

OPERA BOUFFE IN DIPLOMACY

Former Senator Beveridge Declares That Our Handling of the Mexican Question Has Set the Rest of the World to Laughing.

Last Tuesday night former Senator Albert J. Beveridge in an address before the Progressive Club of Indianapolis, speaking of the Mexican situation under the heading of Vaudeville Diplomacy, said:

"No man in this country wants war, now or ever, unless the price of peace is national humiliation or national dishonor. The mistakes in Mexican affairs made during the last sixteen months have steadily drawn us toward war, and the present situation, instead of preventing war, is sowing the seeds of serious troubles in the future."

"What we need is a policy which will settle things in that distracted country for all time to come. But instead of this we are attempting to cover an active volcano with tissue paper, and in doing so we are destroying the work of more than a century of American statesmanship."

Laughing Stock
"The administration's lack of policy has surrendered our position and lowered us in opinion of other nations until former Ambassador Guild declares that we now are a laughing stock in the chancelleries of the world."

"The last of these blunders is the acceptance of the 'A. B. C. mediation' to get us out of our tangle in Mexico which proceeding blunders get us into and which the administration now confesses that it can not alone get us out."

"If our government had intended to mix in Mexican matters at all and had undertaken promptly to straighten out that country's distracted affairs, it would have been big and generous of us to ask the three most stable South American countries to take part in our work, under our guidance, direction and supremacy. Even this would not have been without hazard."

Bad to Worse
"But instead of this, we have helped matters go on from bad to worse."

until the American government has become so tangled up in Mexican factional warfare; the administration admits that the United States can not alone deal with the situation; and in this plight three weaker countries offer to get the United States out of its predicament, and the administration accepts.

"Where is now our high place as the first power in the western hemisphere, our position as one of the first powers in the world, which more than a century of nonpartisan statesmanship had won for us? Or do we no longer care what place we hold in the family of nations?"

What to Mediate?
"Just what is there to mediate? The administration says that Huerta must go in any event. How, then, can there be an 'mediation' with Huerta?"

"Suppose that the 'A. B. C. mediators' sustain Huerta. Where does that leave the United States?"

"Or suppose, as is possible, this 'mediation' finally brings about a Latin American solidarity as against the United States. Where does that leave the United States, not only as to our power, prestige and importance in international affairs, but as to our trade and commercial relations throughout the western hemisphere?"

"But suppose Huerta resigns. Is the mediation then at an end. If so, the records of history will show that the 'A. B. C.' interference in our foreign affairs rid us of a single embarrassing individual whom our own administration was powerless to eliminate."

"What else are the 'A. B. C. mediators' to mediate for us? Are they going to decide the form of apology for the affront to our flag? Can any one imagine Great Britain, Germany, France, or any first-class power, in a like situation, consenting to that?"

"Are the 'mediators' to settle for us the reparation to be made for the killing of our sailors and marines at Vera Cruz? No; for if, as the administration declares, we are not at war, then by the law of nations, we are the ones who must pay in hard cash for the taking of Vera Cruz; and the mediators must so determine."

"Thus, too, the administration placed the American government definitely against one faction in Mexico; and this inevitably led to placing the American government on the side of the other faction in Mexico."

"The administration said that not only must Huerta get out, but that no other satisfactory solution to Huerta should be made possible."

"Thus the present administration sanctioned and encouraged the sale of tens of thousands of rifles and millions of cartridges, hundreds of machine guns and large munitions of war to the 'revolutionists,' led by the professional bandit, murderer and convict, Villa."

"Such is the vaudeville diplomacy that has placed the United States in its present sorry plight."

"Having taken Vera Cruz, it became our duty to prepare for the worst, and therefore to seize and hold the railroad from that seaport to the City of Mexico. Our war department urged that this be done. The administration refused. So, if hostilities come, the Huerta government can blow up every tunnel and destroy every bridge; and the newspapers report that it has already laid mines to do so."

"The result is that if our army finally must go to the City of Mexico, hundreds and perhaps thousands of lives will be lost through this neglect."

"And this policy has been called 'watchful waiting.' Is it not rather 'reckless drifting?' In our whole history can a single example be found to justify it?"

"Shall we do our plain duty now like men with firmness and clear vision or shall we wait through months and years of rapine and bloodshed until at last events scourge us to the doing of our now inevitable work which every day's delay makes more difficult?"

