AN AMBASSADOR OF COTTON GROWERS

Proposal to Send W. S. Dorman to the English Markets

In the matter of raising a fund to pay the expenses of W. S. Dorman to the English cotton market to present the claims of the growers of long staple cotton in this valley, a meeting of the board of trade will be held today. The sum of $1000 will be required. Of this amount $1100 has been pledged by the cotton growers of Mesa, Chandler and Tempe and by south side commercial bodies so that only $500 more is required.

The department of agriculture which has taken a deep interest in the growing of long staple cotton in the southwest will send two representatives with Mr. Dorman. One of them will be Chairman Schofield of the Southwestern Cotton committee and Mr. Martin of the Bureau of Markets of the department. Secretary Redfield of the department of commerce has also expressed a wish that his department may be represented in the mission.

WONDERFUL PANORAMA OF THE TEMPE BRIDGE

To enlarge from a reduced panorama photograph, and keep clear all the wonderful detail of the original negative was the big order placed with J. M. McCulloch, The Republic's staff photographer by State Engineer Lamar Cobb. The subject was the Tempe bridge, and the final result is on display in one of the west windows of the Dwight R. Heard company.

By exercising judgment as to the proper position for his panorama machine, McCulloch was able to get the bridge without any of that curve which usually distorts the top of a picture. From the big panorama made, a smaller negative was made to enable the photographer to place it in the enlarging frame. Then the final product was focused up to five feet, which is the length of the panorama.

Another view of the bridge—the same one, by the way—which appeared on the front page of The Republican, is shown near the long picture. Both were taken during floods in the Verde.

VALJEAN LIVES AGAIN IN MISERABLES' FILM

Among the many feature motion pictures which now flood the theaters perhaps none is known better than Victor Hugo's masterpiece, "Les Miserables." The romantic drama, the story of which is from the checkered life of Jean Valjean is considered by the critics to be one of the greatest historical films ever produced, and great care has been taken to make it authentic in costuming and other necessary detail.

The scenes around which the picture was filmed were in many instances the stamping ground of the original Valjean, and in placing this screen story upon the market, the manufacturers assert it is the last word in motion picture photography. This is easily understood when the cost is considered. Determined to make it a leader among films, the maker incurred an enormous expense of over $100,000 and yet not one dollar was wasted on the production.

Whether viewed in the illustrations of the book, with which nearly every reader is familiar, or merely as a dramatic show apart from the literary consideration, the scenes are most absorbing and of no little educational value.

PLAN $20,000 HOME FOR PIONEER WOMEN

Generous Bequest of Late W. A. Parsons Makes Possible Large Addition to State Institution

A $20,000 addition to the plant of the Pioneers' home in Prescott, to provide quarters for women and for married pioneers will be built in the near future if plans submitted by the executor of the W. C. Parsons estate are adopted by the state board of control. The amount set aside for the Pioneers' home in the disposition of the estate amounts to $40,000 half of which is available at the present time.

The matter of the Parsons bequest was taken up at a conference in Prescott this week between Charles R. Osburn, secretary of the state board of control, and J. Alexander, executor of the estate. It was Mr. Parsons' wish that the money should be used to provide increased quarters for aged and infirm pioneers, and at the meeting in Prescott, which was attended by Judge Wells and a number of others interested in the matter, the plans for an immediate enlargement of the home were favorably considered. The question will be taken up at the next meeting of the board of control and the disposal

Summer Residence Of Dr. Ancil Martin At Iron Springs

The board of directors of the Iron Springs Outing club has been busy with Iron Springs matters during the past few days and several meetings have been held. Matters under consideration are music for the summer; putting the finishing touches on the golf excursion, and entertaining the booster excursion to Prescott for breakfast on the morning of July 4th. At a meeting of the board of directors yesterday, committees were appointed for the purpose of entertaining the booster excursion, and by unanimous vote the Iron Springs Outing club invites the booster excursion to stop at Iron Springs for a few hours and have breakfast.

Many people wonder why Iron Springs has so much vegetation. Most of Iron Springs is on the north slope of the mountains, and it rains there frequently, when it is perfectly dry and clear here. Last week it rained several sharp showers three days in succession.

