishes his son and re-instates "Old Reliable" to his former position of trust in the bank.

"The Mystery of the Laughing Death" is a detective story of unusual merit and is most cleverly portrayed. "Whiffles Picks a Partner" from the studio of Pathé, fills the comedy part of the program.

Mutual Girl at the Lion
This number of "Our Mutual Girl" will be extremely interesting to ladies in general, as it is an exhibition of the very latest styles in dresses and hats. Margaret also meets Blanch King, the noted actress and sees her perform. Everybody will like "Our Mutual Girl" today as well as the two-reel feature Kay-Bee picture, entitled "The Trap." It is a stirring photoplay of military life on the frontier, supposedly in the year 1875. "The Trap" embraces a splendid explosion scene and is a well handled production. The comedy number for today is from the Thanhouser studios and is called "The Tin Soldier and the Doll." The plot is hinged on the dream of a little girl and will be a well liked film as it is handled in an exceptionally clever manner.

Tonight is pennant night at the Lion.

Perils of Pauline
The word "pirate" suggests a thrill and in the next episode of "The Perils of Pauline," which will be shown at the Lion theatre Wednesday and Thursday, Pauline meets a pirate and is going with him to a far-off island to recover a vast treasure that is hidden there. Now comes more perils for Pauline, for of course the villain Owen is behind the scheme and Harry Marvin has some more trouble protecting Pauline from her perils. Read the story, it will make seeing the picture more enjoyable.