"Shall we brand ourselves as the Cain of nations excusing ourselves from our duty to civilization with the answer, 'Am I my brother's keeper?' and let other nations perform that task which, under God, is the sacred duty of the United States?"

MORE TIES RESULT OF LAST BILLIARD GAME

Last evening Brunst defeated Wood in the play off for third and fourth prize in the five-men tie at the St. Elmo. Brunst by defeating Wood makes a second three-handed tie for third and fourth between Wood Avery and Brunst.

Wood lost his game by the small margin of one point. There has been a great deal of interest connected with the games. There will be plenty of room for the expected large crowd to-night when Wood meets Avery for the third time. Each has defeated the other so it looks like a game well worth seeing.

The game will take place promptly at 8 o'clock at the St. Elmo parlors.

MEMORIAL DAY

(MRS. LUNA B. WILLARD)
Just how many incidents have attributed to the origin of Memorial day, we cannot say. It has been stated that the custom was suggested by a German practice of strewing the graves of soldiers with flowers.

Another reason given, was that it was a beautiful tribute for the sake of mothers, wives, daughters and sweethearts who had given of their dearest to their country's call; also as a commemoration of the dead who fell in the fratricidal strife between the northern and southern armies, and a custom in which the surviving participants in that strife, might find consolation. It is also a loving service to preserve remembrance of the union of America's chivalrous patriots, after such a strenuous past.

At all times flowers have been considered a token of affection and esteem, and have been placed with gentle hands on the earth mounds under whose cover repose the sacred remains of humanity which are awaiting resurrection's morn.

On May 11th, 1870, John A. Logan appointed May 30 as a day set apart for decorating the graves of the comrades who died during the struggle of the rebellion. In the south May 29th was observed as Memorial day and the graves of the Confederate soldiers and sailors were decorated.

May 30th is a national day on which we may honor our dead. We know it is good that we choose to place flowers on their graves, for in a more sacred manner we cannot follow their memory. Today we feel that the commingling of American hearts has placed us on a broad field of patriotism, that we of one kin may bravely be true to the call of humanity. Patriotism in its truest sense will open our alabaster tombs for the anointing of our living for the remembrance of our dead, and the common good of all.

Away with the patriotism that has prevailed in the narrow hearts that cause humanity to suffer, that upholds a government where subjects hate their fellowmen.

American patriotism does not dwell under the belief that it is right to ignore the cry of the poor, the struggle of humanity nor the service of the patriot.

With united hearts let us transmit our trust and best motives to our posterity and may we not forget that man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn. May we with a common cause "laurel the graves of our dead."

FIRE IN VELLIE GARAGE

Much Excitement, Trifling Damage in Tucson
(Special to The Republican.)
TUCSON, May 23.—Fire broke out in the Vellie garage, Bolknop street, in the center of the business district, at three o'clock this afternoon. R. E. Fishburn, owner, was burned about the hands. He was using a drop light and had insulation caused a short circuit from which a can of gasoline caught fire. The fire department was quickly on the scene and extinguished the blaze. One car was damaged. The excitement was intense, but the damage was trifling.

COMMON SENSE AS APPLIED TO POLITICS

(By Geo. B. Wilcox)

For some years past the thinking American voters have in many localities, found it necessary in order to defeat the selfish interests and ring control of their local municipal governments, to organize themselves into "Good Government Leagues" or place non-partisan tickets in the field, thus recognizing the fact that political parties that have been in power for a long term of years are apt to ignore the wishes of the rank and file of their parties, and run their local governments for the benefit of the few who hold the offices.

The honest voter, regardless of his party relation or affiliation, never hesitates to vote for these non-partisan candidates in local elections, if he is satisfied the candidates are more honest and better qualified to fill the office than are the candidates of his ring controlled party.

We have the greatest respect for the voter who is broad enough to break away from his party in this manner. When the good of his community demands it, but these same honest voters when approached on the subject of voting in the same patriotic and intelligent manner when the good of their state or the nation demands it, will quite often, in fact, most always dodge the issue by telling you that they and their fathers before them have been democrats, republicans or socialists for years and that they cannot think of severing their party ties.

This attitude on the part of an intelligent voter seems absurd to us. They admit that the local party leaders are working not for the best interests of their community, nor for the best interests of their party as a whole, but for their own personal interests. They may admit that the same conditions exist in the state and nation, but as these conditions are more remote, they fail to rise to the call of patriotism, as against partisanship.