TOM TRENT DISCOVERS WHY AMERICANS LOST

Overland Manager Interviews Dopers From Indianapolis and Finds Out About Foreign Cars

"America certainly deserved all it got handed to the home drivers at the Indianapolis race" declared Manager Tom Trent of the Overland auto company on his return from Los Angeles yesterday. "I talked with the motor fiends who had just returned from the Memorial Day meet, and they told me why.

"There was not a foreign car—except the Mercedes of Ralph de Palma, which cost less than $12,000. Those De Lages and Sunbeams and Peugeot were maste-pieces of mechanism. Every part was lightened. Cranks, gears, pistons, every moving part was bored out and reamed to the last ounce possible for lightness and strength. The smallness and the light weight of the visiting cars was a big surprise. They do not seem able to build racers like these in America.

"Of course such a car would be impossible for road work. It simply would not stand up under the jolting. But fixed in that way, they are certainly some fast boats."

Since the departure of Jack Holmes Trent has been the manager for the Overland agency. His trip to the coast was for business reasons, purely, and he certainly accomplished wonders. He added twenty specials to his accessory line, the same to be here shortly.

"The automobile business in Los Angeles is poorer than it is here," he said. "Of course trade is slackening in all parts of the country, but less in Phoenix than in any place I have been."

THE BIG AND LITTLE FELLOWS

To The Editor of The Republican:

SIR—Inasmuch as you seem to think that there are only dentists, druggists and doctors to be considered, I wish to state for your enlightenment, that there are quite a number that have waited patiently for some expression of interest in the "common herd" through the columns of the Republican, but up to date, we have heard nothing, seen nothing, or read nothing, in your valuable paper which might be construed as a passing interest in hundreds of small business men of the City of Phoenix. From all accounts in The Republican the city seems to be composed of a very few who are worthy of consideration. Why is it that you do not seem to have the small business man or woman's interest at heart, in a time like this, when it is no disgrace to be on the side of the right?

We have searched your editorial columns diligently for some crumb of comfort and found nothing.

The duties of the editor are, if the times are not radically changed, to keep the public acquainted with the municipal conditions, to stand for the right, and, at all times be liberal in the disbursements of those things, editorially, which clear the troubled horizon for the weak. Be fair, just, and reasonable.

The big fellow will take care of himself, so if you must take up a cudgel, take it up in behalf of the little fellow.

J. R. LAMBERT.

(To Mr. Lambert, we would say that the classes of occupations mentioned by him are the only ones which have so far brought themselves to the front. The Republican has editorially urged no specific relief for either but has only insisted that the ordinance should be amended so as to be made just and equitable to all, to the little fellow and to the big fellow. Preferably to the little fellow, for as Mr. Lambert says, the big fellow can take care of himself. We take this occasion to call the attention of Mr. Lambert to an error in his statement: "Inasmuch as you seem to think that there are only dentists, druggists and doctors to be considered, etc." we would say to him that not only have we not asked consideration for these classes but also The Republican has not to this moment editorially alluded to them or their demands.)

of the remaining $20,000 decided on at the time when it becomes available.

The need of more room, making possible the opening of quarters for women, has been recognized for some time, but the appropriations have not been of sufficient amount to allow of such an addition. Accommodations for pioneers and their wives are also needed, and as the plans presented will provide for just these needs, it is very probable that they will be accepted by the state board of control.

FINANCE AND MARKETS

(ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH)

NEW YORK, June 10.—At no time today was the average of stock exchange prices removed more than a small fraction from yesterday's close. In its more important phases the speculative position was unchanged, such news, as was received produced no effect upon the quotations. Buyers were scarce, although the undertone was good most of the day and prices ultimately gave way slightly on account of absence of demand. The Lehigh Valley, Missouri Pacific and a few other shares showed distinct heaviness. The United States Steel's monthly tonnage report, showing a decrease of 278,000 tons was so close to trade estimates that it went for naught as a market factor. The outward movement of gold was unchecked, four million was engaged today for shipment to Europe. Cables reported a better feeling abroad, with improvement in financial and political conditions. Slight irregularity appeared in the bond market. Most issues reflected quiet strength with weakness confined principally to convertible and other speculative issues. Total sales represented a par value of $2,400,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.