The progressive party is made up of the thinking men and women of this nation who were broad enough and patriotic enough to throw off the old party yoke both local and national, when they became convinced that the old parties had fallen into the hands of those who had lost all sense of patriotism and justice. This party at its birth formulated a contract with the people to correct certain specified evils, and this contract seemed so fair and equitable that over 4,000,000 republicans and democrats signed it and have dedicated themselves to the work of carrying out this contract; and where ever it has been possible to do so, they have kept faith with the people.

Some of our good friends of both the old parties, now inform us that they believe our contract is a good one, that all its provisions are just and equitable, and some of them admit that their own party leaders are untrustworthy, but, as they have always done business with the old republican or democrat corporation, they feel that they cannot change their place of business, regardless of the fact that their old firm has become corrupt and untrustworthy. They tell us that at one time their organization was conducted by officers who were honest and conducted their business in a manner satisfactory to the majority of its stock holders, and for that reason they cannot leave the old firm although it is now controlled by officers who are using the organization for their own selfish interests. These good people even go so far as to invite us to come back, place our contract in the hands of these same corrupt officials and trust to them and Providence for a faithful carrying out of this contract with the people. Of course this proposition is one that any business man would call absurd. If a business man finds that a corporation or firm with whom he has been doing business for years, has elected new officers and that these new officers are cheating him in every transaction he has with them, he will not hesitate one minute about transferring his business to another house whose management he knows to be honest. He cares nothing for the "name" then.

My friends the time has come for you to choose; you have your choice of progressivism or democracy. There are enough progressives now in the United States to defeat, and keep on defeating the old republican machine from now until kingdom come. There are not quite enough progressives to defeat the national democratic organization. As between the two old parties the real progressive would rather see the semi-democratic party in power than the organization that made the progressive party a necessity. With the assistance of honest republicans, the progressive party can defeat the democratic organization and thus carry out its contract with the people. Now take your choice, come with us or live under a democratic administration. You say our platform is all right; it is. Just such trademarks, if you sought, your old political bosses, threaten to steal our platform, and kidnap our leader. They wish to use the planks from our platform to patch up their sinking ship and use our leader to pilot her over the political shoals to the harbor of refuge. Of course the pirate crew, will be in the cabin, ready to overpower the pilot and take possession of the old craft after she had safely arrived.

We progressives cannot stand for this program; we have made other arrangements; we realized what we were doing when we did it, and the length of the seige does not worry us. It is up to you my republican brethren to say whether it will be long or short. We are prepared to fight for our principles until the end of time or victory.

EMPRESS TOSSERS BEAT SAVOYANS 17 TO SEVEN

What is baseball? You could not have answered that question had you journeyed out yesterday to see the actors and actresses of the Empress and the Savoy theaters play the national pastime, or rather play at it. Who ever told the misguided bunch of entertainers (not on a ball lot) that they knew anything about the game should have been arrested for perpetrating cruelty to animals. It was awful. Bert Roach who is just about able to tell a baseball from a German noodle, was one of the star features and almost got to first base, that is, once the "ump" made a mistake and called three balls on the blond song bird at the iron play house, but as Roach could not hit a moving wagon with hand full of shot he massacred a lot of atmosphere and sat down on the bench.

John Acosta (better known as Wop) who, when he is working, doesn't mention this to Brady of the Empress, fanned out fifteen men, but like the man who threw a rock at Bert Reeves and hit him, he deserved no credit, as none of the batsmen knew he was playing ball. Some one shouted

"fifteen minutes", just as Farnell went to bat and he struck out trying to "make up" his mind. It was an awful affair and for that the bunch will repeat it again the S. P. C. A. will be asked to call out the fire department if the repeat symptoms develop.

PITTYPAT AND TIPPYTOE

All day they come and go—Pittypat and Tippytoe!
Footprints up and down the hall, Playthings scattered on the floor, Finger marks along the wall, Tell-tale smudges on the door; By these presents you shall know, Pittypat and Tippytoe.

How they riot at their play! And a dozen times a day! In their troop demanding bread—Only buttered bread will do, And the butter must be spread Inches thick with sugar, too! And I never can say "No," Pittypat and Tippytoe.

Sometimes there are griefs to soothe, Sometimes ruffled brows to smooth; For I much regret to say Pittypat and Tippytoe! Sometimes interrupt their play With an interjective spat, Fie, for shame! to quarrel so—Pittypat and Tippytoe!

Of the thousand worrying things, Every day recurrent brings! Hands to scrub and hair to brush, Search for playthings gone amiss, Many a wee complaint to hush, Many a little bump to kiss; Life seems one vain, fleeting show, To Pittypat and Tippytoe!

And when day is at an end, There are little duties to mend; Little frocks are strangely torn, Little shoes great holes reveal, Little hose, but one day worn, Rudely yawn at toe and heel! Who but you could work such woe, Pittypat and Tippytoe!

But when comes this thought to me: "Some there are that chafeless be," Stealing to their little beds, With a love I cannot speak, Tenderly I stroke their heads— Fondly kiss each velvet cheek, God help those who do not know, A Pittypat and Tippytoe!

On the floor and down the hall, Rudely smutched upon the wall, There are proofs in every kind Of the havoc they have wrought, And upon my heart you'd find Just such trademarks, if you sought; O, how glad I am 'tis so, Pittypat and Tippytoe.

COLORADO WOMAN'S COLLEGE

The people of Colorado have just reason to be proud of the Colorado Woman's college. This is its fifth year. It opened the first year with forty students and has increased each year till today we have nearly 200 young women.

It is located in the Montclair district of Denver, a twenty-minute ride on Aurora street cars, east of the capitol building. The magnificent scenery of mountain view and sanitary conditions can not be surpassed in the United States. It's wonderful growth proves that the demand for it was great, though under the auspices of the Baptists it receives young women of all denominations, and of no denomination. Christian atmosphere makes it a wholesome and safe institution for a daughter from any good home.

It is the only woman's college for the higher education of the young in all the Rocky Mountain region. The quality of the work done there, and the opportunity of character building, bespeak for the college a great future.

I hope some reader who is seeking a school of high rank for herself or daughter will write for a catalogue. Besides the regular college courses leading to the degree of Bachelor of Arts, special attention is given to home economics. This department is very popular. A young woman who has earned a degree in this department has indeed won for herself a crown as queen of her own home.

The department of music does fine work. Piano, voice and violin are well taught.

The expression department of the college is able and acceptably directed.

The college gym club, composed of twenty-two sweet-voiced young women, gives entertainments to large audiences.

There has been added to the equipment this year a large auditorium which will seat several hundred, and seven more dormitory rooms in a nearby building.

The preparatory department takes students who have finished the eighth grade. The graduates from an accredited high school, or preparatory school of equal merit, is eligible to college classes without examination.

Expenses are reasonable. Send me your name for a catalogue. The social life of the student is Denver, Colo., 4428 Elizabeth street.

MOOSE INITIATE RECORD CLASS

In Special Session Loyal Order of Moose Increases Its Membership and Acts Upon Host of New Applications.

Applying for membership under the special dispensation granted by the supreme lodge some time ago, one of the largest classes in the history of Phoenix lodge, No. 708, Loyal Order of Moose, was initiated yesterday afternoon at a special session in the new quarters of the order. While all the furniture for the lodge room has not arrived there was enough so that the members and the applicants gained a pretty good idea of just what the new home of the order will be when present plans have been entirely carried out.

The former quarters of the Arizona Club are being transformed into a home for the Moose lodge. The large banquet hall is being utilized as a lodge room and the smaller rooms are in various stages of preparation for use as reading rooms, buffet, headquarters for the secretary and steward, a directors' and trustees' room and such other quarters as will be needed to make the new home the most comfortable lodge quarters in the southwest.

Practically all the officers of the lodge were at their regular stations yesterday afternoon when the session was called to order. Dictator George N. MacBean called the meeting to order and expressed himself pleased at the large and representative class about to be initiated into the mysteries of the order. Among the more prominent who rode the goat and survived were Collector of Internal Revenue Carpentier, State Treasurer Johnson, Constable James Murphy, Frank Hilderbran, Elmer Warren, A. H. McLeelan, J. T. Whitney and others. There are still about 100 whose applications have been approved and who will be eligible for initiation at the regular meeting to be held on Tuesday evening. In this connection National Director C. G. Beum urges that those whose applications have been approved present themselves at this meeting.

Do not declare that he

On darkest night without a light
He'd hear her telling it!

FUNSTON STRENGTHENS FORCE AT WATERWORKS NEAR VERA CRUZ
